The State of the Archives

Archivist Don Valdes has been tucked away in his office for months now, pouring through boxes, files and notebooks full of Heisey history. You've seen his photos, so what's he been up to lately?

"... over the past several weeks I have been going through cardboard cartons full of T. Clarence Heisey correspondence. ... I have come to feel that I know a person whom I have never met. I have found him to have an interesting sense of humor, to be abundantly generous, to have a multitude of friends."

Sam's Scribbles

Sam Schnaidt, President

It appears that we are finally approaching a reasonable state of normalcy. Membership has been on the increase for the past several months and we now have over 4,000 members. Attendance at the museum has increased approximately 25 percent during this time. We have hosted several special events including a reception for the Red Cross, an open house for the Newark of the World visitors, a dinner party for the Licking County Symphony Orchestra and the Newark Area Chamber of Commerce Eye Opener Breakfast for more than 150 attendees. These events provide excellent opportunity to advance our presence in the community.

The Lavender Ice three geese are selling well but are still available. If you haven't ordered you should call right away.

The 1994 Convention Chairperson, Amy Jo Jones and I attended the gala open house preview at the new Cherry Valley Lodge. This facility is wonderful and something the area has needed for some time. We will be making final arrangements with them for our convention events to be held there. You may make your room reservations now if you wish to stay there.

Don't forget the December quarterly meeting will be held at the museum December 4, 1993 with a catered dinner. The reservation form is on page 7.

HCA sends its sympathy to the family of longtime member Mary Hallborg, who passed away late in September. ♦

All-Heisey Benefit Auction—March 11 and 12, 1994

Bob Rarey, Co-Chairman

The annual All-Heisey Museum Benefit Auction to be held at Apple Tree Auction Center will be in conjunction with the quarterly meeting. This not only affords the opportunity to acquire that elusive piece for your collection, you can also participate by consigning and/or donating glass to this event.

The same policy that has been in effect for several years will again apply: Twelve (12) lots per family may be consigned, with no limit on number of donations. Any consignments over 12 will be considered a donation. Group your consignment as you want it sold. Consignments will be sold in order received. The consignment fee remains at 20 percent with a $5.00 minimum per lot. The consignment fee is for the benefit of HCA. Please consign only Heisey or Verlys by Heisey. No Heisey by Imperial will be accepted.

It is suggested that all consignors use the consignor packing list that appears in this issue of the Heisey News and that the auction contract on the same page is signed and submitted with the consignment. Consignments will be accepted at the Quarterly Meeting/ Holiday Dinner at the Museum on December 4, 1993. If shipping, address to HCA, 169 W. Church Street, Newark, OH 43055. Careful, adequate packing is important.

Remember: All glass will be inspected when received. Any glass found not to be Heisey will be returned. DEADLINE FOR RECEIVING GLASS IS JANUARY 2, 1994. ♦

From the Archives

Don Valdes

Boxes, file cabinet drawers, and more boxes. Gradually the archives are getting into shape but we are sure into the picky stage. Each day there are decisions to be made as to how fine the teeth on the comb should be. Books and pictures were easy, but should every letter be cataloged? or just the letters dealing with the plant and glass making? perhaps just each folder with the contents listed? and so on. Hopefully we will end up with a facility that will be easy to use, loaded with readily available material rather than a jumble.

Then there is the question of just when is your archivist doing what he is supposed to be doing and when is he actually doing research. And then, just when he has about decided to skip reading every letter (that is the researcher's job), he comes upon mention of something (an award, for example) that explains something else (that plaque back in aisle 3, section A, shelf 2). And always there is the question of what, of all of this, is of interest to the members. Just how interested is the membership in the "life and times of the Heisey family?"

It is with these questions in mind that I am moved to do something a bit different for this issue. In the way of background: over the past several weeks I have been going through cardboard cartons full of T. Clarence Heisey correspondence; horses, Amherst, fraternity, even the glass business! Over this period of time I have come to feel that I know a person whom I have never met. I have found him to have an interesting sense of humor, to be abundantly generous, to have a multitude of friends. He was a particularly loyal Amherst alumnus and Psi U fraternity man (which explains the goblets, ashtrays and other Amherst and "Gammy" pieces). He was an ardent Republican who loathed F.D.R. with a vigor reminiscent of my own father. Then, one day, I hit something different, four folders containing carbon copies of letters written by him to his son, Tim, and to his daughter, Mary. (Tim is the young man riding Goodness Gracious in the engraving familiar to many of you.) They cover the years 1939 through 1943, while both children were in school away from home or, later in the case of Tim, in the service. The letters were personally typed, almost daily. Here, obviously, was a loving and dedicated father. He wrote of social events, gossiped a bit, and discussed current events. He occasionally told something of the operation of the factory. For example, part of the contents of one of the letters written to both Tim and Mary might be of particular interest to some collectors:

October 20, 1939—"We are pretty busy right now, and are lighting the third furnace. It's the first time we had the third furnace since 1929. Only twice in our history have we ever had three furnaces lighted. I would like to see prices go up a little higher but, of course, competition keeps them down. Our industry doesn't seem to have any sense. We should raise our price and make a little money to make up for the last ten years."

One of the folders holds 264 copies of letters from Mr. Heisey to Tim, written from the time Tim went into the army in August of 1942 through November of the following year. In spite of Tim's protests, a letter was typed by T. Clarence about every day, held, and sent off with the rest of each week's accumulation.

At this time Tim Heisey had graduated from Amherst, where he was an active Psi Upsilon member, as was his father, and had been attending graduate school in chemistry at Ohio State.

T. Clarence Heisey was very outspoken about his politics in his letters. This cartoon is very outspoken too!

From there he had been inducted into the army. While in the service it would seem he did laboratory work connected with army hospitals. Subsequent letters indicate he served in the South Pacific and, eventually, Japan.

Tim's interest in chemistry is surely related to the manufacture of glass. For instance, in a letter to Tim in September of 1942, T. Clarence writes:

"The glass has been pretty good. I think Monday I have never seen it better. That little dash that you suggested (arsenic?) we give it seemed to have stabilized the color very materially. The lead is good too, but I notice it is getting a little high in yesterday's product. However not enough to be disturbing."

or

October 26, 1942—"The glass has been pretty good lately. I think your suggestion to put more A.R.S. in the glass stabilized things very materially and we are getting little or no fluctuation. I am knocking on wood though. Also, the taking out of some of the soda and replacing it with potash has made the glass come down a lot quicker than ordinary; anywhere from 22 hours to 30 hours. Mostly in the early 20's. It is also, probably due to better furnace combustion."

Other plant activities were conveyed as well. In an August 1942 letter T. Clarence Heisey informs his son of "Doggy" Feuerriegel attempting to steal something from the factory, being apprehended by Abe Smith, the watchman, and the subsequent knifing of Abe. Fortunately the wounds were not serious.

It is evident that the factory was doing some defense work at this time, the production of very precise gauges for the army. Mr. Heisey visited the Libby plant in Toledo and wrote his son a description of the machine-made glass making process. And for you Heisey purists, there is also a letter in which some disparaging remarks are made in reference to "clumsy Cambridge glass."

In addition to providing us with marvelous insight into the man who was, at the time, vice-president and treasurer of the Heisey company, the collection gives an excellent view of civilian life in the U. S., but particularly in mid-Ohio, just prior to and during the war years. His travels instigated many comments on the war induced crowded condition of the trains. But the availability of public transportation is striking. Frequently scheduled trains would take one almost anywhere. From flag pole sitting in 1939 to wartime gas and food rationing, 35 mile an hour speed limits, blackouts, masked traffic lights in New York City and even a description of the results of the crash of a B-25 in downtown Newark are all part of this fascinating collection. ♦

So what was affected by the improvements mentioned in T.C. Heisey's letters? From the Time Book for that 1942 week, we can see some of the items produced that might have benefitted from the better formula. From the book for 1939 we can see the increased productivity of the extra furnace. In going through the 1939 book, one can see an increase from about 132 items per week to 217 in the week of October 20.

Make it a Heisey Thanksgiving—Roast a Chicken

Carl Sparacio

The first American Thanksgiving feast was put together in 1621. It was a celebration of thanks and sharing. With a year of hardship behind them, the Pilgrims shared their harvest with the Native Americans who taught them to survive the new wilderness. How fitting that the first truly American tradition started as a celebration of both thanks and brotherhood.

You may have guessed, I'm straining here to connect Heisey and Thanksgiving. The bit of history above is a start, though I surely could make a better connection if the Pilgrims had served their turkey on Yeoman dinner plates. I'm the one who gets caught up in holidays (ours is the only house in the neighborhood decorated for Ground Hog Day) but I'm really going to have a stretch to work on Heisey and Thanksgiving together.

One wonders why the Heisey company never made a turkey. Perhaps I'd better rephrase that—some smarty pants reader will surely write in to name a couple of the Heisey losers. You'll admit that not all Heisey pieces were gems but we can be thankful that yesterday's losers are today's rarities. We can also be thankful that Heisey's track record for losers was better than most glass companies of its era.

Back to the turkey. I mean a glass turkey, or course. A turkey would fit in with a Thanksgiving theme and the barnyard animals Heisey seemed to favor as well. Strange that they'd make a rather extensive selection of glass chicken items and not one turkey. Chickens are not even as pretty as turkeys. Okay, so turkeys do have uglier faces than chickens, what with their wattles and everything, but I still shouldn't want to look like a chicken unless, of course, I were Frank Perdue, the guy who sells chicken and their parts on TV (if I had his money I wouldn't care that I looked like a chicken).

It's hard to believe that Heisey made ten different chicken items (not counting cuttings and etchings) and not one gobbler. Pay attention now, this is the educational part of this article. Heisey made a Rooster, a Hen and two Chicks; a Fighting Rooster and a Rooster vase; a Rooster Head cocktail shaker and a Rooster Head cocktail glass; and, finally both Chanticleer and Bantam Rooster cocktail glasses. We shall assume that the little chicks Heisey made, which I counted as two separate animals but are really only one, are baby hens and not roosters? Hens were handed the short end in Heisey's menagerie.

If you have a chicken fetish and would like to collect Heisey chickens, you'll be happy to know that all but the Bantam Rooster cocktail glass are readily obtainable.

As Heisey collectors, unless we count the serious lack of a Heisey turkey, we have a lot to be thankful for—the HCA is the best American glass organization, bar none, and ours is arguably the finest museum featuring a single American glassmaker. We can be thankful, too, that we, as HCA members, own and control the use of the Heisey molds and that the glass we collect is well documented and protected. All this, however, may seem self-serving. I wonder if it's proper to be thankful for possessions. Probably not—best we forget it. I wouldn't want to duck bolts of lightning while saying Grace on Thanksgiving Day.

As Heisey Collectors we have a lot to be thankful for.

Thanks can and should be given for more abstract blessings. I'm thankful, for instance, that I'm not a Cambridge Glass collector—or a Fostoria, or an Imperial, or a Duncan, or a "you name it" glass collector (you may be thankful you are, however). I'm a Heisey collector and don't ever tell me that I collect "Elegance." Yeech!

In our Heisey World, I am also thankful for the volunteers who make our organization work. Along with that blessing, I am thankful for all the wonderful Heisey friends we've made over these many years. You know who you are.

George Washington declared an annual day of Thanksgiving way back in 1789 but Thanksgiving didn't make it to official holiday status until 1863, almost 250 years after Mrs. Pilgrim put the first wild turkey on a spit. Since that time, Thanksgiving has become more than the giving of thanks and the sharing which were the root of the holiday; Thanksgiving Day has become a celebration of family, too. Yes, even our extended Heisey family.

Thanksgiving, more than any other national holiday is a family holiday, is a getting together, a remembering, a "my how they've grown," an exchange of picture and recipes, a hugs and kisses holiday unencumbered by gifts and not confined to just a few religions.

If we've done it right all year, Thanksgiving is a time to count our blessing, thank our God, eat well, and then, perhaps, kick off our shoes and wonder why the next holiday, a little more than a month away, begins on this day.

Bless you all. ♦

Curator's Report

Karen D. Kneisley

It's difficult to believe that the year is almost over. Before we know it it'll be Thanksgiving, which means the Holiday season is in full gear and then poof! we begin a new year. And you know what that means—you've missed the January 2 deadline for turning in your auction glass. See, we can make the whole year revolve around Heisey!

It doesn't help matters any that we've had a whirlwind of events here in the past month. Week after week of excitement and days chock full of visitors. Sure we have some sleepy days here and there, but they're just breathers between tours.

Visitors from other Newark's (above) enjoyed viewing the #3404 Spanish goblet named in honor of the last reunion held here.

We've shared the museum with plenty of people new to the Heisey world. Representatives from Newark's of the World visited Ohio in September and couldn't get enough Heisey. Rumor has it that the people from England took home some Victorian punch cups from a kind collector here in our Newark. Early in October the Licking County Symphony held a fund-raising event in our multi-purpose room. They were very entertained when Don Valdes generously shared a bit of T. Clarence Heisey correspondence that described the premiere performance of their orchestra. Only a few days later we hosted an Eyeopener Breakfast for the Chamber of Commerce and I believe we really did open a few eyes with our new facilities.

And don't forget our own special occasion that is just around the corner: The Holiday Dinner. This year's event will take place at the museum on Saturday, December 4. Please join us for a festive evening. ♦

Focus on the Collection—#1540 Lariat Baskets

Joe Lokay

The #1540 Lariat pattern was introduced in January 1942 and had a successful life until the closing of the factory in 1957. The Lariat Wartime Folder that was issued in April 1943 pictures about 85 items in Lariat for sale. A copy of this Wartime Folder is in the November 1977 issue of the Heisey News.

There were two baskets produced in the Lariat pattern. Only one is shown in the Wartime Folder. It is stock item #40 and is called an 8-inch handled flower basket. In Heisey catalog #32 (January 1953), both baskets are shown. They are stock items #64 and #65 and are called an 8-1/2-inch footed handled basket and a 10-inch footed handled basket. In Heisey catalog #33 (June 1956), only the 8-1/2-inch basket is mentioned.

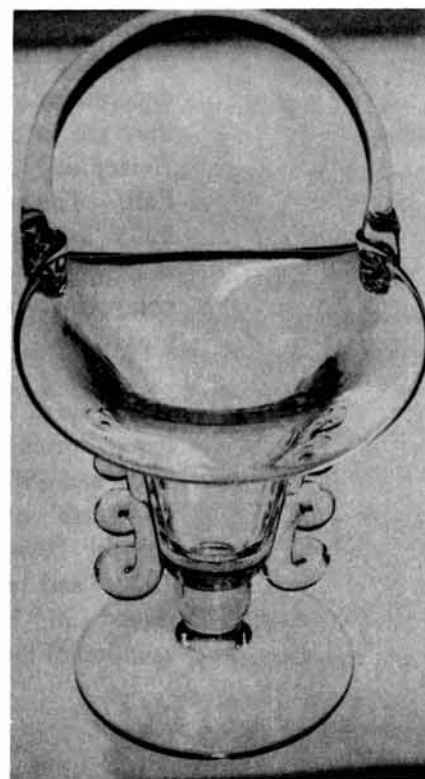

The 8-inch (or 8-1/2-inch) basket is composed of three parts; a foot, a basket bowl and a handle. There is one lariat loop in the foot. The basket bowl is plain and round at the bottom. The top of the bowl is flared out on two sides and flared up on the other two sides where a rod of glass is attached to create a handle. Because the flaring up of the bowl and the curvature of the handle are hand-formed, the overall height of the basket can vary from 8-1/2 to 10 inches. The foot is about 1-1/2 inches high, the flared bowl runs about 4-1/2 inches and the handle is about 3-1/2 inches high. The bowl opening is oval in shape and runs about 5 x 7 inches. It is possible that the molds used to make the footed mayonnaise or ice tea also were used to make this basket. The production period is estimated at 1943 to 1956 when the plant closed. The basket was only made in crystal and was offered with the #507 Orchid etch on the bowl. Today's collectors find the etched basket to be more desirable.

The 10-inch basket is also composed of three parts; a foot, a basket bowl and a handle. This time, the Lariat design appears on two sides of the bowl: four Lariat loops are located on the sides of the bowl where the handle is applied. The basket bowl is plain and round at the bottom while the top of the bowl is flared out on two sides and up on the other two sides. The foot consists of about a 1 inch sphere placed on top of a 4 1/4 inch diameter disk. Because the flare and handle are hand-formed, the overall height of the basket can vary from 10 to 11 inches. The foot is about 1 3/4 inches high, the flared bowl runs about 5 1/4 inches high and the handle is about 3 1/2 inches high. The bowl opening is oval in shape and runs about 4 1/2 x 6 1/2 inches. It's possible that the molds used to make the 7-inch footed fan vase also were used to make the 10-inch basket foot and bowl. The production period for the 10 inch basket is estimated at 1946 to 1954. It was made in crystal only with no decorations.

Three other items were offered in the Lariat pattern that had handles like baskets, however Heisey did not call them baskets in their catalogs. They are the 7-inch handled confection, the 7-inch handled sweet meat and the 7-inch handled bon bon. It is a matter of personal preference that some collectors may want to include these in their basket collection.

You can see the smaller basket and bon bon at the museum. The items are located in Room 2 of the King House, opposite the barware collection. ♦

Heisey's # 335 Pattern—More about Prince of Wales Plumes

Jim Jones

Detail of plume design.

Prince of Wales Plumes is a flamboyant pattern in heavy, brilliant crystal. Minnie Watson Kamm, author of the Little Pitcher Books, had this to say about it, "...The original name of this design was "Prince of Wales Plumes", but the feathers look more like the headdress of an Indian Warrior!" Ms. Kamm may have been introduced to the pattern by a pitcher decorated with ruby stain applied by the Oriental Glass Co. From time to time I had heard speculation that the pattern had been named and introduced to coincide with a visit to the U.S. by the Prince of Wales. I found nothing in the sources to lend credence to this. Tom Felt, in his excellent article on #335 pattern (Heisey News Nov. 1989), provided a more plausible connection between the pattern name and events in the U.K. "...just days before the first advertisements appeared...the Prince of Wales had ascended the throne of England..."

As Tom Felt mentioned, the Prince of Wales Plumes pattern appeared in several trade journals between February and September 1902. The September 5 issue of China, Glass and Pottery Review that year stated, "...Buyers who are in search of table glassware that meets to the fullest extent the demand of the public for artistic shapes and decorations will find what they are in quest of in A.H. Heisey and Co. offerings for Fall. Their figured pattern #335 includes every article that goes to make up a complete line of table glassware."

There were few changes in items price-listed between 1902 and 1906. The number of items offered declined rapidly between 1908 and 1910, and price list #175 issued in 1913 made no mention of the #335 pattern. ♦

CLUB NOTES

Bay State Heisey Club #5

Susan Pescatore

The first meeting of the season was held on September 7, 1993, its most important business outlined our programs for the year designed to study specialized topics, with a view to getting back to basics.

From over 55 items in "Bring and Brag," this is at best a random sampling: Rococo combination mayo and relish; #331 straw jar; #1235 hi-ftd. compote; Sunburst "suit" bon bons; Waverly Orchid cake stand; Rabbit paperweight, frosted; Ridgeleigh Zircon vase; #305 cruet and #357 syrup; Plateau Marigold sherbet; Inside scallop Vaseline nappy; and #6060 cocktail shaker and 10 sodas, Winchester etch. ♦

George Gleason

The summer of 1993 was filled with excitement of going to my first Heisey quarterly meeting in Sturbridge, Massachusetts. It was a pleasure meeting Sam Schnaidt, Tom Bischoff, Bob Rarey, Fran Brock and the whole Heisey experience. This meeting was educational and gave me an insight to the working of a national club.

I also enjoyed being part of the auction. I felt that I was helping a part of history in preserving a piece of American glass. Jim Houghton & Tim Rector, along with the Yankee Heisey Club made my week very enjoyable. ♦

Heisey Collectors of Texas #16

Aleeta Herr

The September meeting of Heisey Collectors of Texas was held at the lovely East Texas home of A.C. and Madeline Sullivan. There were nineteen members and three guests present. The theme for our meeting was "bring your favorite piece of Heisey or the one with the most interesting story behind it." There were some especially unique items including; Heisey puff jars dating from the late 1800's, #1555 Cornucopia vase, #1170 Pleat & Panel spice tray, Greek Key french bread holder and a very unusual Heisey glass shelf support.

At the end of our meeting our three guests turned into three new members! We would like to welcome Julie Guidry of Houston and Mack & Diane Buchanan of Dallas. Our meeting is scheduled for November and will be hosted by Ed & Ella Buttry in Lindale. ♦

The Golden Gate Heisey Collectors #33

Fran Shields

The Golden Gate Heisey Collector's Club was held on Saturday, October 9, 1993. The meeting was hosted by Lee Jones and Russ Nicholas in Petaluma, California. Members were encouraged to share latest summer Heisey finds even though "Summer treasures, some are not."

Our summer meeting was hosted by Gloria and Martin Custer in Carmichael, California. At our business meeting we discussed customary reports and then we turned our attention to the recent Heisey Convention. The overall impression of the new Museum was very, very positive, with special high praise for interior details.

We then began a discussion on the Heisey "mold gate" controversy. Did you recently vote for someone who made the Board? Let them know you voted for them, and how you feel about the matter. ♦

Heisey Club of California #13

Pony Express

The September meeting was hosted by Bob & Libby Williams in Apple Valley. The program included a slide presentation on the animals, information shared by both Betty Wanser and Gordon Clark, as well as a display of the Rosalene and Lavender Ice series.

The August meeting was hosted by Betty & Herb Wanser. The business meeting included an informative report from Fran Brock, after the business meeting Betty Wanser presented an informative program on Fancy Loop, with over 45 examples of this pattern in crystal and emerald on display. Members had many Heisey pieces to share during Show and Tell. ♦

National Capital Heisey Study Club #44

Butch Jones

The September meeting was held on Monday, September 20, 1993. The program focused on "Finds of the Summer" and a review of the HCA Convention. Our October meeting was held on Tuesday, October 12, 1993. Also discussed in our business report was the Souvenir Dinner hosted by the Yankee Heisey Club in Sturbridge.

Here at home we are looking forward to interesting meetings of our own. ♦

Rare Pieces Will Highlight March Auction

Carl Sparacio

A Stanhope Wine glass is nice, but how about a cordial? In Limelight, even?

Would you believe a Stanhope cordial in Limelight? The first ever offered as far as we know! Or how about an #1150 Colonial 8-inch plate in Alexandrite? It's surely to die for! While you're still drooling, think about a tough-to-find Sahara Empress ashtray! Not too shabby either, eh? And, if you're one of the many unfortunates who don't own a copy of the long out-of-print book, Heisey Stemware by Bradley, Ryan and Ryan (used copies are selling at a stiff premium) you'll have a chance at a mint, autographed first edition. This book has one of the authors' original notes on stem values penciled in! (hey, so maybe it isn't so mint—sue me).

The annual HCA Auction won't be held until March but the members of the Endowment Committee, an eager group, jumped the gun and have started collecting donations to be placed in that auction for the sole benefit of the Endowment Fund. Judging from the jump in Endowment Fund donations at the June convention, most of you are already aware of the purpose of this fund. To put it simply, if we put enough money into the Endowment Fund and invest it, we'll eventually earn enough to support the museum on the interest earned by those investments (the principal shall remain sacred).

Wouldn't it be great? No one will ever again confuse the HCA with one of those Public Broadcasting TV Stations that are constantly seeking pledges.

We've got a long way to go before there's enough money in the fund to support our museum, consequently, accepting Heisey glass for the auction in the name of the Endowment Fund is only a start. You'll be reading about more ways to contribute in this space in the coming months and, believe it or not, some of the ways are actually painless. But, for the present, pitch in and donate something exciting for the March auction. Money realized from donated pieces will go into the fund and you, in turn, will earn a tax deduction and a very warm feeling.

It's simple. When you send glass for the March Auction (see details on the next page) you need only indicate which piece or pieces you want to benefit the Endowment Fund and the good people on the Auction Committee will do the rest. They'll even accept glass over the limit allowed in the auction, as long as only the donated glass is over the limit.

If you have time to spare after all that packing and shipping, drop me a card in care of the museum so I can let the world know of the other special pieces the Endowment Fund will have in the auction. If you're bashful—you don't have to write. Just send something.

I'll bet you feel good already just thinking of what you're going to send. ♦

Or, would you like to have a #1401 Empress ashtray in Sahara?

This space for rent—send your unusual auction donation for the Endowment Fund and we'll try to picture in a future issue.
