President's Update

Amy Jo Jones

Spring fever is becoming apparent here not from the standpoint of the weather, but from the activity in preparation for upcoming events. First comes the March Benefit Auction offering more than 1100 lots of quality Heisey glassware. Not only is this the time to add to your collection, it is an excellent time to come for the educational experience of seeing such a wide range of glass. It is also a good opportunity to become acquainted with some of our large HCA family because we expect members from coast to coast to attend. If you cannot attend, be sure to send in your mail bids right away. Don't forget this is one of HCA's major fundraisers and one of the most lively in which to participate. When you admire the awesome display of glass, be sure to thank the Dayton Area Heisey Club for the work they have done to produce this event.

Many people will be staying after the auction for the 200 Dinner 1995. From what I am told by the committee, even more people are very welcome to stay for the festivities. Ticket sales to date allow for many more of you to attend this function which is becoming a favorite of the Newark community and the HCA members who annually support it. Treat yourself to a fun evening in cruise ship atmosphere of delicious food, entertainment, spirited casino action and the chance to walk away with the grand prize or one of the cash prizes. Split the ticket with a friend! You will have a great time and HCA benefits; a win/win situation. Write HCA for your ticket today or call John Eshelman (614) 366-4826, Dick Smith (614) 366-5163, Sam Schnaidt (614) 587-0052 or Norm Thran (614) 344-5955. HCA needs your commitment now!

By now, all voting members should have received by first class mailing the proposed changes to the constitution and bylaws. I had announced the information would be in the February issue of the Heisey News but the number of pages needed made that impractical and more expensive than a mailing. There is no form on which to express your opinions, however, that provision is part of the proposed change in the absentee voting clause of the bylaws. (Currently the bylaws state voting will occur during any regularly scheduled meeting.) Such a change would allow for greater flexibility in obtaining an absentee ballot in voting for directors at the annual meeting, for example; a change long requested by many of our members who are not able to stay throughout convention week or are called away in an emergency situation. Voting on the proposed changes will take place at the quarterly meeting prior to the Saturday session of the Benefit Auction. Last month the members of the Endowment levels of membership were listed from the computer listing for the newsletter. That list indicates only one member of a household receiving the Heisey News. The program is being modified to show all endowment members of a household. Our apologies to all whose names were not shown.

Many have expressed interest in results of the auction at which furniture and accessories from the home of Liz King were sold. Items that will be coming home to the King House are a settee (currently being reupholstered), a Federal style table (a favorite of the resident ghost), a watercolor of Liz King's grandmother, and some silver flatware with the King monogram. Be sure to seek these pieces out when you visit to the museum.

Other spring fever activities at the museum are the preparations for the convention. There is glass, much glass, to be cleaned and final event preparations to be made. One announcement that can now be made is that the banquet speaker will be Gary Baker, curator of glass, of the Chrysler Museum. In addition, you will find very informative a full slate of seminars by some of our most knowledgeable members. It's time to plan now! ♦

Curator's Report

Karen D. Kneisley

It's great to be back at work in the museum—it sure beats the doctor's office. During my absence Kelly Thran and Don Valdes did a wonderful job catching up and keeping up with some of my duties. Because I am still not feeling 100 percent, they will continue to handle some things for me. I hope to be completely recovered by July or August. Again, I want to thank the HCA staff, Board of Directors and all of you for your support and kind thoughts during my health crisis.

Getting back on track with centennial celebration activities has been my major focus for the past month. With the help of the Convention Committee, we'll have a week-long educational opportunity to kick off a year-long celebration. A workshop with the molds and a banquet presentation by Gary Baker, curator of glass at the Chrysler Museum, will help introduce the context for our 1996 activities.

To those of you who have offered assistance with publicity activities—fear not, I am putting the materials together and will have them sent out as soon as possible. It's never too late to jump on board for this project and it's a great way to get to know more about the glassware and those who collect it.

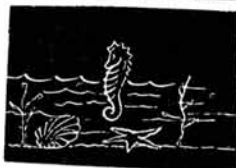

I'm looking forward to the auction this month and the convention in June. We've heard from so many new members lately that I know there will be a lot of new faces at these and other HCA activities. And that's what it's all about. ♦

Focus on the Collection—Items from the Last Years

Karen D. Kneisley

Looking through the new reprints of catalogues #32 and #33 in the Museum Shop (which are not truly "new," just reissued by HCA), we see the sampling of wares are offered by a failing company. In 1953 and 1956 A.H. Heisey and Company issued their last two catalogues and they provide an interesting overview of attempts to revitalize existing lines to capture more consumer interest.

First, look at the formats. Catalog #32 (1953) is very straight forward—the traditional white-on-black drawings, very orderly, consistent pages. There are even lines below the price lists to accommodate the salesman's or retailer's notes. The next catalog, #33 (1956), has a much bolder presentation. Some of the white-on-black drawings remain, but most items are illustrated by photographs and are highlighted with larger headlines and catchy slogans.

Judging from the kinds of correspondence available in our archives, regional salesmen were pitching suggestions to Rod Irwin in hopes of reeling in more customers. These changes and improvements can be seen in the differences between the two last catalogues.

In Gallery II you can find the museum's collection of Saturn along with floral bowls and vases located throughout the entire museum. Happy finds. ♦

Watching For Heisey—Not For The Birds

Carl Sparacio

I have two Heisey hobbies. One, of course, is collecting Heisey, the other is more akin to bird watching without birds. I watch for Heisey.

Ah, ha, you say, Sparacio's snow blower is stuck in reverse- doesn't he have to watch for Heisey to collect it? Sure he does but the difference is, when I'm Heisey watching I don't add a thing to my collection no matter how productive the Heisey watch has been.

When bird watching you spot a bird and make a note of it, you don't take the bird home. It's the same with Heisey watching—see, you substitute Heisey for the birds. The references are even similar. You require a field guide (I use Vogel's) and you make note your "sightings" in the guide. Field glasses, however, are not necessary unless you suffer from extreme myopia. Just as in bird watching, when you watch for Heisey you may spot it where you wouldn't expect to find any. I hope you understand that you're not likely to find Heisey up in a tree with the birds, I wouldn't want to be responsible for broken limbs. Environmentalists get testy if we break even the littlest branch.

It need not be an actual piece of Heisey you spot, though that can be particularly gratifying: a photo in a magazine showing a piece of Heisey works well or even Heisey sighted in a movie or on TV. Either way, it's a kick. Old Heisey ads in equally old magazines don't count and pictures in antiques papers or books don't qualify either. Price guides are definitely out.

The sighting has to be in a place that neither knows nor cares that it's Heisey being shown. I came upon the first and best sighting in a magazine many years ago. Actually I think twin brother Vince (the retarded one) found it. It was in the decorating magazine, Architectural Digest (either that or another magazine equally as snooty). A full page photo illustrated an article on how to decorate a dinner table. The color photo showed a table set with, among other things, Heisey Creole stemware from wine to water goblet—all in Alexandrite. It was a knockout. I still have the clipping somewhere among the ephemera of my hobby.

I say "ephemera," Helen says, "trash."

There was nothing in the article nothing who made the stemware or even that it was "antique" and no longer available. I read the piece many times over hoping to find mention of a source. None was given.

More recently, in that now defunct wonderful TV show, "Brooklyn Bridge," the family was shown sitting down to their Passover dinner and, what to my wondering eyes did appear on the dining room table but a pair of New Era candelabra complete with bobèches and prisms. You knew right away this family had class. Not only does the set designer win points for good taste but, since the story takes place in the forties, he gets an A+ for research, too and I made another sighting for my field guide.

Most of us have seen the ad for the movie "The Glass Menagerie" showing Jane Wyman with a bunch of Heisey's glass animals. You can still see that movie. It's usually run in the middle of the night when they take a break on the shopping channel. Both the ad and the movie itself will count as a genuine sighting for your Heisey field guide.

Recently, on PBS, a pair of old romantic comedies were run. In one, featuring Spencer Tracy and Kathryn Hepburn, Old Spence was seated at a piano and a pair of tall No. 19, Classic one light candelabra graced the instrument. I entered the sighting in my field guide but didn't get full credit because I didn't remember the name of the movie. I couldn't help but wonder where those sticks might be now. I'll bet they're still in the studio's prop room or collecting dust in the warehouse of some prop supply company. I bought a 3 tiered epergne, after all, from a company that rented props to movies and TV before the owners retired and changed it to an antiques business to sell off their prop inventory.

Come to think of it, my epergne might qualify as a sighting for my field guide. It was, after all, sighted in that antiques shop window—the last place you would expect to find a three tiered Heisey epergne.

Many sightings are made while sightseeing. That sounds redundant but it makes sense, if you think about it. We took a tour of Gillette Castle in Old Lyme, Connecticut and found that the kitchen cabinets held a number of Heisey tumblers. It made my day. At another time, in another house, a beach house rented for two weeks a few summers ago, the pantry held treasure. There were a pair of Crystolite salt and pepper shakers and a half dozen Heisey sherbets. The urge was strong, but I resisted. (It's doubtful I would have exhibited the same strength of character if there had been a set of Fandango goblets).

More recently, number 1469 pressed Ridgeleigh stemware reared its pretty little head as accent pieces in the photo layouts of a Pepperidge Farm catalog. I can't help but wonder how this came to be. Why those particular pieces? Was someone on the staff a collector? Wouldn't a Fandango goblet have made a more striking picture than the pressed Ridgeleigh goblet? You bet it would! No matter, It gave me another entry for my field guide.

Twenty or more years ago I stopped for lunch at the restaurant of one of Baltimore's venerable department stores, Hochschild Kohn, I don't suppose the store even exists today. Each table was set with a Crystolite cream pitcher and matching sugar bowl. Again I said, "get thee behind me, Satan," and settled for recording the sighting in my Heisey field guide. No matter, the thrill of the sighting was more satisfying than the stealing. Besides, I couldn't figure out how to cop a creamer without messing up my suit jacket pocket—zip-lock bags hadn't been invented yet.

I confess that since Heisey has become harder and harder to find, I stretch the rules a bit now and then and note pieces in my field guide that are offered for sale when I see them (usually a no no if you play by the strict rules of Heisey Watching). It's accepted only in cases when conditions make the items unpurchasable because of being broke. Not that the glass is broke... it's usually me (if one more price guide update comes on the market I'll have to give up Heisey collecting—Heisey watching will be my only hobby).

You might want to try Heisey watching, it's a lot of fun. Besides, watching old movies to spot Heisey is not as ego deflating as trooping through antiques shops and malls to hunt for the stuff. Helen and I recently went out on Heisey watching field trip—a long weekend to look for the prize all Heisey collectors seek—an ignorant dealer. By the time we were through I had sunk into deep depression. Not that we didn't find anything. We did OK by today's standards. No, it was the realization that I was older than most of the "antiques" we'd been looking at. That broke my spirit.

I gotta get a new hobby. ♦

On the reverse side - the editorial page! Wonderful! Here were such editorial musings as one upon the death of Woodrow Wilson in which one and a half columns were given to the past president and his vision of world peace. This immediately followed by an article headed "A TRAINING SCHOOL FOR LAWYERS" the essence of which is found in the sentence, "...all lawyers ambitious of reaching the financial pinnacle of their profession should take a postgraduate course in the President's Cabinet." Does this sound contemporary? Look again at the ad..the year, 1924!♦

Cover Story: Sow and piglets

Charles Wade, Special Projects Committee

It has been some time since we have offered you or I should say tempted you with a Lavender ice selection. Well guess what Lavender Ice Collectors here is your chance to order up what we think is a great offering beginning March 7, 1995. We will accept pre-orders for the sow and two sitting piglets, (same mold Fenton used for the gold series) at the very low sum of $75.00 a set. Yes folks I said $75.00 for the set plus shipping and of course Ohio residents must pay sales tax.

Again we limit this to a total of 450 pieces of a 30 day order period, which ever comes first. The sow will be numbered with the specific number, ie. 400 of 450. The piglets will not be numbered as they are too small. Please see the order blank below for all the details. Proceeds from this sale will help defray operating costs and maybe buy a coat of paint for the back of the Museum King House. As always your support is greatly appreciated. ♦

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE 1995

[illegible]

In preparation for the Gala Heisey Centennial in 1996, our goal is to dramatically increase, perhaps even double the nationwide membership in HCA. Every successful organization must constantly build upon itself to sustain its existence. This is a goal we all share. Included in this month's Heisey News is the handy membership pull out section with all the information and tools every member will need to help us reach our goal!

On the following page...

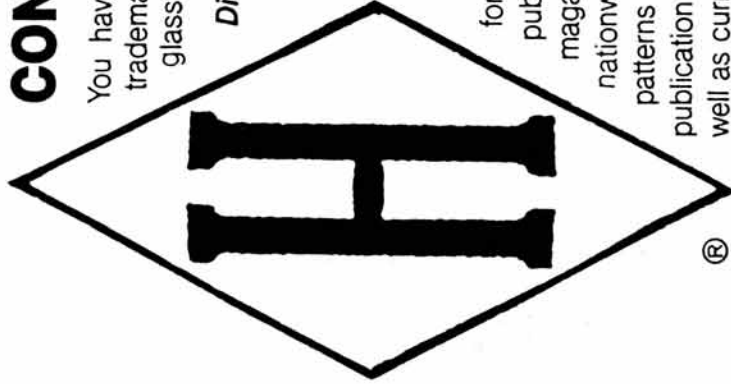

Is a double copy of a show flyer. A great individual or club project would be to reproduce this page, cut in half and leave in piles of 25 at the major shows and antique shops in your area. This will give folks who are interested in Heisey a quick and easy way to reach HCA and join the ever growing network of Heisey fanciers nationwide.♦

The Annual Heisey Convention—You Shouldn't Miss It!

Jim Houghton

So you're a new HCA member and you are contemplating your first trip to Newark for the convention. Or, you're a long time member and are eagerly planning your first trip to Mecca. Looking for some tips? Since I was once in that position, let me give some impressions and sketches of what I consider to be the annual Heisey happening in Newark, Ohio.

The central Ohio area in June has great a climate even though it manages to rain at least a couple of days during convention week. Usually the storms pass right over leaving better weather. Newark and Granville are safe, quiet, restful, picturesque and easy to travel between. All events and sights are within fifteen minutes of each other so there is never a rush from place to place. The area hotels are all adequate, reasonably priced and listed in the Heisey News. Keep in mind you won't be spending much time at your hotel anyway.

Food is not a problem. All the national chains are in the area with restaurants in Granville, Newark, and Heath. You'll soon find a favorite and seek it out on a yearly basis! And, many HCA events include meals making for the most efficient use of time.

Attire for the week tends to run very casual. People tend to save their best duds for the banquet Friday evening. Keep in mind, though, include an umbrella for those highly humid days! Galoshes not necessary.

There are plenty of antique shops, in addition to the other shows and auctions, in the area and they all have Heisey for convention week in June. Don't be intimidated by all the Heisey experts in the area that week. Like any other show or flea market, it all depends on being in the right place at the right item. And bargains and finds seem to jump up at you from the vendors tables. Be observant and diligent and you will be rewarded!

The many volunteers and committees work all year to plan and produce a week of fun and education. They all do a superb job. Their dedication and timeless efforts deserve your participation in all activities. However, they are willing to make known to any traveling companions not as tuned in to Heisey as others (can it be?!), all the other fascinating attractions in the area. Just a few miles south of Newark is the famed Dawes Arboretum with a more than 2,000 species of trees and shrubs and a Japanese garden judged one of the 10 best in the U.S. In Newark, is Moundbuilders State Memorial and Ohio Indian Art Museum representing the artistic achievements of all the prehistoric cultures in the Ohio area. Many other interesting points of interest will be listed in a Licking County Visitors Guide in your convention packet.

The National Heisey Glass Museum is listed in that visitors guide and will be just as absorbing an attraction as the others. Marvelous displays of more than 5,000 pieces of Heisey sparkle in beautiful cases. The museum is the reflection of the genius that was Heisey and is the finest museum of its type in the country. And once you have made your way through all the displays, be sure to stop in the Multipurpose Room and visit with Virginia and Odell Johnson who are hosting the Hospitality Room. They will have tea, coffee and many luscious goodies donated from all over - Texas, Washington, Wisconsin, North Carolina, etc. As you are relaxing, you can look over the display on Heisey advertising which will be set up there.

The HCA Glass Show at Adena Hall at the Newark branch of Ohio State University is just about ten minutes from any point in the area. Fifty dealers from across the country with some of the nicest pieces you've ever seen. So much great Heisey in one place and all for sale! This is where you can purchase the piece you just saw at the museum! Again you can find a bargain if you are diligent. Go through three times at least, in different directions. You'll see different items each time. The show preview is Wednesday from 5 to 8 p.m.; Thursday through Saturday show times are 12 to 5 p.m. A concession area is in the lobby serving sandwiches and other light food.

The All Heisey Glass Display is a collaborative effort by HCA members and entire study clubs to stage truly awesome theme displays of Heisey. Also there will be feature tables set with each of the colors of Heisey as though they await the celebration of a great occasion. Located in Hopewell Hall, it is just adjacent to Adena Hall, easily reached by foot or by complimentary golf cart transport.

The Swap and Silent Auction—One of the most popular of all HCA events, this event is always crowded, busy and lots of fun. Bring your unwanted items to the silent auction to consign to be sold. Items are placed on a counter with a long bid sheet and buyers are assigned numbers. A time is set, sometimes three minutes, sometimes fifteen minutes, you never know. If you want an item you write your bid on the bid sheet. When the alarm goes off, whomever has the last written bid wins! Hosted by the Dayton Area Study club, 20% of the realized price goes to HCA. The swap can also bring you that special piece if you have sharp negotiating skills. Each person is allowed 12 items on a table to entice another into entering into negotiation.

The ID Session—Have a piece you can't identify? Plan to attend the identification session where some of HCA's best minds come together to help you and others. Have a truly impressive or rare piece you want to share with others? Bring it along and let the experts educate all on the finer points of your piece.

Flea Market on the Square—The fun is rolling out of bed between 3 and 5 a.m., fumbling for your flashlight and wallet and heading for the main square in downtown Newark. All around the county courthouse are folks who have set up to sell Heisey. Out of trucks, vans, trailer, and boxes spill glass of all kinds. And a constant flow of the faithful circulates the square, stopping at each vendor and passing a flashlight across the table to see if a "goodie" was put out since the last turn around. I've always thought this would be a good place for the first-timer to sell some unwanted items to help finance the trip. Coffee, doughnuts and restrooms are available on site as well as other restaurants around the square that are open to serve breakfast. Great fun! Don't oversleep and miss it!

Finally—It is not only convention week, but the annual meeting is scheduled which the board of directors consider the main event. This is the engine that drives HCA. In total it is all of us joined together for a common cause to promote the preservation of and educate the public about Heisey glass. In this endeavor we will insure a strong future for the National Heisey Glass Museum. Plan to come to the annual meeting and listen to all the study clubs who will report on what they do all year long to support the effort. You will come away with a greater appreciation and affection for all who share your passion for glass and our organization.

So, now that you have been fully enticed to come to Newark in June and feel you need some help up front getting here, call the museum. They will happily send you a map of the area focusing on the way to the museum. And when you fill out your registration form, be sure to note that you are a first time attender. We all want to say Hi!, show you around and share with you some good Heisey hospitality. See you all in June! ♦

Heisey Glassware—Opal and Ivorina Verde and their Patterns 1896-1920

Dr. Shirley Dunbar, reprinted with permission from The Antique Trader Weekly, Dubuque, Iowa

Part II conclusion of continuation of article printed in January 1995 Heisey News

Opal Novelties

Opal novelties were made by the A.H. Heisey Company from 1901. They are not considered a pattern and the glass is of poorer quality from what is expected of Heisey. These items, taken from an original price list numbered #60 and having a hand-written date, order items from #40 to #61 and are all made of Opal or Milk Glass. If found, and few have been, they will bear the number of the item plus a diamond H "...which is not like the usual mark as it seems a little more crude." (Heisey News Vol. IV, No. 8 '75).

Such novelties include: the #40 pin tray; #41 comb tray; #56 match box; #57 puff box; #60 stamp box; plus, a variety of smoking articles, dresser set pieces, trinket boxes and colognes. These items are rare, bring high prices when found and in some cases have never been seen. Another novelty item which has created some controversy over the years is the trinket box in the clambroth color.

The Trinket Box

Frances Law refers to this color as "a cousin to opal." The debate over its chemical makeup is still unsettled. Some say it was burned out milk glass, but the Boston and Sandwich Company made a similar color by design, so it is not all that unlikely that Heisey attempted it also. The only Heisey clambroth item ever seen is a small trinket box in the Winged Scroll pattern.

This box is pictured in Vogel's Book IV, p. 125 and is always a souvenir piece. The trinket box was also made in emerald in the same pattern (Heisey News Vol. 1, No. 3, '72). These hard-to-find opaques are still around and make nice additions to any collection. While the clambroth and opal are rare items to find, the very popular Winged Scroll pattern in Ivorina Verde is more plentiful.

In an effort to prevent reproductions of Heisey glassware, the Heisey Club of America, Inc., purchased all the molds except the Old Williamsburg line after the Imperial Glass Company, who had purchased them in 1957, went out of business in the 1980s. Currently, this organization operates a museum in Newark, Ohio, and controls the manufacture and distribution of any reissues from these molds offered to the public.

All current issues are clearly marked with the HCA trademark, plus the name of the glass company that is making the reissue. Heisey Collectors of America, Inc., owns the rights to all trademarks on both paper materials and glassware. None of the reissues are made in the original Heisey colors. All molds made prior to World War I (about 1915), with the exception of the Colonial pattern, were melted down to aid the war effort.

The old Heisey patterns in Opal and Ivorina Verde are still good buys when found in the marketplace. These early patterns were, of course, made in crystal and several patterns were also produced in a rich green called Emerald. All represented excellent quality glassware with a value line that will undoubtedly increase as each one nears the magic year of authentic antiquity. There are few survivors from this early period in top quality condition. But, the glass collector who has done careful research and has an eye for value, can still find excellent examples at auctions, shows and shops in most localities across the United States. ♦

Heisey Collectors of Texas #16

Aleeta Herr, Secretary

November found us in beautiful Hamilton, Texas at the home of Dale and Barbara Caraway. There was so much beautiful Heisey in their home, we weren't sure if we were in Texas or Newark!! After members and guests were treated to a wonderful lunch, our hosts had a quiz for us. We all quickly found out how much we thought we knew about Heisey!

The New Year took us all to Fort Worth, Texas. Bart and Pam Burgess were our hosts for the January meeting. The Burgess' had asked members to bring a sampling of any Heisey etching piece they had. We had a wonderful lesson in Heisey etchings and cuttings and were treated to many examples that were new to a lot of us.

The Heisey Collectors of Texas meet bi-monthly in members' homes and we welcome visitors or anyone interested in joining the club. Our next meeting will be in March at the home of member Sally Lancaster. For more information concerning meetings and or membership, please contact Aleeta Herr at (214) 780-0193. ♦

Northwest Heisey Collectors #22

The February meeting was held in the home of Nan Alderson and our program was "Little Things." Just to prove big things come in little packages some of the treasures displayed were Fancy Loop open salt, Pineapple and Fan salt and pepper; Sunburst Toothpick; Punt & Diamond perfume with sterling lid; Colonial individual whiskey decanter; #4229 Moongleam favor vase with diamond optic; Winged Scroll Custard toothpick to just name a few.

Our study group is getting ready to display Heisey class at a few glass shows in the area. Our membership is growing and we are electing new officers in April. Several of the members are planning to attend the June Convention.

Our next program will be "Heisey By Imperial" and this will be of great interest to new collectors as well as the "experienced". We meet in the first saturday of the month and all Heisey collectors are invited to attend if you are in the area. Please call Dixie (360) 263-4125 for directions. ♦

Florida Heisey Collectors Club #39

Ruth Perloff

Our first was finally held November 30 at the home of Jack and Ruth Perloff with all members present. Eight members attended the Convention in June, some for the first time, so there was discussion of that event.

Show and Tell produced a tumbler with Mermaid etch, Bead Swag ruby-flashed wine, Saturn Zircon rose bowl, Nail nappy, Prism marmalade and a ten-inch cut Gascony bowl and other items found over the summer by members. Education consisted of discussing these items, years of production, colors etc.

Our second meeting was held at the home of Muriel and Sy Hyman on January 19 with all members present except our president, Everett Dunbar, who was ill. Also present was Louise Ream of Ohio! We also welcomed a new member, Carol Roberts, who was a guest at a meeting last year and has since joined HCA. Although not a club member until now. She has During our business meeting we discussed future Heisey items to be used as Convention souvenirs and voted unanimously for the Scottie Terrier. This proposal was to be transmitted to the HCA Executive Board.

Show and Tell was smaller than that of the past summer meeting. One interesting item was the large (10 ½ inch) cut Plantation candy jar.

An interesting discussion of bar glasses with examples was presented by Muriel Hyman. She showed several which are also listed as toothpick holders. ♦

Gulf Coast Heisey Club of Florida #42

Virginia Johnson

The January meeting of our club was held the 19th at the home of Marcia and Bob Ellis in Sarasota, Florida There were 10 members present and 8 guests. We meet at 11 a.m. and after the business meeting we adjourned for a lunch prepared by our host and hostess and some socializing before we began our "Silent Auction". This is our club money raising project for the Endowment Fund of HCA and there are always some great Heisey pieces to bid on, some strong "encouragers" who stress where the money goes, and the climax comes when our Treasurer adds up the total. We also had a beautifully wrapped Mystery Box of Heisey, donated by a member, for which we sold raffle tickets. The winner was John Pardee and the contents of the box brought a big smile on his face. It was a Covered Candy with Ivy Etch in the Cabochon pattern. It was beautiful! With the proceeds of the Auction, the raffle, and individual contributions, our check for the Endowment Fund will be over $1000, to be presented at the June Convention.

During the Show and Tell time of our meeting, we had a Sunburst goblet. (It came in a Christmas stocking!); a 1 pt. Cobel cocktail shaker, Orchid Etch, with a silver base and stopper, a pr. of No. 5 Patrician 11" candlesticks, and a #5065 Colt stem sherry (he said he had more than one!). Another member had also found a 1 pt. Cobel Orchid Etch cocktail shaker with a silver base but plain top. Then we had the member who brought in a cruet she hoped was Heisey (looked like Flamingo in a Colonial style) but it was one of those Mistakes.

During the business meeting, a report was given on the December meeting, copies of the flyer re Application for Membership in HCA from Jim Houghton, Membership Chair of the Board were passed out to several of our members who volunteered to make copies and distribute to Antique shops and shows. The members also approved giving a donation for the Hospitality Room which operated during the June Convention. March 16 is our next meeting and our program will be "Heisey Advertisements" given by Adele and John Pardee. We will meet at the home of Rose Mensh, Port Richey, Florida. Please call (813) 842-6388 for directions. Visitors are welcome. ♦

RARE FIND IN NEWARK

When the Heisey factory closed its doors for Christmas vacation in 1957, many items were left to be finished after the new year. However, the Heisey factory never reopened and most unfinished items were probably destroyed.

Happily, we now know several flats of #5072 Rose and #3408 Jamestown stems (complete with bustoffs) survived by hiding in a Newark basement for the past 37 years.

This is your opportunity to purchase a piece of Heisey history.
