There is a sugar to match. We have no idea who did the silver but it had to be one of the better silver companies because of the quality of the work. Heisey sold glass to most of the leading silver companies for mounting or decorating. This photo is shared with us by Inez DeMuth, Ohio.

From the desk of ...

your President Greetings from Heiseyland! We are busily preparing for another onslaught of Heisey collectors on September 16. Many people have reserved booth space for the Mini-Show-Flea Market but I am sure there is room for more, especially This should be another great show if year's past are an indication. For HCA members the show will open at dawn and it will last until three p.m. when teardown begins in order to get ready for the dinner. Jack Metcalf will need a lot of help in tearing down on Saturday and for that matter for setting up on Friday evening. Please volunteer without having to be asked. You are part of this club.

See back page for the day's schedule. We will dedicate the administrative offices at 11 a.m. in front of the building. This time we are sure the mayor will really be there. There will be an open house after the dedication. We hope we will have some interesting material in the library by that time though it will be some time before we have it all ready for your study. We started with the easiest. The microfiche will also be available in the new library.

Speaking of offices, Debbie and I are very happy with ours. It makes our work so much easier by having everything so handy. I haven't yet moved everything down from home and am still working partly out of cardboard boxes but that will soon end. Actually we only have been in the offices a few weeks as it took longer than we expected to get everything ready (furnishings etc.).

Cordial orders have arrived at a fast rate but I do not have a current count. Sam tells me that the antique car taxi service will make pick-ups at the Gas Company parking lot on Church St., the Sheraton Inn and the city parking lot just north of the Sheraton. If you do need a pick-up try to contact someone during the day.

Our Bob Evans stock has split again 2 for 1. That has been a wonderful gift from Keith Bradbury. He has given us 250 shares and it has grown to 1100 through splits. Wish we would receive more gifts like that!

We just added a 1533 Wampum bowl in cobalt to our permanent collection. There are only two items presently known in Wampum in cobalt.

See you in a few weeks. Till then,

Happy Collecting. Louise

Take note of the ads for the various club's annual shows and flea markets. These will be great places to buy.

William S. (Pete) Rehbeck

Mr. Rehbeck died on Saturday, August 12th. He was born in Newark in 1900 He was employed by the A.H. Heisey & Co. for 35 years and was a mouldmaker there. He also worked at the Holophane Co. which is across the street from the old Heisey plant. He was a member of Heisey Collectors of America and was very pleased with the club. Pete made the donkey and elephant candles which many of you have purchased when in the museum.

Pete was one of the nicest people anyone could hope to meet and we were very fond of him. We will miss him at the museum. He is survived by his three sons. Timothy of Newark, William of Columbus and Gary of Los Angeles, Calif. All of them are Heisey enthusiasts.

We extend our sincerest sympathy to all of them.

1483 STANHOPE 494 SWINGTIME Plate Etching

by CARL SPARACIO

I am becalmed in the sea of summer. So little has happened since convention. Other summers were filled with flea markets and antiques shows, weren't they? Probably not but that's the way I remember them. Maybe it's because I'm not chasing after the fleas and shows this year. If they're not on our doorstep they might as well be in China.

There were three reports out of Brimfield about some Fancy Loop COR — DIALS (!) being sold there. Trouble is every reporter was passing on a story they had heard. Not one of them had actually seen the cordials. Fancy Loop was not made in a cordial and though we've learned that nothing is impossible this seems highly unlikely. I suspect the story was initiated by someone who can't tell a wine from a sherry. Some Fancy Loop somethings changed hands at Brimfield and I'd like to hear from the caveat who should have emptored.

In the past we've made mention of #3408 Jamestown in cobalt. I was happy to be able to buy one at convention with a lot of help from Jim Jordan and absolutely no help from Jim Kennon Jr. Prior to this I had only seen one other goblet in this pattern in cobalt and that came out of Hawaii a half a world away. Both goblets could have come out of the same set because they both have lousy color and the glass in the bowls is really poor. Does anyone know of a cobalt Jamestown having the quality we have come to expect in Heisey stemware? Perhaps this is why colbalt in Jamestown is so rare --- they couldn't get it to come out right. Maybe someone will come up with an answer for me.

This month we'll talk about *'s 1483 and 4083 Stanhope. *4083 is the blown version of 1483 which was a pressed line. These stems are difficult to find although other pieces in Stanhope seem to pop up with some degree of regularity. Neither the pressed nor the blown stemware will be found with the Diamond H which should give you a great chance at a bargain when and if you find them in your favorite consignment shop.

Manufactured only for a couple of years in the late thirties, The Stanhopes show the Art Deco influence of that period. If Art Deco is your thing then Stanhope is for you; particularly in the pressed version.

#1483 was made in a wine, cocktail, chapagne, goblet and soda. What, no cordial? The wine and the goblet are the goodies. It will be found etched. #490 Maytime is the etching which seems to show up most frequently but it was also etched in #'s491 Frosty Dawn, 494 Swingtime and 605 Frosted. I like the 605 Frosted best. The others are too frilly for the Stanhope design which really doesn't need decoration.

#1483 also was cut with 880 Salem, 881 Kashmin, 882 Yorkshire, 883 Royal York

The blown line of Stanhope (4083) is much simpler in design and, of course, daintier than its pressed counterpart. Here we were offered a wine, cocktail, oyster cocktail, claret, saucer champagne and a goblet along with some footed sodas. What, no cordial again?

Etchings were confined to #'s 490 Maytime and 494 Swingtime while in cuttings there was a choice of #'s 885 Incognito and 886 Kings Ransom, 882

1483 Stanhope Goblet 491 FROSTY DAWN Plate Etching

Yorkshire, 880 Salem, 883 Royal York.

Limelight is the only color offered in the Stanhope line. Perhaps we had better call it Zircon because this pattern dates back to the time when Limelight was Zircon.

The Stanhope stems are rather distinctive so you should have no trouble spotting them.

If you have not seen Virginia and Loren Yeakley's new color book you are in for a treat. Some rare colored stems are shown. You will find the price guide enlightening if you will remember that it is only a guide.

We'll see you at the cordial dinner next month. If you've found a fantastic stem over the summer --- I don't want to hear about it.

* HEISEY DECORATIONS

by NEILA BREDEHOFT

Heisey produced two plate etchings with thistle motifs -- #430 Highlander and #432 Londonderry. Both were new in 1919 and both were discontinued sometime before 1924.

For the past several years, there has been much confusion surrounding Heisey's thistle patterns. A thistle pattern which WAS NOT DONE by Heisey is frequently found. Both the quality of the etching and the glass itself are excellent. All pieces I have seen have been crystal, usually medium optic and the stemware had pulled stems. Some dealers and collectors have thought this etching to be Heisey, but it is not.

This etching was new in 1907 and was called "Thistle Design" No 10 Deep Plate Etch by Central Glass Works, Wheeling, West Virginia. As the accompanying ad shows, it was made as late as November, 1921, and possibly later. This accounts for its relative abundance and good quality. The most obvious difference between the two is that both Heisey's thistle motifs show closed buds with thin petals extending only from the tips, while Central Glass' thistle is in full bloom with a wide band of thin petals extending from the base of the flower. Also both Heisey designs are much more compact while the leaves and flowers on the Central Glass etching extend further down the bowls of the stems.

Both Highlander and Londonderry were produced on crystal only and on identical lines. This must have caused at least some confusion at the time of manufacture. None of the items will be found marked with the Diamond H.

TUMBLERS

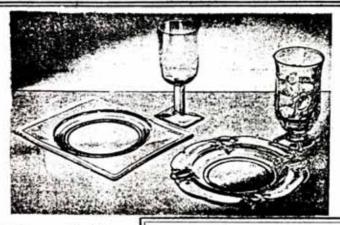

by TOM BREDEHOFT

One item at the show which hadn't been seen before was a 6 oz. Old Sandwich Soda in Tangerine. This was the second piece of #1404 in tangerine to surface. Two pieces ago we didn't know it was made in Old Sandwich and now we have some. (HCA that is.)*

The amber #602 which was mentioned last month is the one most people refer to as #393 Narrow Flute but it was not made in amber.

Another tumbler which this writer didn't know about was in the display and is still privately owned. This was the #1637A Town and Country 8 oz. tumbler in Black. A third previously unseen tumbler showed up at the "Stump the Dummy" session this year; this was similar to #400 except that it had an internal horizontal narrow optic effect, which we are going to call Prison Stripe Optic until the real name comes along. The correct number of this tumbler is unknown. This item was generously donated to the Museum by its owners.

There were two or three of the scarce Dawn and Limelight Ripple screen optic #6060 Country Club sodas in various sizes available. For as uncommon as they are, this was a lot to see for sale. There were a small number of the #6091 amber footed Cabochon tumblers and sodas around; there were six #1415 Twentieth Century

From the February, 1934 China, Glass and Lamps. The elusive #1447 Rococo tumbler is shown. Right #4044 New Era, at left was first called MODERN?

The illustration on the center of the page shows two of the new and attractive creations of A. H. Heisey & Co. The Rococo pattern at the right has been designed from the Louis XV period and is distinctly feminine in feeling. The other glassware is the new Heisey Modern. This is certainly in keeping with the times and has been designed along plain and simple lines that will blend into any ytpe of home or period of decoration.

sodas in flamingo in the show but they quickly disappointed, one going to the Museum. And lastly, another which went to the Museum was the very elusive #1447 Rococo tumbler or footed soda. It sure would have been a great convention if there hadn't been so many great tumblers there vying for my attention.

Next month we really will get back on the regular format of giving you information on Heisey's tumblers.

Editor's Note: The first known piece was an 8" plate which is also on loan to the museum. The acquisition committee purchased the tumbler.

#459 BASKET

by JOSEPH D. LOKAY

An application for a design patent for Heisey basket #459 was filed by Andrew J. Sanford on June 3, 1915. He was granted design patent 47,739 on August 17, 1915. The patent was assigned to the A.H. Heisey Company of Newark, Ohio. Similar to the other Heisey basket patents, this patent refers to the basket as a vase. A copy of the patent drawing is shown with this article.

The basket is composed of the basket body or sometimes referred to as the basket proper and the handle. The basket body design is 8 panels with each panel forming a scollop at the top of the basket body. The 8 panels concave downward to form an octagon base on which the basket sits. The octagon base is not solid but is hollow as the actual bottom of the basket body is about 1" above the bottom of the octagon base. The base, or some may prefer to call it a base rim because of the open space, is ground and polished.

The basket is signed with a large diamond H on the inside bottom of the basket body. Of the several #459 baskets I have seen, none of the marks had the patent date 8-17-15 around the diamond H like some of the other Heisey baskets patented in 1915. At this time, I don't know if I've only seen baskets without a patent date or if the patent date was never included with the diamond H for the #459 baskets. The Heisey catalogs and price lists make reference to the patent number 47,739.

The "459 basket is mentioned in three of the Heisey catalogs and price lists on file at the HCA Museum library: price list 206, circa 1-1-22; catalog 102, circa 1923 and catalog 109, circa 1929. The Heisey booklet "Table Glass & How To Use It" circa 1916 shows a "459 basket. Heisey catalog 76, circa 1915 makes no reference to the "459 basket nor does catalog 14-B, circa 1930 or catalog 211-16, circa 1935 make reference to the "459 basket. As previously mentioned, the patent is dated 1915. Thus, the production period for the "459 basket is estimated at 16 years, 1915 to 1930.

The #459 basket came in two sizes: 7 inch and 8 inch. The size refers to the width of the basket from the outside of one handle to the outside of the other end of the handle measured at the point where the handle joins the basket body. The 7" basket is 13½" in overall height. The basket body is 7" high, and the octagon base is 4¼" across two opposite flat surfaces. The 8" basket is 15" in overall height. The basket body is 8" high, and the octagon base is 5" across two opposite flat surfaces.

There were 3 Heisey etchings used on the "459 baskets: "351 Mums, "352 Anne and "353 Susan. Baskets with these deep plate etchings are shown in the Ream and Bredehoft book, "Etchings and Carvings", pages 77-79, in large size pictures. They are also shown in Vogel Book II, page 158. That page is a copy of page 149 of Heisey catalog 102, owned by the museum, which is reprinted here.

Five Heisey cuttings were used on the #459 baskets: #612 (no name yet), #613 (no name yet), #614 (no name yet), #679 Windsor and #693 Cloister. The #613 cutting is shown in the Table Glass booklet (see Heisey News April, 1974, page 11) and the #679 and #693 cuttings are mentioned in price list 206.

Heisey baskets were also cut by the Lewis & Neblett Company. Two #459 Baskets with Lewis & Neblett cuttings were shown in the May 1976 issue of the Heisey News, page 15. An interesting decorating concept for a #459 basket is on display at the HCA Museum. Every other panel or four of the eight panels were stained red. Flowers were then cut on all eight panels. The red was cut away when cutting the flowers on the four red panels. Thus, the flowers of clear glass stand out in the four panels where they were surrounded by red color.

#1615 Flame

#1614 Plume

buJACK METCALF

This month we have two candlesticks from Heisey's late period-#1614 Plume and #1615 Flame. The term Flame seems to be a generally accepted name for 1615 while Plume for 1614 is strictly my own designation. There is no special reason to take them together except for the consecutive Heisey numbers which implies a near concurrent introduction. This is born out, in that neither is mentioned in the 1949 catalog and price list #30 and both are listed in the 1950 catalog and price list #31, issued in September, 1950.

The 1951 and 1952 supplements also list both candleholders. Starting with the 1953 catalog *32, only the 1615 Flame is mentioned, indicating that 1614 was discontinued within the year. This is unfortunate as Plume is a very graceful candlestick. The 1615 Flame, on the other hand, has a more dramatic impact and was apparently more popular. At least Heisey produced it until they went out of business in 1957. Flame is pictured in the reprint catalog 33 which has been available for some time, and both are

by JACK METCALF, Chm

Well, the time for the annual Fall Fling Flea is almost here, and both seller and buyer are gearing up their anticipation for the flea market. With the project committee having opted this year for a more informal setting in our parking lot, we're sure that a good time will be had by all, as in the past.

A story from last year comes to mind, We had to get a last minute stand in for the food concession, and they weren't ready when the dealers started setting up. Well, a certain dealer was running around ravenously asking "where's the food? When's the food coming?" When the food did arrive, he rushed up and demanded "gimmee a hot dog, gimmee a hot dog!" Upon being told that nothing was ready yet, and the hot dogs were still ice cold, he replied "I don't care, just put it in a bun quick!" Well folks, he stood there and ate two of them like that. And not only did he survive, but went on to do yeoman service at our always great dinner.

The point is —— come prepared for anything, but mostly come prepared for fun. The dealers will be setting up as early as they can get up and get there; the public advertising is for an 8:30 A.M. start, but there are no fences and I hear that in the old days an occasional flashlight for setting up or early picking, was not unheard of.

SO-O-O-O, until September 16, happy hunting.

sketched in Vegel4. It is also shown in "Etchings & Carvings" by Ream & Bredehoft.

The popularity of Flame is attested to in that it was offered with several decorations. The Southwind and BelAir cuttings were both offered, as well as the Orchid and Rose etchings. At least one early listing indicated that the 516 Ivy etch was also available, but it was not offered again. In addition, on display at the museum is a single Flame candleholder bearing an unknown design with a gold filling in the etching.* This was most probably done by a decorating company, which would again increase its distribution. In one Heisey blurb, both 1614 and 1615 were suggested for use with epergnetts. One interesting point is that in a late catalog the 1615 Flame is included with the Waverly listing.

Their is no color listed for either and neither has shown up in any color to my knowledge, but if you happen to come across one in one of our "late colors" be sure and get it.

Neither of the two is what one would call common, but the longer produced Flame is more often seen than Plume. Both are marked at the constriction near the base and presumably Imperial has both molds but has never produced them. Editors Note - The #1615 was designed by Carl Cobal and we have seen his original drawing. Carl also designed many of the Silhouette etchings.

 The Candleholder in the museum with the gold came out of this factory when it closed

It is not too early to be thinking of your renewals for 1979. If you send them early it saves me a lot of time and it saves HCA money. With postage now being higher we really can't afford to send extra newsletters and one or two reminders to so many. We have been putting the reminder on the newsletters but it has not helped much. It also takes both me and the printer a lot of time to delete and then reinstate you, and we now have over 4000 members.

I will be glad to accept your renewals at the museum any day between 1 - 4 p.m. if you are local.

Your help will be appreciated.

HEISEY HUNTER Happenings.....

by BOB RYAN

Do you remember the most beautiful piece of Heisey that you have ever seen? Can you recall all the exquisite details? The superb design? The craftmanship? The warmth seemed to exude through the item right into your very being. The care that the workman lavished on this special piece of glass that brought it to its final brilliant fruition. How you cherished that memory and if you are lucky enough to own the beauty you can endulge frequently in savoring its beauty. Yet, no matter how breathtaking the item, how creative and unique it may be it can not compare to the treasure that has come to our clan. An exquisite masterpiece. Unique in design, yet similiar to another; all corners, the feet, the arms and the bottom polished to smooth finishes. After a good washing the entire outer surface glows with a warm beauty. There was only one of these I can guarantee. There may be similar ones in the future but this one will always be unique. Though master painters and sculptors have long labored over duplication no one has had the creative genius to duplicate without the help of the Greatest of all Artists for you see Colleen Rose Ryan is our new treasure and is an Irish lass of magnificent beauty. She made her long awaited entry into this wonderful world July 29, 1978 in mid afternoon. The similarity is to her beautiful mother.

There are many thrills in life but some are more special than others. I am not saying that marriage and the birth of each child given to us by God isn't a very special thrill it is, but then a grandchild is something special also. I now know why new grandparents can be so obnoxious at times with pictures etc., it is because, you see, a grandchild is something very special indeed. We are all just waiting for the time when we can take her in our arms and begin the ritual of loving her (some people refer to this as spoiling). Loving her is what is special for all the other amenities her parents can have that fun.

Please forgive the lack of glass in this month's column but I have no thoughts for it this month. For those of you I've bored run to a flea market and find yourself a piece of glass, I'll take my little lass.

Peace and may you all have a happy summer. Don't miss the September flea market or Mini-show whatever you call it, it is a special day each year. I'll come fortified with lots of pictures.

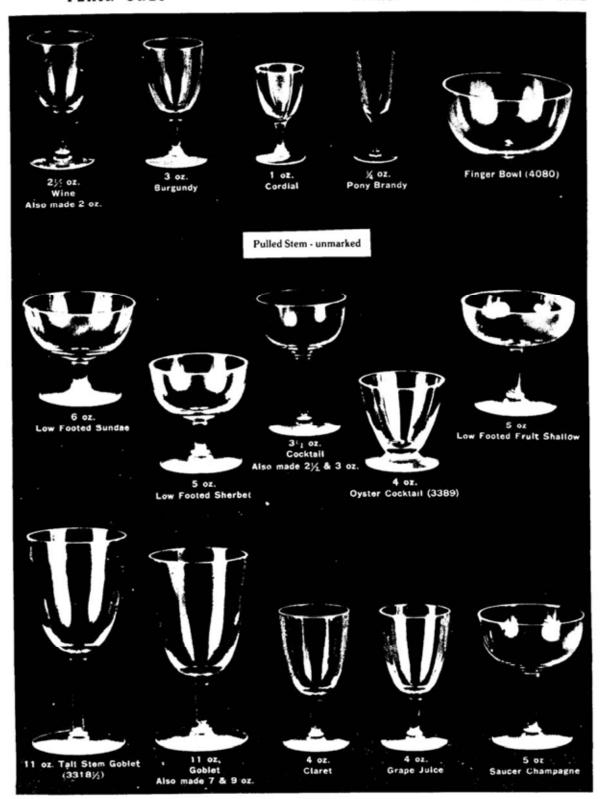

Fig. 1 - Models for Sandwich Glass

Comparison with dated examples of similar type from other factories indicates a date somewhere between 1850 and 1870 for these models. Some items may be earlier than others; but the dates indicated will probably cover the entire group here pictured, as well as those shown on the succeeding page. Owned by A. H. Heisey and Company.

Sandwich Models

By THE EDITOR

ROM all the land there has gone forth the prayer, "Give unto us a sign whereby we shall know Sandwich glass when we see it."

It is seldom that a universal appeal is aimed heavenward without receiving some measure of benign response. So, in the present instance, there comes, from a most unexpected quarter, a bit of remarkable evidence as to certain of the patterns which the Sandwich factory developed.

The making of pressed ware, it will be recalled, required the preparation of a metal mold in which had been cut the design which was to be transmitted to the soft glass forced against it. Obviously the cutting of such a mold involved the preliminary construction of some kind of model which should present an exact image of the finished object. Only by means of such a model could the maker be sure of the eventual aspect of the completed work. A model, too, would be convenient, if not absolutely essential, in providing a form from which might be taken casts whose intaglio pattern would give the mold maker an exact basis for his cutting.

And now to our story:

At some time in its history, the Sandwich glass factory had its models carved in mahogany. When the concern ceased operation, although the greater part of its records of all kinds were destroyed, several barrels of wooden models were preserved by one of the company's staff. In due course, these models came into possession of the late James E. Johnston, of Sandwich, who turned them over to Colonel A. H. Heisey, founder of the firm of A. H. Heisey & Company, glass manufacturers, of Newark, Ohio. The extensive interest in old Sandwich patterns led recently to investigation of the entire cache. As a result, the contents of three of the original barrels were found intact. Through courtesy of T. C. Heisey, Antiques is able to reproduce their more important items, some pictured from several different angles, so as to display their design to fullest advantage.

Even a brief study of these interesting mementos of glassmaking seems to suggest a plausible theory to explain their escape from destruction.

The Sandwich works, it will be recalled, suspended operations in 1888. The patterns here shown appear, for the most part, to belong to the late 1850's or to the earlier years of the subsequent decade. They had, therefore, been quite out of style for a full thirty years when the factory closed. Since no factories of any kind preserve indefinitely their models of discontinued lines, it is a fair guess that, long before trouble threatened the enterprise on Cape Cod, these mahogany carvings had been sold or given away by the Sandwich management. Whosoever was the recipient of the donation must have stowed it away in barn, attic, or cellar, quite apart from the factory. To some such circumstance the preservation of the group must be credited.

Of mahogany. The dolphin candlestick and several familiar salts are here recognizable.

A number of designs familiar to collectors of Sandwich are recognizable among the examples pictured — notably the dolphin candlestick, various salts, and several goblets whose surfaces are elaborately faceted.

The Heisey Company are, in terms of years, at any rate, logical inheritors of these Sandwich heirlooms. Colonel A. H. Heisey, founder of the concern, was in the glass business from the close of the Civil War. Before settling in Newark, Ohio, he was active in the Pittsburgh district, with his brother-in-law, James E. Duncan, son of George Duncan whose glass manufacturing experience reached back into the early sixties. Later the Duncan branch of the family undertook glassmaking in Washington, where the present firm operates under the name of Duncan and Miller; while the Heiseys moved to Newark, Ohio.

The Sandwich models in their possession are now being utilized by the Heisey Company as a basis for careful modern reproductions, some of which are not easily differentiated from original specimens.

LETTERS, we get letters....

Its always such a thrill to travel north in June -- like an extended Spring. Then you people make everything click off like clockwork to make all Heisey festivities so great for all of us. Enough can never be said for how nice you people handle our stay in Heiseyland.

Thanks for everything and I'm already looking forward to next year.

Norman Alford, Tx

On a recent visit to Newark we picked up a Newark Hi-Lites booklet and saw your notice about your museum and the hours it was open. We were just on our way home and in no particular hurry so we decided to go. I'm glad we did because I knew nothing of the Heisey Collectors organization until then. I am a former employee of Heisey Glass Co. I worked in the office under Madge Kennet typing salesmen's orders. I worked there during 1946-47 until I quit to have a baby. I even did some typing in my home after I had the baby, but not for long.

I am sending my application for membership in the club and am looking forward to receiving "Heisey News" as I found the one given to me on our visit to be very enjoyable.

I bought a number of glass items while I was an employee and really treasure them now. Many more were broken by the children but I feel lucky to have as many left as I do.

Thank you so much for your courtesy and information on our museum tour and am looking forward to many more visits.

Anne M. Carter, Ohio

Ed. Note - We welcome Anne as a member and another addition to our list of former employees. We hope she attends next years get-together of former employees during the convention in June.

No. 393 4 oz. Orange Juice Glass Ground Bottom

Dear Mrs. Ream:

I recently came across something at a yard sale which I think might interest you. I bought seven goblets, two which were #3333 Old Glory with the #9001 Trefoil Etching and marked. The other five were unmarked, completely different looking, but had the identical etching. I bought those hoping they were also Heisey. After checking my books I find there is no doubt that they are #3315 Polonaise* (10 ounce size) which the "Heisey Stemware" book lists as UNSEEN. Also your "Encyclopedia of Heisey Glassware, Volume One" does not list this particular etching as appearing on this goblet. Have I found something that so far the club has not discovered?

Carole Lacey, R.I.

Ed. Note — We have added #3315 Polonaise to our list of items for #9001 Trefoil etching. The number of patterns used for this etching seem to pop up everywhere. We are looking forward to receiving the goblet offered to us by Carole. I have seen a piece or two of Polonaise. One thing about rarity, most people don't know they have the item until they see it pictured someplace so when it is shown in a book it soon is reported as "seen". It is difficult to recognize a pulled stem anyway.....

Dear H.C.A.

First thank you for the first Volume of the Heisey News. I know it took time to Xerox it. I have read and reread it and how I wish I had joined in '73 when I saw my first copy. I have missed so much. Am now trying to catch up. I sure appreciate the time you took to run it off for me. How I could be back in "Heisey Country." I am planning on it next year. I'm saving my pennies.

Have really enjoyed the Enclyclopedia of Heisey, Vol. I. Without this book would never have found the blown pitcher with the Sabrina etching at a flea market. And a Puritan box and large ash tray with a sand blasted flower. These pieces really made my day. Does anyone have more information on the sand blasted pieces?* Did anyone else do other designs on these blanks?

Everyone out here keeps saying how hard it is to find anything. Thanks to my reference material and study time, I have found over one hundred pieces, fair prices and mostly unsigned, and have been "Heisey Hunting" only every other Sunday. The books, news and catalogs are really paying off.

Willa Carty, Olympia, Wash.

 Dorothy Thorpe of California bought Heisey blanks for making sand blasted designs. We have several pieces on display in the museum. They are usually signed with an acid etched DTC.

Addition to your list of items for sale

We have a limited number of ceramic plates which were made for the Land of Heisey Society as a club project. These will cost $3.50 with postage included or $2.50 each if picked up. The size of the box and the weight plus the low price makes it impossible to send these for only 10 0/0 freight.

You seem to like our new order form and we hope you keep the list at hand since it will be several months before we send another one.

Harley's Angels

Harley Bethel, this year's display chairman who no one ever suspected was poetical, composed this little verse which he read at the annual meeting in June. The "little girls", (and he used the term loosely), were Mary McWilliams, Valli Feldman, Louise Ream and his wife, Marcella. Harley has just come home from another bout in the hospital. We hope he soon will be feeling fine again.

Once upon a time,
there were four little girls
From near and far they came to the "Y"
So early on Wednesday last,
They started their tremendous task,
With their yellows,
pinks, blues & greens,
They embarked upon a devious scheme,
Would this look right here,
I don't know, give it a try,
No, that don't do much for the eye,

Move it a quarter inch to the left,
Now...a hair back to the right,
There, that does it,
I dare anyone to touch it,
Early the next morning,
the flowers arrived,
Their task had ended.
Now I'm not quite certain,
But I think if you tried,
you could detect a little tear
In many an eye,
These are Harley's Angels.

CLUB NEWS

Bay State HCC

by MAURICE WALTER

Two guests and twenty six members met in the garden of the home of Pat and Peggy LaRoas in Waltham, Mass. for the July 11th meeting of the Bay State Heisey Collectors Club.

President Irene Walton announced that Mary Williams had accepted the office of Secretary of the club due to the resignation of George Gleason.

This was our first meeting since the national convention. In my last report I had indicated that up to fourteen members expected to attend the convention. Nineteen showed up. We ran into home club friends everywhere. The program, the displays, and the shows were excellent. Lloyd Caswell, our club photographer, and I brought the color prints of the photos we took in and around Newark during convention week. I also screened the color transparencies taken at the YWCA where the club's Glass Display was located. I should say many clubs.

Anne Montague conducted Show and Tell after the slide show. Some of the pieces shown were, a Nails pattern ashtray, a Crisscross nappy, a marked Humidor with metal cover of unknown pattern, a 1½ pint flask with Maryland cutting, and a pair of pumpkin seed mellon Crystolite candle blocks.

The program for the evening was a lecture by George Fogg on animals manufactured by other glass companies. It was amply illustrated with many actual pieces. Some of the manufacturers represented were Cambridge, Padden City, New Martinsville, Degenhart, and Fostoria.

Refreshments were served by Peggy LaRosa.

The July meeting was held at the Museum with Betsy Leibrand as the hostess. Two guests were present. The club will be printing an up-date on the free booklet given to visitors at the Museum. Virginia Yeakley will be serving as the general chairman. More information will be found in the August issue of Heisey News.

The various colors of Heisey glassware were reviewed for the study session.

Twelve members and quests of the WRHCC met at the home of Wendell and Thelma Young in Lakewood on July 20th. A great deal of time was spent admiring the basket collection of Thelma and their extensive collection of Heisey glass beautifully displayed on floor to ceiling shelves in their family room. Our study topic centered around colored glass. The refreshments were appropriately served on the flamingo Pleat and Panel pattern of the hostess.
