MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

DICK SMITH

We have all been concerned with our Heisey friends & family who live in Florida. Our thoughts & prayers are with you. I hope everyone came through without too much damage. Keep us posted.

The Lavender Ice Tiger Paperweight is done and should be shipped soon. This project has been completely underwritten by Bill Clifford. Cats have been a part of the Clifford family for many years, and Bill could not think of a better way to honor his mom & dad than to make the "Heisey Cat." We want to thank Bill for this project that not only honors his parents, but also supports the Museum. Thank you, Bill.

The staff and volunteers have been doing their usual outstanding job at the Museum. Be sure to thank them if you call or stop by.

Jan Thran is home recovering from her June surgery. Be sure to send her a card and wish her well. HCA wishes her a speedy recovery.

Starting with the January 2005 newsletter, we will be trying to get back on a regular schedule as far as when we mail the newsletter. I will keep you informed on the specific day, when we are able to pin it down. This should help everyone as to when to expect their newsletters.

We are offering a VERY limited edition of a Red & White Slag Elephant and Donkey. You can order ONE piece or ONE set, but only ONE per person. Don't miss out on this Election Year offering. Your support on this fund-raising project is greatly appreciated. Orders will be shipped in the same order as they are received.

Both the Lavender Ice Tigers and the Elephant and Donkey will make great Christmas gifts. Do your shopping early.

Hopefully, the Crystalite Book will be ready by the 1st of October. We will keep you posted.

Till next month, ♥

DICK

FROM THE CLUB/MUSEUM DIRECTOR

Wow:

We have some very proud Heisey collectors in the northwest. No, they did not find a rare piece of Heisey, but their son found silver in Athens, Greece. Brett McClure, son of Les & Judy McClure, members of Northwest Heisey Collectors, was part of the Silver Medal U.S. Olympic Men's Gymnastics Team. Brett also helped Team USA win silver at the 2001 and 2003 World Championships.

Brett was inspired to try gymnastics after seeing American Lance Ringnald compete at the 1990 Goodwill Games in Seattle, about 30 minutes from his hometown of Mill Creek, WA. At age 13, Brett realized he had enough potential to pursue the sport seriously and made the junior national team.

When Brett won the national title in pommel horse, he gave credit to his father, Lee. When Brett was 10, his father bought him a pommel horse so he could practice in the basement. Lee also hung rings on the ceiling -- although the ceiling was too low for Brett to do an iron cross without hitting his head.

Brett is engaged to 1996 Olympian Jaycie Phelps, one of the "Magnificent Seven" gymnasts who captured team gold at the Atlanta games. The wedding is set for February 10, 2005.

Brett has been training full-time in Colorado Springs, CO., and takes business classes at Pike's Peak Community College hoping to earn a degree in business. He also enjoys cooking and says he makes a mean chicken fettuccini Alfredo. Congratulations to Brett and his family!

E-mail:

You know how, after you have had a certain E-mail address you start getting all the spam messages? Well, it's no different here at HCA headquarters, except we can't change our E-mail address to try and block the spam. We have tried some spam blockers that are helping, but only allow messages through that have an address in our address book. We try and are diligent and scan the messages before they are deleted, but we may accidentally drop one. If you send me an E-mail and I don't send you a response of some kind, please send the message again and make sure you make the subject that is recognizable, and pertains to Heisey. I appreciate your help with this. Going through 200 E-mails on Monday can take a lot of time. Thank you in advance for your help and cooperation.

Holiday Open House:

It may seem like a long way off, but the staff and volunteers are starting to make plans for the Holiday Open House. Walter has been working with Michael Maher and Liz Moats on what will prove to be a special "Punch Cup Craft." Watch the November Newsletter for the exact date and information how you can order a kit to make the craft if you can't get to the Museum. ♥

CURATOR'S REPORT

Walter Ludwig

My relocation has been going along well. I unpacked the last of my glass over this last weekend and all has found its place in my new home (no there is no need for a yard sale of excess Moongleam at this time). Now it is only the pictures that are left to be hung on the walls and the job will be finished. No one told me when I bought a house here how fast the grass grows in Newark. Well, you can see me about once a week pushing the mower around the estate now. This is a skill I thought would never to be revived from my childhood, but you can see how wrong I can be.

Things are going along well at the Museum but there is so much to do that I know I will be busy for years. I have put a lot of time of late into getting the collections database into decent shape. With so many people inputting data into the database over the years there had been a lot of different styles of entering the entries. I have tried to make the database more uniform as well as correct some mistakes that have made their way into the database.

Another area that I have spent some time reviewing is the Louse Ream Research Library. A thorough inventory of the library has now been finished with the help of Sharon Davis, one of our membership clerks. We had not made any purchases for the library in several years with the result that we are behind in having in our library a lot of information on glass that has been published recently. I have made some purchases in this area and will publish a list of these new books in next month's Heisey News. Remember the use of the Louse Ream Library is one of the privileges of membership, so we want to keep it a first class research library on Heisey in particular and glass in general.

There are still two big challenges ahead. One is the cleaning project that must get off the ground soon. It has been now over two years since our glass and the cases have had a thorough cleaning, and it is beginning to show. If anyone would like to volunteer to assist in this project I would be glad to hear from him or her. Most of the cleaning will be done on Mondays, so if that is a time you can devote a couple of hours to helping your Museum it would be much appreciated.

The other area that needs attention is the Archives. Great progress was made during the time when we had a full time archivist, but so much more needs to be accomplished. There still is a great deal to be mined from the unorganized material that is awaiting discovery. An inquiry about Heisey and Verlys sent me into the correspondence of T. Clarence Heisey, which has been indexed and is actually searchable on our web site. I found several letters that dealt with the topic, and I will include them in an article next month. They offer a lot of insight into Heisey's relationship with Holophane over the years and some unknown facts about Verlys, as well as a look into the personality of T. Clarence. I know you will enjoy reading the article. ♥

HOW I BECAME A HEISEY COLLECTOR

Chauncey R. Delaney

First, let me state that my wife, Helen, and I are not native to Ohio. We moved here from Pennsylvania in 1965. We had never seen or heard of Heisey glassware until after we moved here.

Helen was a Fenton collector, so it was only natural that we would hit the auction trail. We found some Fenton, but Heisey glassware seemed to be more in demand. We were surprised at some of the prices paid for Heisey and decided to purchase only a couple common pieces just to say we had Heisey.

Then in 1968 we bought a house in Newark and moved from our Heath apartment. We soon learned that our new next-door neighbors were Heisey collectors. On Saturday mornings, as I loaded my golf clubs into the car, I would notice my neighbors leaving for auction. I often said to myself: "Why would someone prefer to fondle Heisey glass instead of playing golf?" Little did I know what was about to happen to me!

In 1969 there was a heavy rain and some flooding occurred, including my neighbor's basement where many Heisey items were on display. The neighbors needed a place to dry out their Heisey; so, I set up tables in our garage and spread out the Heisey to dry. For several days I observed the Heisey in the garage and saw many pieces that were just beautiful. The neighbors noticed I was admiring the glass and encouraged me to become a Heisey collector; however, even though I was somewhat interested, I couldn't commit at this time because of the high prices and the need to study patterns.

Note: Many of you have guessed by this time, the names of the next-door neighbors. They are Loren & Virginia Yeakley.

Then, on one of my trips to Pennsylvania to visit family in the early 70's, we saw an auction sight in a small town we were passing through. We stopped and found that the auction was about to start. I looked around to see if I could recognize any Heisey, but I couldn't be sure; however I decided to stay for one hour. About an hour later they put up several items of stemware. I couldn't be sure, but I thought I had seen them somewhere before and they might be Heisey.

The first stemware for auction were five goblets. The auctioneer started the bidding at a high price but could not get a bid. When he finally got down to $2 each, I raised my hand and he said sold. The next stemware for auction were six champagnes. I started the bidding at $2 each and that was the only bid. Next, four oyster cocktails went on the auction block; I got those at $2 each.

When we returned to Newark, I immediately checked with the experts to determine if any of the stemware was Heisey. I was thrilled to learn that all 15 pieces were Heisey. The experts identified them as:
Heisey # 3404 Spanish Goblet – Cobalt Bowl
Heisey # 3404 Spanish Champagne - Cobalt Bowl
Heisey # 3390 Carcassonne Oyster Cocktail – Cobalt Bowl

The Yeakleys were the first to give me an appreciation for Heisey glass! The auction results at that little town in Pennsylvania turned up the fire. ♥

THE E-BAY CHALLENGE

Walter Ludwig, Curator

I am sure you all have heard about the great buys others are getting on E-Bay. Are the bargains eluding you? Have you ever considered that maybe you do not have your search set broad enough to catch all the listings of items in your favorite category? The following story may give you some hints on how to broaden that search.

Take a look at the following story and see how many misspellings you can catch. All misspelled words were taken from E-Bay headers since the first of the year.

THE SEARCH

There is something about Heisy crystal that is so alluring. So many beautiful patterns like Crysolite, Ridgely, and Lariat. Heisey glassware offers so many choices to the discerning collector whether he likes the old pattern glass patterns like Ring Bang, innovative patterns like Prince of Whales Plumes, traditional colonial patterns like Puriton, something plain like Yoeman, or more modern like Crsytalite. Heishey is known for its colors like the pink Flamago, the pale vasline color Canary, or the delicate amethyst of Alexandrite. From devided relishes and buscuit trays to candleabra the Heise factory produced a vast array of wares. One of my favorites is the minerature candel called Tom Thum, it is so unusal. Whether it is a Criptolite cagarrette holder, a Larait cruit, or a Platation marmelade that tickles your fancy the Heiseay factory always delivered. Everyone loves the special Crall cut pieces be it on a goblet, clariet or sherbert. Those two patterns that are based on old New England patterns certainly are popular, Old Sandwich and Ipswitch. Truly hard pieces to find are the Lariate bullion and the Cristolite cornicopia vase. We all are nostalgic for the elegant tables that can be set in Ridgely, Cryolite, Provintial, or with that great etching, Orchard. Heisey's chrystal just shines. ♥

ENDOWMENT -HISTORICAL EVENT

Phil Abrams, Endowment Committee

February 1982 was a significant date in the life of the National Heisey Glass Museum. The Endowment Committee was made up of these members: Harold Crim, Frank Frye and Jim laMoreaux made a recommendation to the Board of Directors to establish an Endowment Fund. The stated purpose of the fund was to "Provide for future expenses of operating and maintaining the National Heisey Glass Museum thru deposits of bequests, donations, grants and other contributions to the Endowment fund by HCA members and other interested persons and groups." It was started with $500 donated by the National Capital Heisey Study Club and became a part of the Licking County Foundation.

In August 1999, the Board of Directors made a decision to transfer the funds from the Licking County Foundation and establish a stand-alone account with Park National Bank under a Managing Agency Agreement. The stated purpose in 1982, 1999 and today is still the same.

The Endowment Fund is like planting a tree. Annual Harvests-Endowment Earnings - provide income to support all the functions of the Museum. As a non-profit organization, The National Heisey Glass Museum depends on the generous and faithful gifts to the principal portion of the fund from all members of the Heisey Collectors of America, Inc., as well as others.

Planned giving to the Endowment Fund can be made on any schedule. Some plan their budgets to contribute monthly, quarterly and/or yearly. Giving can be a fixed or a variable amount. While making a well-planned gift can be challenging and somewhat time-consuming, it can also be one of life's most satisfying experiences. Just like that tree which started from a small seed, no contribution is too small, but will help grow the tree and sustain it during challenging times. We strongly appreciate all contributions which will continue to support HCA today, tomorrow and into the future. ♥

A.H. HEISEY & COMPANY AND THE NEW DEAL

Brad Nutting

Editor's Note: Brad is a professor of History at Framingham State College in Framingham, MA.

A number of years ago, after joining the Bay State and Yankee Heisey Clubs, I encountered the Stanhope pattern and began to collect the entire line. It was not long before, I began to explore the history of the pattern and the larger context--the efforts of A.H.Heisey to sell elegant glassware during the Great Depression. These endeavors would have been impossible but for the resources of the Heisey Museum, the kind assistance of archivists Don Valdes and Sherri Goldner and the path breaking work of Tom Felt. What follows is a condensed version of a fully documented and illustrated article entitled "Selling Elegant Glassware During the Great Depression: A.H. Heisey & Company and the New Deal," which appeared in the Fall 2003 issue of Business History Review published by the Harvard Business School (www.hbs.edu/bhr).

The Great Depression was the most difficult environment imaginable for the sale of luxury items, nevertheless A.H Heisey & Company managed to survive. This was due in large part to three important factors. First, Heisey was able to produce appealing products for its traditional niche market of fewer than eight million middle and upper middle class women who bought elegant glassware at department stores and jewelers. Such customers were unlikely to shop at Woolworth's or Kresge's for the cheap, machine-made glass, a product which symbolized lower class status. When they did buy glassware, these Heisey customers wanted nostalgic patterns which provided a reassuring sense of continuity to a more dignified and prosperous past. The most popular Heisey designs in the 1930s were, with the obvious exception of Ridgeleigh, patterns with strong historical roots like Ipswich, Old Sandwich, Victorian, and Empress. And Heisey engaged in some clever marketing initiatives, establishing in 1932 a "state of the art" wholesale sales room at Chicago's massive Merchandise Mart and opening "Heisey sections" in the nation's major department stores which in time accounted for some 40% of all sales.

But appealing designs and clever marketing were not enough when even the well-to-do were curtailing luxury purchases of everything from yachts to silverware. Many high-end glass producers went under. In this most difficult sales environment, anything, which could stimulate lagging sales, might save a company from bankruptcy. In the case of A.H. Heisey it seems clear that three New Deal programs boosted elegant glassware sales and possibly gave the company (and some other elegant firms) the needed edge to survive. On first consideration, this would seem a bizarre proposition. When people think of New Deal programs, work relief (WPA), massive construction (TVA), bank reform (FDIC) and Social Security come readily to mind—certainly not aid to luxury glassware producers. Yet there seems little doubt the Beer-Wine Revenue Act, the National Industrial Recovery Act and the National Housing Act boosted elegant glassware sales.

Beer-Wine Revenue Act

In March 1933 Congress passed the Beer-Wine Revenue Act to permit sale of 3.2% beer and wine. Although a proposed amendment to end Prohibition had already been sent to the states, this law was a quick fix to raise needed revenue and resuscitate the liquor and glass bottle industries. The legislation was however also welcome news for manufacturers of steins and stemware, since social drinking at home and in legitimate restaurants would mean greater demand for glassware. Heisey, which previously developed the Cobel three-part cocktail shaker and sold the Gascony martini mixer as a tomato juice pitcher, immediately began reproducing "good old" heavy steins for men and turning out new light, crystal tumblers suitable for the ladies. Obviously, Clarence Heisey was all for the Beer Act and looked forward to the end of Prohibition. "If the government tax on spirits fermenti is equitable and not prohibitive," he predicted, "Repeal should be a great boon not only to the glass industry but also prove a helpful vehicle in moving business from its present inertia." He was right. By December 1933, "every glassware plant in the country was working full time" with deliveries often running two months behind. Heisey's sales for 1933 were up 9% over 1932—the worst year of the Depression for the company—but 3rd and 4th quarter sales were up 34% and 30%, respectively over the previous year. The Beer Act and the end of Prohibition two weeks before Christmas 1933 were certainly positive factors behind this sales boom. However, these measures were not alone responsible for the improvement. The National Industrial Recovery Act (NIRA), which created the National Recovery Administration (NRA), worked in parallel with the liquor laws to spur glassware purchases.

National Recovery Administration

The Beer Act was designed to increase revenue and stimulate a few industries, whereas the NIRA, passed in June 1933, was a highly complex measure to deal with problems which bedeviled much of industry. As the Depression deepened, producers of all sorts were caught in a deflationary spiral. As unemployment reduced demand, manufacturers slashed prices as they competed for an increasing smaller market. Buyers demanded special discounts and placed only partial orders as they expected prices to fall further. Reduced profits led to plant closings and more lay-offs which further reduced demand. To move inventories, goods were often sold at a loss, if sold at all. To halt such suicidal behavior, many producers began to demand that the government stop "cut-throat" competition.

This situation was especially pronounced for elegant glassware since luxury purchases were especially vulnerable in hard times. As early as 1931 some glass makers were calling for a "czar" to restore price stability. In an effort to halt lay-offs and prop up prices, the National Recovery Administration embarked upon a campaign to "encourage" over 500 industrial groups to draft "codes of fair competition" with published price schedules, minimum wages and maximum hours. Clarence Heisey himself served on the five-man committee which drafted the Glassware Code. The Heisey company initially backed NRA, displayed the NRA "Blue Eagle" logo in its ads, and pledged support for the President's economic program.

Although in retrospect the NRA proved an administrative nightmare which failed to restore general prosperity, it positively impacted Heisey sales. The NRA provided a "psychological lift" by convincing many that the anticipated codes would bring price increases; as a result buyers began to place orders furiously to "get in under the wire." The NRA combined with the Beer Act and end of Prohibition (discussed earlier) helped boost Heisey sales over 30% in the last two quarters of 1933. Although the first half of 1934 was dismal, by the last two quarters of that year Heisey sales were outpacing virtually every other retail sector, ballooning by some 400% over 1933. Undeterred or possibly even encouraged by higher prices (which enhanced snob appeal) resulting from the Glassware Code adopted in January 1934, Heisey's traditional customers apparently sensed the worst of the Depression was over and returned to the marketplace. When we compare Heisey sales during the two years of the NRA (1933-35) with all other retail sectors, the company fared remarkably well. While jewelry sales for example grew by 34% and new auto sales increased 54%, Heisey sales went up 207%! The NRA's irritating and inept bureaucracy, however, combined with its failure to provide promised tariff protection, always a significant concern for glassmakers, turned Clarence Heisey from friend into bitter foe. In the end he attributed to company's good fortune to economic improvement despite government "nostrums." In May 1935 when the Supreme Court threw out the NRA as unconstitutional, he declared the decision "was the greatest thing that has happened to this country since the Declaration of Independence. This means the end of the un-American policy of the present Administration of nosing into everybody's business. We are again free, white, and twenty-one."

National Housing Act

Despite the end of the NRA, by 1935 a third New Deal measure, the National Housing Act, was beginning to have a significant impact on the home renovation, new construction and the sale of home furnishings including elegant glassware. In 1928 there were over 700,000 new housing starts; in 1933 there were only 93,000, a decline of 87%. To deal with this collapse in construction activity, in June 1934 Congress passed the Housing Act which established the Federal Housing Administration (FHA), one of the most far reaching of all federal programs enacted in the 20th century. To turn things around, the Housing Act set up government-guaranteed mortgages and provided for easy to obtain home improvement loans. The program was geared to assist middle class homeowners, Heisey's best customers. As early as September 1934, the editor of Crockery and Glass Journal predicted a coming jump in glassware sales since refurbishing typically followed home renovations and new home purchases. By 1935 the number of housing starts was back to 216,000, prompting the widespread belief that 1936 was going to be the "home furnishings year." Even Clarence Heisey looked forward to the future, although he refused to admit the FHA programs might have anything to do with it. "Things are on the up in spite of politics. Here's for a bigger pick up in business and a huge 1936."

It was within the context of this housing boomlet that Clarence decided to introduce a dynamic new pattern which would reflect growing optimism that the Depression was nearing its end. With hopes of creating a big stir at the July 1936 New York Homewares Show, he contacted Walter Von Nessen, the noted art deco designer of the popular Chase chrome and bakelite cocktail/coffee sets. He in turn created "Stanhope," a pattern characterized by sweeping parallel lines or chevrons and colorful knobs made of "Plascon," a new plastic resin. Clarence was immensely pleased and believed the dramatic design was the "best thing in glass since Adam wore rompers."

Indeed, he was so convinced of Stanhope's success that he had Von Nessen expand the line to some 45 pieces including blown stemware available in a new color, zircon. Despite a special award from the Modern Plastics Competition and a full-scale ad campaign in the Life, the New Yorker, and other "class magazines," Stanhope sales proved sluggish. The pattern was expensive due to the high cost of the knobs (the molds alone cost over a thousand dollars), but Stanhope also suffered from a decision to sell several thousand luncheon sets to General Electric for a coffee machine ensemble. Because inexpensive, machine-made glass was typically given away as premiums with appliances, Stanhope seems to have been tarnished by this association. The Heisey company for years had cultivated an elitist, upper crust appeal and Stanhope's marketing violated the company's traditional sales strategy.

Clarence Heisey was aware of the risk, but tempted by easy money agreed to the GE deal.

Even so, the Stanhope pattern might have had a longer life if the national economy had not turned sour. Throughout the election year of 1936, employment and production were on the upswing. That fall, the Heisey plant had two 16-pot furnaces going and was working near capacity. Throughout much of industry, production and employment were up. These realities understandably led to a widespread sense the Depression was reaching its end and clearly contributed to FDR's overwhelming victory that November. The following spring President Roosevelt, himself believing economic growth was strong enough to sustain itself without continuing federal deficits, cut work relief and numerous other programs by some $ 3 billion. Such balanced budget measures were strongly advocated by businessmen like the Heiseys. At the same time the new Social Security taxes went into effect which took further billions of dollars out of the economy. To make matters worse the Federal Reserve unwisely raised interest rates. By the fall of 1937 the combination of these deflationary measures threw the country into the "Roosevelt Recession," one of the sharpest downturns in all of American history. Within months unemployment went from 7 million to over 10 million and applications for home improvement loans, an economic bellwether, dropped by 75%. Heisey sales for 1938 fell to near 1934 levels with sales for the month of March totaling a scant $9,939! The Newark plant was virtually idle; as union member reported, "We are working so bad I cannot collect much news." On March 4, 1938, one year after FDR's second inaugural, Heisey scrapped the Stanhope line and a number of poorly performing older patterns. The company's business would continue to languish until World War II finally ended the Depression, revived prosperity and brought an end to all competing foreign imports.

Although the New Deal obviously never attempted to put etched and blown stemware on every American table, the paradoxical history of the A.H. Heisey & Company during the Great Depression nevertheless illustrated how federal programs during that period influenced even the rarified world of elegant glassware.

ALL HEISEY BENEFIT AUCTION

Dave Spahr

The 32nd annual HCA All Heisey Auction benefiting the National Heisey Glass Museum will be held once again at the Apple Tree Auction Center in Newark, OH, probably in early April 2005. The exact date has not yet been established and will be published when known. Many thanks again to Sam and David Schnaidt for the use of their first class facility and for donating their time.

This HCA event is our largest fund-raiser. Very dedicated volunteers put this event together for YOU. HCA makes its money from the consignment fees collected, the auctioning of donated glass, and from glass not sold at the auction but later in the gift shop. After a great auction in 2003 with outstanding glass, our auction this year, while good, was not as successful-both for HCA and our consignors. We had the same size auction, but the quality of glass was not as high as in the past. Hopefully this is a one-time aberration and we will have another great auction in 2005. As always, we are looking into ways to improve and expand our auction to make it better for purchasers and consignors. We are in the discussion stages to see, if perhaps, having an online component at the auction, this next year would benefit all concerned. More later.....

In this issue of Heisey News you will find a consignor's packing list and on the reverse, the Auction Contract. We also hope to have these on our website, www.heiseymuseum.org, soon for you to download and use. As before, each member and household member can donate unlimited amounts of Heisey glassware and can consign up to twenty (20) lots each. There is no limit to the number of items in each lot and we are encouraging each consignor to size each lot so it is valued at more than $25.00. The auction committee reserves the right to modify lots, but will do so sparingly. Please note that non Heisey items or Heisey by Imperial items will not be accepted for consignment, and will be returned at the consignor's expense or become a donation to HCA.

Please read over the auction agreement carefully, as these are the rules that govern the auction. Please use the packing list to list items and group them into lots as you wish them to be. Remember to put a "D" beside the lot number(s) on the packing lists for those lots you wish to donate to HCA. Please be certain the packing list includes ALL of your items, that you fill in each line completely - Pattern #/Name, description, cut/etch, color, if marked, and provide the condition. Don't forget to sign and date the Auction Contract and submit it along with your packing lists. Both should be in your box of consigned or donated glass.

Many dedicated HCA members including most board members, volunteer to help to make this auction a success. We, as always, need help to prepare for the auction, at the auction itself, and after the auction, to cleanup and wrap and send glass for successful absentee bidders. If you would like to volunteer, please contact the Museum or me. We are counting on your participation to make this auction the best ever!

As always, the success of this auction depends on the quality and quantity of glass consigned and donated. We are requesting you to send (donate, consign) GOOD DAMAGE-FREE GLASS. A high quality auction facility (which we have) with high quality glass will benefit all. Consignments and donations for the auction must be received by January 15, 2005. The sooner your items are received the better, since they must be checked in, inspected, cataloged, may be photographed, and repacked for the auction by volunteers.

Four things make for a great auction: great facilities, great help from volunteers, great glass, and a great group of buyers to purchase the glass. We have the first thing-we hope to get the last three! Please contact us if you would like to volunteer to help. Please look through your Heisey and consign some to us to help support your Museum, and make your list together of things you must purchase at the auction! Leave an empty place on your calendar and plan on attending this great event!

Please check upcoming issues of the Heisey News and the Heisey Museum website for updates on this outstanding event! We are looking, as always, for new ideas to make this event even more special. If you have other activities which you feel would fit in nicely with this event, please let me know. For more information, or if you need answers to questions, please contact Dave Spahr by telephone 937-372-7166, or E-mail masdgs@aol.com. ♥

Each member may consign a maximum of (20) twenty lots to the sale. There is no limit on the number of items in each lot, but HCA retains the right to increase/decrease size/make up of each lot.

Consignors of glassware to this sale will be charged on the following sliding scale of commission per lot: $5.00-$49.99=30%; $50.00-$199.99=25%; $200.00-$399.99=20%; $400.00-$749.99=15%; $750.00 and over = 10%. All monies received from the sale are held and paid from the HCA Trust Account.

Glassware for the Benefit Auction will be accepted at any time with a cut-off date for the 2005 Auction being January 15, 2005. Glassware will be catalogued in the order it is received.

It is the responsibility of the consignor to deliver the glassware to the National Heisey Glass Museum. HCA accepts responsibility when glass is received at the Museum except that any glass damaged in shipment will be referred to the shipper and consignor. Any glass damaged or lost while in the possession of HCA prior to sale will be valued by a qualified appraiser or appraisers and consignor will be paid on this basis, less commission.

In the event no bid is received on a lot, that lot becomes a donation to HCA. Minimum opening bid will be at least $5.00.

The auction committee is authorized to reject any glass not deemed acceptable to HCA standards for this auction, plus glass not made by A. H. Heisey and Company. These items may be returned to the consignor if they desire, at their expense. Otherwise, these items become the property of HCA.

AUGUST MEETING MINUTES

No rain for this one! It was a beautiful day on Totten Shores in the South Sound for a meeting complete with an astonishing display of the art of cutting and etching by the Heisey company and the fantastic cooking abilities of our members. The counter was filled with an abundance of desserts and the tables were covered with the most amazing collection of glass that we have seen in recent history. We had 25 members and one guest attending at the home of Bob & Sally Thomas. Don Beatty, Mary's son, was our guest for the day. The sun was out, as was the tide, so the beach was great, but the visiting and gawking was unbelievable. Sally outdid herself with the main dish and the rest of us must have had a sweet tooth since the rest of the fare was mostly desserts. We also had the Sight Unseen Auction that was very successful thanks to Bob's abilities as an auctioneer and the generous pockets of our bidding members. Between the auction and the program it was a long meeting, but most were able to stay for all of it. Many thanks to the Thomases for a great meeting.

Old Business:

No old business, just a letter of thanks from the HCA regarding the donation to the Blind Auction. It brought $300 for the event.

Sunshine:

Les & Judy McClure's son, Bret, is in Athens competing in the Olympics in gymnastics. At the time of the meeting we didn't know that he would go on to win a medal in the team competition and make a great showing in the Overall. Congratulations Les & Judy!

Raffle:

That old Bellingham luck has reared its head again. Luvonne Nelson won the Crystolite three-part relish.

Show & Tell:

I don't know where to begin with all the beautiful and rare pieces that showed up this month. Bob gave a short talk on cuttings and etchings and handed out a print-out he assembled for us. The list is nearly two pages long for the items shown. It is abbreviated here, but rest assured that you wouldn't have believed your eyes to have seen all of it.

Dixieland Heisey Club
Craig German

The Dixieland Heisey Club met at the home of Nat and Patsy Parker. Members gathered early to enjoy viewing their wonderful collection of Heisey. A wonderful lunch was enjoyed.

President Loleta Hammontree called the meeting to order after lunch.

The minutes of the previous meeting were approved.

The first item discussed was the possibility of developing a club literature piece that we might place in antique stores and malls as a means to advertise our club and perhaps gain members. There was a question whether we can use the Diamond H trademark. Diane Cogdill volunteered to work on the design of a flyer.

We also discussed looking for places where we might display pieces of Heisey. This does not have to be pieces for sale, so a local museum would be an ideal place.

Dixieland Heisey Club had a centerpiece at the Convention. Our display brought the second highest bid. Helen donated three pieces of Plantation for the centerpiece display. The pieces were an 8" bowl, and 8" divided bowl and a two-light candle.

At the Convention our club provided some refreshments for the hospitality suite for former Heisey employees. We provided Moon Pies.

There were 20 fewer registrations at the Convention this year. There had been local advertising about the convention.

There was a new book on Greek Key and a new book on Bar Glasses available at the Convention this year.

One issue discussed was the fact that when someone joins HCA the closest local study club is never notified. This needs to be addressed in order to get people involved in local study clubs.

There was discussion of general topics about the Convention. Plans should be made for activities for children at the Convention to encourage younger members joining HCA and attending the Convention.

Finally we got to Show and Tell: Rosalie showed us the new Ipswich bowl she had found. May Lou proudly displayed the Banded Flute wines she had recently procured. Paul Russell showed us the 117 Calhoun tumbler he found at convention. Pictures were taken and sent to the webmaster to post on the web site.♥

Central Illinois Heisey Collectors
Joyce Deany

The summer meeting of the Central Illinois Heisey Collectors Club was held on August 8 at the gracious country home of George and Carol Bowen in rural Bloomington. The guests entered the Bowen home by way of a flower-decked walkway and were treated to a tour of their lovely flowerbeds and sumptuous vegetable garden featuring George's famous tomatoes. Their yard also boasts an extensive feeding area for resident birds and small mammals as well as migratory species.

Those present were the Bowens, Les and Virginia Riley, Don and Joyce Deany, and Jim and Nadine Bartel. Les presided at the business meeting. Those who had attended the Convention had very favorable reports about the various events. The flea market on the Square brought unanimously good comments, and it was hoped that it would be held again in 2005. Thanks were expressed to those in charge of the event.

The basket centerpiece donated to the auction brought $75. The members were very glad to hear the news that Walter Ludwig has been named as the new Curator of the Heisey Museum.

Don and Joyce Deany led the program on Heisey by Imperial, using the slide program from HCA. A lively discussion ensued about various items in members' collections. It is hoped that HCA will update these programs and continue with plans to make them into videos. These have been very useful to our club through the years.

Don brought a unique piece for Show and Tell, an eight-inch Sawtooth Band bowl and cover (#1225). This particular piece had been used in years past as a family baptismal font by friends of the Deanys.

After the meeting the guests enjoyed a potluck supper. It was agreed that the Central Illinois Heisey Collectors not only know their Heisey, but they are great cooks!

The next meeting will be held November 21 at the home of Jim and Nadine Bartel. Joyce Deany is the contact person for the club at 815-432-4310 or jdeany@mymailstation.com. ♥

SEPTEMBER 2004 MEETING

First of all, I want to explain the picture that was in the Heisey News from our July meeting. The eight pictured had gone to Convention in June, and were in attendance at our meeting in July. Our total attendance at the Roth's home was seventeen members. We were blessed with two visitors, Sue Billings and Gloria Snodgrass.

Thanks to the Maddoxs' for opening their home in Corinth, TX and hosting our September Study Club meeting! Fourteen members and nine Visitors! Wow!! Maddoxs' had six visitors attending today, Linda Maddox' mother and father (father born and grew up in Newark, OH); her sister and husband (who mentioned they do have a few pieces of Heisey – Hurray!); and Kay and Rusty Kohler from Elgin, TX. Peggy Moseley's visitor was Gloria Snodgrass, who went to the 2004 Heisey Convention with Peggy – right, she is hooked; Gloria is now a member of HCT!!! We also were delighted to have Anne and Paul Keister, who moved to Plano, TX not long ago (to be near family). The Keisters belonged to HCA for many years, belonging to the Maryland Club. After retiring, they moved to Florida and enjoyed the Florida Heisey Study Club for eleven more years. Yes, Anne and Paul are now members of HCT, (knowing they were coming, we had already made a permanent HCT badge for them)! Ha.

We now have a beautiful tri-fold flyer that was designed by Greg Freeman, our President. Thanks to Greg for a "job well done," not an easy thing to do – especially when you are putting the Heisey pics in and around the wording. We now will give these out at Shows and Malls, along with our HCA beautiful colored brochure!

A video, taken of the ID Session at Convention this year, was shown, which was very interesting. We saw some rare - unseen before Heisey pieces in this video! Now with these pics in our brain, we are on the hunt!! Good Luck!

Our "Show & Tell" as usual came up with some pieces we had never seen before. Now, you have to remember, not all of us get to come to Heisey Land in June and see the fabulous Heisey Show! How about a seven inch #338 Nasturtium bowl, Navy 6 oz. soda and a Cobalt Carcassonne 3 oz. footed bar. Creole footed goblet in Alexandrite, Albemarle goblet and wine with two different elaborate, unknown cuttings; and a Kimberly stem goblet with Courtship cutting. Darling cordials, Symphone stem with Danish Prince cut; a dainty Monte Cristo cordial, and Duquesne with Chintz etch. One of members found not one but two pairs of little Jack-Be-Nimble candlesticks. In Locket on Chain, a salver and a large footed compote, Minute Etched two light Toujours candlesticks and DF ice bucket! Vases: Moongleam Optic Tooth with silver overlay; a hard to find nine inch #4209 Oval in Flamingo with gold etched band, and Dorothy in Flamingo. Moongleam: we had an Octagon ice bucket and #501 frog flower box with both block inserts.

Linda and Marion had a neat door prize drawing. The numbers drawn were the numbers of the patterns from the ID Video they showed today! Thanks goodness we did not have to identify the pattern from the number we drew!! One of our new members, LUCKY Gloria Snodgrass drew the number that was assigned to the door prize. Made special for this occasion, a beautiful - very, very large Diamond H stain glass logo Sun Catcher, made by Marion Maddox (see pic below)!!

Lucky Door Prize Winner Gloria Snodgrass

Refreshments were served on none other than beautiful Heisey glass! And each of us went home with pralines (Texas pecans from Marjorie's pecan tree) made by the Maddoxes!

Next meeting will be November 13 at the Freeman's home in Bedford, TX. Those new HCA members from Texas, we would love to have you join us. Please call Erma or Rodger at 972-189-6159/email: heiseytoo@att.net, or Candy or Greg at 817-267-5889/email: gcfree@comcast.net, and we will give you the directions or come pick you up for our next meeting! We are a study club that enjoys collecting, talking and learning more about Heisey. We meet six times a year, on the second Saturday at 1 p.m. ♥
