President's Update

Amy Jo Jones

One of the best parts of this year's Percy Moore Memorial Dinner was seeing all new faces at the dinner. Many had traveled from out of state to attend. I don't think they went home disappointed; it was a delightful evening with delicious food and good company. Bidding on the special items in the mini-auction was very spirited bringing in a total of more than $3,500 for museum operations. To everyone who came to participate in this quarterly function, I would like to express my appreciation for making it such a success.

We all missed Liz King at the dinner, who for so many years faithfully attended and entertained the gathering with one of her special poems penned especially for the occasion. Currently she is making a good recovery from a broken pelvis. We plan to see her hail and hearty at next year's dinner.

On Friday, the Board of Directors approved a recommendation from the Special Projects Committee to hold a March fund raiser for a fifty-fifty split between museum operations and the Endowment Fund. Two hundred tickets will be available at $200 each with a cash prize of $10,000 if all two hundred tickets are sold. There will be a guaranteed prize of $5,000 if not all two hundred tickets are taken. To assure the success of this project, the committee came up with an incentive to award points to each person who sells a ticket. A ticket seller will be awarded with two points for each ticket sold to a person who has not attended any of the last three March fund raisers. One point will be gained if a ticket is taken by a repeat attender. The seller most successful will be given a special glass item yet to be announced. Stay tuned for more information from the Special Projects Committee. Considering in the three years this fund raiser had been held all two hundred tickets have been sold, the Board anticipates another successful event for the museum.

Saturday evening I announced that after great consideration, the Board voted to issue one more annual edition of Oscar in 1995. This comes at the request of many members and declining sales. It will be made by Dalzell Viking in brown, a color long discontinued. In 1996, the centennial year of the Heisey Company founding and the twenty-fifth year of HCA, a new annual series will be introduced to usher in the years leading to the bicentennial and the golden anniversary of HCA. Any suggestions for a replacement? Let's hear from you!

Membership in HCA continues to be strong. As of August 30, 1994, membership totaled 4044. Total members participating in one of the Endowment membership levels was 144. To me, these numbers indicate the commitment to a strong future for the museum. Although I now live in Ohio, I have lived in far away states, and had my membership as my only link to the museum. Sometimes it felt very frustrating to not be able to contribute more. However, never forget that by continuing your membership in HCA you are participating with a large group of people in making this museum one to be admired by anyone who believes in preserving a part of our heritage for future generations. It is not a small or insignificant walk up to the front door, I am saddened only by the thought of many of you who have never had the opportunity to visit as many times as I now do and enjoy how beautiful it is inside and out. However, please know that it is here—it is strong, vital and will be here when you get the chance to visit due to every one of our combined efforts, I applaud you all. ♦

Curator's Report

Karen D. Kneisley

We continue to put our plan for the centennial celebration into action. At the September meeting of the Board of Directors I introduced an exhibition schedule for 1995-1996. The proposed exhibitions will help members and visitors gain greater insight into A.H. Heisey and Company, as well as the glass industry at large.

An exhibition focusing on Heisey advertising will inaugurate our first exhibition series.

Our first exhibition will open with the Convention 1995 kickoff of our centennial activities. Making a Mark in the Glass Industry: Heisey Advertising will feature items from the archives. Through agency proofs and actual ads, the exhibition will show the progression of the Diamond H trademark and how Heisey marketing changed over time to reflect the tastes of its clientele. A chronological arrangement will demonstrate the volume of advertising created by the company and the shift from trade publications to the general readership. Interpretation will explain social and economic themes that are portrayed by advertising styles and subjects.

During the same Convention week we will host a workshop/seminar that will allow members to help us prepare for the next exhibition to be staged in January 1996. In the workshop members will learn how to clean and preserve the molds as well as their function. Entitled Lasting Impressions: The Fine Art of Mold-Making, the exhibition itself will provide a side-by-side comparison of molds and the objects they produce. Interpretive material will demonstrate the process of mold-making with reference to models and drawings in our collection. The designer's perspective will be represented by materials relating to big names in Heisey's art department, such as Eva Zeisel, Horace King, Carl Cobel and Walter Von Nessen.

In May 1996, we will present A.H. Heisey: Portrait of a Glassmaker. Coinciding with the grand finale of the centennial celebration, this exhibition will highlight the career of the man who made it all possible. Photographs, memorabilia and glassware will tell the story of the glassman who brought the elegant industry to Newark. Information from the archives and trade books will provide background on A.H.-the-person as well as the characteristics necessary to run a good glass business. Design drawings and patent documentation will be presented with the accompanying glass pieces.

To keep the excitement alive after the grand finale, we will offer Business Among Gentlemen: The Nature of Competition in the Glass Industry in September 1996. This exhibition presents Heisey in the context of its peers. Correspondence in the archives will demonstrate the close working relationship between Ohio glass factories. Comparisons of similar merchandise and catalogs by categories of price and purpose will give the viewer a feel for the atmosphere of the hey-day of the elegant glass era. Interpretive materials will discuss the function of trade associations and give background on the industry leaders.

As if this educational agenda isn't ambitious enough, we have plans for complementary publications, workshops and lectures along the way. I don't want to give it all away at once, though. You'll hear more about this exciting celebration in issues to come. ♦

Focus on the Collection—Tangerine

Karen D. Kneisley

In keeping with the warm hues of Autumn we set the King House dining room table with Tangerine. The museum's set of Tangerine features #3404 Spanish goblets, champagnes and wines and #1401 Empress square 8-inch plates, which we set atop 10-1/2-inch Crystal of the same pattern. To accessorize the table we used a Tangerine Empress cream and sugar set (the one with three handles) that is usually on view in Gallery 2. A #3397 Gascony bowl in Tangerine with a Crystal foot holds the floral highlight—an arrangement of Chrysanthemums, Roses and Cattails. We're lacking single-light candlesticks and a pair of salt shakers, so we chose the Crystal versions of #1472 Parallel Quarter and #44 Detroit, respectively.

The items on the King House table are good representations of what's to be had in Tangerine. Empress plates, both square and round, were common items, as well as the Spanish stemware pattern (Crystal stem of course). The tablesetting also shows the characteristic variance in shades that plagues the color.

Heisey created Tangerine in 1932 in response to the glass-buying public's desire for richer, more intense colors. The orange hue is obtained not during the mixing of the glass, but in the second step—fire polishing. After the item is pulled from the mold, it is taken to the glory hole (another furnace or kiln) to add luster and smooth out mold lines. In the case of #1401 Empress and #3404 Spanish stems grace the table this season.

Tangerine, too much or too little time in the glory hole could affect the shade of the color. Tangerine ranges in shades from orange-ringed yellow (Amberina) to red to amber.

Additional Tangerine items are on view in Gallery 2 in the center section. There you'll find examples of the color range, including a #4157 Steele vase that is an opaque marbled version. Other items to note are #351 Priscilla Pilsner, additional Empress pieces and a #1430 Aristocrat jar. ♦

The Larson Lariat Stem

Carl Sparacio

It's great when I can report on something new to everyone because it's tough, then, to make a fool of myself. The reasoning is, if I don't know what I'm talking about (my wife says to insert "as usual" right here,) I can't be caught making stupid and incorrect statements. Well, incorrect, anyway, there are no guarantees regarding stupid.

This month we will introduce you to a new and unknown stem (actually, it's new to me and most of you but, since it exists at all, it must have been known to somebody once). This beauty turned up on the sales floor at this past June's Heisey Convention. I'm embarrassed that I didn't see it before it was sold, I'm usually more astute than that, after all, didn't I latch onto the Diamond Band goblet on that same sales floor a few years back. No matter that it turned out not to be Diamond Band at all or even Heisey for that matter, it was still astute of me to spot it.

The proud spotter in this instance was Sonny Larson, well known man about town in Ohio Heisey Circles. Because Sonny owns it, I've christened it Larson Lariat. The HCA will have to give it a number (I can't be expected to do everything).

There were many ways I might have gone with the name since Sonny left it up to me. Recognizing its Oxford/Yorktown stem as well as the Lariat motif on the bowl was a consideration. "Oxriat" is unusual, don't you think? I liked it but Helen said it sounded like the name of a sleazy animal. The finalists were "Larson Lariat" and "Yorktown Yahoo" both names are alternative and have a western feel. Larson Lariat got the nod because you never know when Sonny might decide to offer it to a good friend and admirer.

This stem is beautiful. The sketch, which started out full size (approximately 6½ inches high) but may vary according to space availability in the Heisey News, doesn't do it justice. I don't like to make excuses but I want readers to consider that the drawing was done on an old wash board held on my lap during a hurricane. It came this close to being a picture of a broken stem. If I hadn't been tied to a tree to keep from being blown away, the drawing would surely have been better.

It's anybody's guess how a stem like this came about. It's obviously a sample piece so you're not likely to find a Larson Lariat cordial. A goblet, maybe. After all, if one was blown into a mold, surely another might have been. I wouldn't count on it though.

The glass is superb Heisey quality. My notes didn't say that it is signed so my guess is that it isn't. I'm sure Sonny will correct me if I'm wrong. The Lariat design is molded into the blown bowl. If you can get your hands on a Lariat oil bottle (or perfume, depending on who owns it) you will see how the hollow Lariat motif is raised in the glass, it's not solid or applied. There are eight Lariat loops around the base of the bowl (more than ten and I'd have been in trouble).

The blown bowl is unlike that of any other Heisey pattern though, the pressed stem design was utilized for stemware other than Yorktown and Oxford. The #4002 Aqua Caliente comes to mind, you can have lots of fun trying to adapt that one into its name. "Sonny Caliente" was an option but I remembered a relative with a similar name and mob ties whom I don't particularly care for.

I'd like to take this opportunity to thank Sonny Larson for allowing me to be the Godfather to his stem.

I'd also like to take this opportunity to mention the March 1995 Heisey Auction. The auction held annually for the benefit of the National Heisey Glass Museum. It may seem a long way off but when you receive this issue of the Heisey News the deadline for glass to be submitted to this auction will be just ninety days away. Last year we had a wonderful selection of donations placed in the auction specifically for the Endowment Fund. This meant all the money realized for these donated items went into the Heisey Museum Endowment Fund.

When you put your glass together for the next benefit auction in March, choose at least one piece for the Endowment Fund. Mark it as such and send it off with the rest of your auction lots. Your Endowment Fund donation doesn't have to be rare or expensive, any Heisey glass will bring money that will add up to help the Endowment Fund grow.

You might consider, too, the same amount that your donation adds to the fund becomes a tax deduction for you. What a wonderful way to help preserve our museum and, at the same time, stick it to the IRS. ♦

Keeping in Touch—Remembering Jackie

Louise Ream

As you all know, much of the country was saddened recently by the death of Jackie Kennedy Onassis. In her memory, many magazines published special issues with dozens of photos. The picture of the bridal table taken in 1953 at the wedding of Jackie and John F. Kennedy is of special interest to Heisey collectors.

This photo on pages 24 and 25 of Life magazine pictured their bridal table laden with flowers and fruit. A much smaller version of the same photo was published in the special issue of Ladies Home Journal. At each place setting were a #1404 Old Sandwich goblet and sherbet. I am a little surprised that these heavy pieces were used at this affair rather than the beautiful blown and cut goblets. It would be nice to know whether these pieces were clear crystal or in Flamingo, Sahara or Moonglean.

It was, however, an honor for the A.H. Heisey Glass Company to have made the stemware used at one of the most glamorous weddings in the country. Perhaps, at this time, 1994, #1404 Old Sandwich will become an even more desirable Heisey collectible. ♦

Resting, baah! Just check with Amy Jo and Chuck about my resting. Thanks to them for a tour of the Air Force museum. They can vouch for three weeks of non-Heisey activities. I still prefer the B-17 bomber ("Strawberry Bitch") over anything else there, Chuck.

Throughout my experience here I have stumbled upon various subjects of interest—even "discoveries." Down stairs to Karen I run. My latest developed when referring to Heisey on Parade in respect to two of the "famous recipe series." We have large page proofs (19 x 28) for fourteen ads, including the two in question, "When Duck Days are Here" and "In Golden Autumn Time." Ms. Stout states, in respect to the former, AD 5-26, "The pieces of #3324 Delaware in the table setting are etched with design #172 Dover. However the design cannot be enlarged for proper identification" (p.238). For the latter, AD 6-26, she states, "The table inset shows items featured in the lower right corner. Other items are not clear enough to identify." (p.238) Surely, here was an enlargement! Once again I called upon our erudite curator, suspicion confirmed, AD 5-26 does indeed display Delaware stemware with the Dover etch. As for AD 6-26, the candlesticks are 116 Oakleaf, the floral plateau #13 flat rim.

More on Heisey advertising next time. Resting, indeed. ♦

Verlys

DECORATIVE GLASS

Whimsies—Brief Tidbits of Heisey History

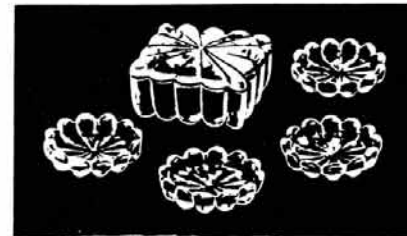

Kelly Thrane

Did you know?... Certain Verlys molds were leased to the A.H. Heisey Company in June of 1955. The Heisey Company produced pieces in Verlys molds in crystal with a frosted etch, and in color, called Turquoise. Frosted Turquoise is the same in color and ingredients as Limelight. The company marketed the color as Turquoise because the actual piece was frosted not clear. You will only find Turquoise when referring to Verlys by Heisey. ♦

Did you know?... Ashtrays and cigarette boxes and smoking sets were produced by A.H. Heisey Company in the #1496 Mahabar pattern. Fashioned after a European design the company's intent was to only produce this line in smoking related pieces. These smoking sets were produced in the colors Sahara and Zircon. The first pieces of #1496 Mahabar appeared on shelves in 1937, not to be confused with the #1503 Crystolite pattern which debuted shortly after. There was such a demand by customers to see a greater line, the company created the #1503 Crystolite pattern from the #1496 Mahabar pattern. ♦

MAHABAR

HEISEY'S LATEST TRIUMPH
Gloriously brilliant and smart in the Heisey Crystal or intriguingly exotic in Zircon or fascinatingly bizarre in the golden glint of Sahara. The perfect gift ensemble for bridge or the Holiday season. Packed in individual gift cartons or bulk.

Did you know?... The Lotus Glass Company located in Barnesville, Ohio is a decorating company which does not produce glass. Rather, they obtained blanks from many different sources, including the Cambridge Glass Company, and the A.H. Heisey Company. You can find the Lotus "non-tarnish sterling silver deposit decoration #75 Ivy" on Caprice as well as some Heisey. ♦

Heisey items are in the middle row. The second item is the #473 oil bottle, followed by the #372 Sanitary syrup, the #1183 mustard and the #1415 Twentieth Century pitcher. The last item in the row is the #1509 Queen Ann lemon dish.

Heisey Mustard Dishes

Joe Lokay

An interesting specialty in Heisey glassware is to collect the covered mustards. The table with this article can be used as a checklist for anyone who plans to collect Heisey mustards. My wife, LaVerne, is a collector of Heisey mustards. She needs nine more to complete her collection. Of course, these nine are the hard ones to find.

The design features of a mustard are a small glass vessel with a cover that has a slot in it for a spoon. The glass vessels are of different sizes and shapes. The covers are very much the same in design except for the knob (handle) on top which usually follows the style of the main pattern. Covers for the #355 Quator and #1593 Prism mustards are unique in that they are solid with a polished inside face.

The first mustard dish was produced in the #1201 Fandango pattern. While it looks like a covered mustard, the Heisey catalogs and price lists refer to it as a horseradish jar. It looks so much like a covered mustard that I have included it in my list of Heisey mustards. Covered mustards in various patterns were produced by Heisey until the plant closed in 1956. Not all patterns had mustards in their pattern line, as you can see by the absence of patterns in the list of mustards produced.

Two previous Heisey News articles will add to your information on mustards. They are "The Colorful Mustards" (April 1981, page 6) and the "Mustard Spoons & Paddle" (June 1981, page 4).

The mustards are listed in the table. Counting variations color, there are about fifty different mustards to collect. ♦

Glass Show Alert

Jay C. Martin

New Englanders, now is the time to support your club. Heisey Collectors of America, Inc. (HCA) will be represented at the annual Fairfield County Glass Show and Sale. Organized by Justinus Management, the show will be held from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on October 29 and 30, 1994 at Fairfield High School. If you can't make it out of your area very often, this is a good way to learn a little more about your organization and the glassware held in common interest. If you have friends who have become interested in your glass-collecting hobby, this is the perfect opportunity to drag them along.

HCA President Amy Jo Jones will staff a club booth in the lobby of the show. The new video A Legacy of American Craftsmanship: The National Heisey Glass Museum will be showing. Information on the museum and HCA membership will be available in addition to books, videos and reproductions that will be for sale.

On Saturday and Sunday I will present a 45-minute slide presentation entitled "Heisey—A Brief History." The lecture will encompass a history of the Heisey factory and its productions, as well as the preservation efforts of HCA.

This recruitment opportunity has been made possible for HCA through the generosity of Justinus Management. They have set aside a booth for us and given us a forum for a presentation on Heisey glassware.

The Fairfield County Glass Show and Sale is the first all-glass show offered by Justinus Management. The show will feature up to one hundred prominent glass dealers who specialize in a selection including ancient, antique, art, depression, brilliant cut, carnival, and contemporary glass. Other guest lecturers will also make presentations throughout the weekend.

Fairfield, Connecticut is located near Stamford, just off I-95 at exit #24 or off of the Merritt Parkway (Route 15) at exit #46. Hope to see you there!♦

Call for Volunteers

Karen D. Kneisley

You've been reading about the exciting plans in store for HCA, now's the time to join the fun. To accomplish all of this additional educational programming, we'll need more people to become educators. There are many ways that you can do this.

Every time we open an exhibition, there will be a need for specially trained docents. Not just greeters, but people who can help visitors learn more about the subject matter discussed in the display. As we attract more people to our centennial events, we will have a greater need for the same kind of tour guides for the museum in general, too. We don't intend to make you start cold. Special training sessions will be held throughout the year focusing on the programs as we prepare for them.

This is a serious commitment, but it's not just open to people who live close to Newark. If you know you'll be able to spend some time guiding tours during Convention week, then it would be worth your while (and especially ours, of course) to come ahead of time and learn a little bit more than if you came as a regular visitor yourself. This is a perfect summer activity for teachers or retired people.

Along the same line, but without the need to come to Newark (of course, why wouldn't you want to come to Newark) is our Speakers Bureau. As you can see, members like Jay Martin and Amy Jo Jones have decided to take their act on the road and spread the work about HCA and Heisey glass. Many groups are looking for an interesting speaker to go with their business meeting or dinner (look up the service organizations at your local chamber of commerce). If you would like to be a Heisey spokesperson in your area, we can help you prepare for lectures and presentations.

All of our efforts need publicity, too. By participating in these HCA services, you are helping us to tell more people about our upcoming silver anniversary and the centennial of the factory. If any of this sounds appealing to you, please contact me or Kelly Thran. We still have to put together our training programs, but will inform you the minute they are ready for you. ♦

New Items in the Museum Shop—A Reminder

The holidays will be here sooner than you think!

Only 90 shopping days left! Just kidding. But you still won't want to miss out on the recent additions to the Museum Shop selection. Green Mist, Light Evergreen and Ruby are perfect complements to your holiday decorating scheme and the new Ipswich candlestick is so festive it's become the most popular item in the shop. Ordering is simple, just call the Museum Shop at (614) 345-2932. When ordering by mail, please don't forget to include complete information (item number and color) and shipping charges (10 percent, plus $3.00 handling for glass items).

CLUB NOTES

Heisey Club of California #13

Gene Moenning, President

Our August meeting was held near the ocean in Corona Del Mar at the home of Connie Murphy. Twenty-seven members attended participating in our second annual flea market program at poolside, setting up tables to sell Heisey treasures and other collectibles. A delicious BBQ dinner was prepared and served by Connie and her co-hostesses Jeannie Lorti and Sofija Korff.

The meeting focussed on the December HCA quarterly meeting committee reports. This committee has met twice a month since June planning and organizing the events for December 2 and 3. Bill Brakemeyer, auction chairman reported more than 100 lots of glass have been consigned for the auction to date, including a variety of Heisey colored glass and unusual pieces. Members were encouraged to consign glass for the auction, make their hotel reservations at the Conestoga Hotel and send in their registration forms to Betty Wanser early.

The nominating committee, chaired by Bill Brakemeyer was selected to prepare the slate of 1995 officers to present at our September meeting. The September 25, 1994 Heisey Club of California meeting will be held at the MacMillan's home in Laguna Niguel.

Our members are eagerly looking forward to hosting the quarterly meeting in Anaheim and having the opportunity to meet new Heisey friends. We hope to see a large turn out for this special event. ♦

Gulf Coast Heisey Club of Florida #422

Adele H. Pardee, Secretary

The first fall meeting of the Gulf Coast Heisey Club will be held on Thursday, November 17 at the home of Stan & Lynn DeGroote in Sarasota. Any Heisey member living or visiting in the area is cordially invited to attend. The meeting will start at 11 a.m. Please call the DeGrootes' for directions at (813) 371-7601. ♦

Northwest Heisey Collectors #22

Thanks to everyone who donated glass in June! Guess what, you still have another chance!! This project was so successful that the Northwest Heisey Collectors have decided to extend the project throughout the year. Tickets will continue to be given. One per every five dollars worth of glass. For example, a $15 nut cup receives three raffle tickets.

The next drawing will be Convention 1995. The glass is put into the museum shop and then sold to souvenir seekers. June 1994 brought in more than $4,000 worth of glass, and showed a profit of 84 percent for the museum shop.

Remember, if you wish to participate in the raffle a donation form cannot be given for your glass because you may receive a prize. If you wish to receive a tax deduction you cannot participate in the raffle.

Keep that glass coming! ♦

The Virginia Heisey Club #35

Harriett H. Slear, Vice President

The August meeting of the Virginia Heisey Club was held in the home of Dot and Bob Denton in Virginia Beach. There were fourteen members present. At our following business meeting Frances Thiede reported on convention activities and that she had turned in our $400 donation to the Endowment Fund. We have also sent our donation for the purchase of glass in the memory of Annette Roloff. Our finds included a Ridgeleigh hotel sugar and creamer, individual jelly and ashtray, Crystolite oval pickle and nut cup, Victorian ¼ pound butter, Hen, Ringband variant tumbler in Custard, Peerless cake salver, Puritan bitters bottle, Recessed Panel 1 pound candy, Waverly epergne with a beautiful silver plated base, a Wide Flat Panel cologne, an Orchid etched ice tea on the Princess blank, a #1 candlestick flashed gold and a Priscilla jelly. Our next meeting will be held at the home of Frances and Harry Thiede where we will hold one of our popular auctions. ♦

Oregon Trail Heisey Club #47

Norma Guy, President

Our August meeting was held at the lovely home of Norine Millay. It was attended by seventeen members and one visitor. After a short business meeting where future fund raising projects were discussed, we had an outstanding "show & tell" session. Many beautiful and unusual items were presented. The Sahara colored Gascony #3397 tomato juice pitcher by Jim Cook, a Flamingo #4231 favor vase and a Tangerine #3404 Spanish sherbet by Neil Skibinski won many "oohs and aahs."

Our last meeting was September 11, anyone interested in visiting or joining call (503) 620-8566. ♦

WE CLEAN CLOUDY GLASS SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

Yes, it is true that we really can restore the interior of your cruet, vase, decanter and most other internally etched items back to near original condition!

We do not oil, wax or cover up the sickness in any way! We actually remove it.

No items are too sick to clean! If we cannot clean your item to meet your satisfaction, the cleaning is FREE!

We are so confident in our service that we ask that you send no money. When we return your item a bill will be enclosed for the postage and cleaning. If you are happy, please send payment; if not, return the bill marked "NOT SATISFIED."
