MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

DICK SMITH

The Benefit Auction is just around the corner. Be sure to mark your calendars and plan to attend on April 9-10. Your auction list should be arriving shortly after this newsletter. Be sure to read your list over carefully and follow all the rules if you are mail bidding. Bob and Helen Rarey will again handle the mail bids. Thanks to Barb and Mike Rosenberger and the Dayton Heisey Club for completing the catalog (with some help from Dick Marsh).

Again this year every 100th item will be one of HCA's hold back or feasibility items. This gives more members a chance to purchase one of these special items. Also note the shipping charges have gone up a little, thanks to UPS and the US Post Office.

There are also some donated items which are 100% tax deductible. The Heisey Truck is back, and this year there's also a Ty Beanie Baby, Curly, wearing a knit Heisey sweater. Truly one of a kind.

The Heisey News is looking for people to write articles for the newsletter. If we all wrote one article on our favorite pattern we would have a ten year supply of news. Give it a try and send Molly your article.

The sale of the Ruby Geese and the Pink Tiger have gone very well. The order has been placed and production should start soon.

The Y2K upgrade for HCA is going to cost between $10,000 to $15,000. This is a good place you can earmark your donations to HCA. There will also be new software and upgrades needed. If you can help let Mary or Molly know.

The Board of Directors has agreed to make a Clydesdale in Cobalt for the Longaberger Company. This is the second in a series of three and they will be available through the Longaberger Company sometime in June. Also, they will not be as limited in number as last year and should be available most of the year. This is a fund-raising project for HCA. We will pass on information on how to order one as soon as we have that information or you can call the Longaberger Company at (740) 754-6330.

Don't forget the All Heisey Show in Maryland, March 20-21. See you there, but remember it's at a new location.

Our sympathy to Tom Bischoff on the passing of his mother.

Til next month. ◆

Dick

Correction: In the February edition of the Heisey News, an endowment donation was incorrectly listed. Ralph and Roberta Edwards donated $25.00 in memory of Danny Glenn. Also, the Nassau Long Island Heisey Club donated $75.00 in honor of Sheldon Lobel. We apologize to all for the oversight.

MUSEUM HAPPENINGS

MOLLY FRYE

Wow, can you believe we are celebrating the National Heisey Glass Museum's twenty-fifth birthday this year? Who would have thought back in 1971 when HCA was founded that we would have such a wonderful facility? HCA members definitely deserve a pat on the back for all of their hard work and enduring support.

Just a few days ago I was assisting Dick Marsh and Amy Jo Jones in preparation for a convention seminar on the treasures of the Heisey Museum. In the midst of it all, I learned a few things. One is that I think I've taken for granted all of the beautiful glass that I see every day at work. (I know, it's horrible to admit that!) I'm reminded of this when I'm watching visitors—they always ooh and ahh over the glass—it never ceases to amaze me. I get a charge out of this, because for some I know we've opened a door to something completely new to them.

And that's just what the National Heisey Glass Museum has been doing the past 25 years. Opening the door to the wonderful world of A.H. Heisey and Company glassware. Senior citizens down to the smallest children have enjoyed our treasures. Fueled by member support, HCA has been able to offer a valuable educational tool to the public.

Another education asset in HCA's tool belt is our glass studio located at the Institute of Industrial Technology, just a few blocks from the museum. If you haven't been able to visit yet, you're really missing something! It isn't often you get the chance to watch glassmakers or a glass cutter in action.

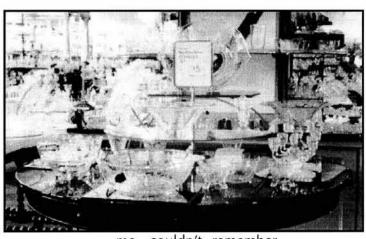

The second thing that occurred to me while working with Amy Jo and Dick was our volunteers and how valuable they are to HCA. Aside from our glass collection, I'd have to rate them as our second most valuable asset. Without their help, much of what we have accomplished in our first 25 years couldn't have been done.

The museum is always eager to find more volunteers, especially Docents to assist our day-to-day activities. If you have a few hours to spare during the week or weekends, please give me a call or drop a line. Come, share your knowledge and enthusiasm for Heisey glass, just as others have done for the past twenty-five years at the National Heisey Glass Museum.

FROM THE ARCHIVES—INNOVATIVE HEISEY PATTERN NAMES

DON VALDES

Some time ago I wrote about the confusion in identifying glassware patterns by name. Early Heisey patterns were designated by the manufacturer solely by number, not by name. Later A. H. Heisey and Company named some patterns but weren't always content with the results. For example, Gordian Knot became Lariat, Wayside Inn and Victorian, and the pattern that got me going on this article, Mahabar and Crystolite. The early unnamed patterns were subsequently assigned names by collectors, some of whom I suppose, like me, couldn't remember numbers. But those early collectors were not the only ones to devise names for patterns. I have just come across evidence that at least some of the stores were equally innovative. In cataloging our collection of photographs of over 500 store displays, largely in the form of 3 x 5 snapshots, I came across one from Marshall Fields' with a sign advertising Heisey's new, "Cogwheel design" coaster sets. I can't tell from the photograph what the "official" name is—Old Sandwich perhaps. And it isn't only patterns that were named by stores. Jordan Marsh of Boston named the Crinoline etch, "Heisey's new Ribbon Etch," on their sign touting console sets. Strawbridge & Clothier displayed the ultimate non-committal sign on a counter of Heisey console sets:

Heisey's Crystal Etched Console Sets 3 pieces $4.00

Perhaps they were as confused as I. •

FEELING LOW BUT LOOKING UP

CARL SPARACIO

It's doldrums time. As I write this it's February, it's too early for the better antiques shows to start and all the good holidays are gone. I'm getting Heisey fever and there's little to be done for it (my wife did make a compress of a Fandango nappy in a towel and I pressed it to my forehead as I lay across the sofa—it seemed to help).

Of course there's always the internet but you really have to be in the right frame of mind to work it. The problem is I'm a button clicker. I don't take the time to read where a button will lead—I just click on it. I'll tell you, the World Wide Web is really wide. I've been to many places and all in rapid succession—click-click—and the only thing they had in common was the boredom they induced. One time I got so deep into it that the only way I could get back home was to pull the plug on my computer.

Many folks worry about youngsters accidentally clicking onto a pornography site; well, I'm here to pooh pooh that anxiety. My experience in every corner of the web has shown that you can't get there from here. Believe me, I speak as one who knows.

Of course, there are always the on-line auctions and sales sites you can use to fight the doldrums. They can be interesting. Those who sell merchandise—real glass dealers are the ones to look for. They are usually pretty knowledgeable. Some of the folks who put items on auction sites, on the other hand, make my teeth itch. Many of the things they anoint as "Heisey" surely has old A.H. spinning in his grave. But, at this time of year, it's any old port in a storm—even the auction sites.

I spent today leafing through old Heisey News issues and became more than a little upset because there was so much that I had read before but, for the life of me, I didn't remember. Maybe that's what they mean when they say that education is ongoing—at least in my case it's ongoing. I've reached that point when everyday is a re-learning experience. Everyday I have to re-learn what I learned yesterday. Good Lord, there's no end in sight.

I have in front of me an auction list for the 1978 All Heisey Benefit Auction that was held in March that year (this should give a good indication of the depth of my desperation). It's fun going through these old lists and it's surprising, too, that so many prices have remained the same over the years. This indicates something but I'm not sure what. In real life, it's an unwritten rule that the piece of Heisey you really want is always more expensive than it ever was.

Of course the most fun perusing these old price lists is seeing pieces that were relatively cheap at the time and no-so-much-fun is the feeling that you wish you were smarter back then. For instance, a set of four Old Dominion goblets with Marigold bowls went for $2.50 each. As Sam Schnaidt would say, "way under the money". There was another set of four items offered—this time it was four favor vases—no. 4230, one each in Moongleam, Sahara, crystal and Cobalt. The set of four went for $220.00. I thought that was exciting. Who knows, if they added Flamingo the set might have skyrocketed to $250.00.

Lot no. 442 was a Saturn 10" vase that brought all of $60 and a Sunburst water bottle went down for $45. How about a one quart cocktail shaker with Orchid etch for $60? Or, if that didn't suit you, I'm sure a signed Spanish Stem goblet with a Cobalt bowl at $55 would surely tickle your fancy. There was a Beehive plate in Limelight that went for my entire auction allowance—$35. I bought it and I still own it.

Hey, look at this, a no. 373 Colonial syrup jug in Flamingo, got all of $25! Echoing Sam once again, I must ask, "Were these people sleeping?"

It's fun looking at old auction lists and my collection goes back to the very first one sponsored by HCA, so you can bet there's lots of hysteria at our house. Though it wasn't intended to be, this is a great way to segue into the upcoming All Heisey Benefit Auction scheduled to run in April. You may have received the auction list with this issue and, from what I've been reading, there's going to be some great stuff in it. It's one of the best HCA events you need to attend in person but, if you can't, you can always place a mail bid.

A word of advice from this old sage—if you're going to submit mail bids, keep them low. It's a nostalgia thing with me. I'd like to see a return of 1978 auction prices (I deserve a second chance).

And, while we're on the subject of things to look forward to, I'd be remiss if I didn't mention the National Capital Heisey Collectors twenty-seventh annual All-Heisey Glass Show. It's coming off on Saturday, March 20th and Sunday, March 21st. Note the new location (its third in twenty-seven years—makes you wonder why they keep getting asked to move). This year it will be held at the Summit Hall Farm Park Activity Center (boy, isn't that a mouthful) in Gaithersburg, Maryland. There's sure to be an announcement in this issue of the Heisey News that will give you all the details. Me and what's-her-name will be there so stop by and say "hello."

I can say without fear of offending anyone that the National Capital Heisey Collectors' show is my favorite of all the All-Heisey glass shows. Besides, it signals the end of the winter doldrums and that alone should earn it your support. •

1999 CONVENTION HIGHLIGHTS

AMY JO JONES

When you are planning your convention schedule you will want to make time for the seminars. Well researched and presented by our own HCA members, the seminars fulfill one of the educational requirements and are definitely one of the convention highlights.

One of the seminars is entitled Treasures of the National Heisey Glass Museum and will be presented by Jay Martin. While not an in-depth study of one particular Heisey pattern, the seminar will focus instead on some of the more spectacular pieces to be found in the museum and what makes them so special. The seminar will also take a look at some of the features unique to the King House that houses part of HCA's beautiful collection. Do you realize how difficult it must be for Jay to choose those "spectacular pieces"? Come to the seminar to find out how he solves his dilemma and then visit the museum later to choose your favorite pieces. Selections in the museum collection chosen for the seminar will be tagged so that you can take a walking tour to get an up close and personal look at these treasures.

The ID breakfast Thursday morning and the annual meeting Friday morning will be held at Miller's Essenplatz, a new restaurant with banquet facilities on East Main Street, a short distance from the square downtown. They will be serving a full breakfast (for far less than the price of a 12 inch Alexandrite ball vase and including seating) for the ID session, if not both functions. Be sure to make reservations for each event.

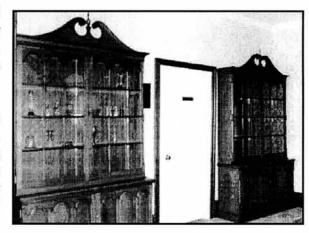

Another location change will be for the traditional banquet. In a change to familiar procedure, an informal dinner will be held at the museum on Friday evening under a tent reminiscent to the museum dedication 25 years ago and all those tent dinners that followed. This is the year to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the National Heisey Glass Museum. Come for the celebration and stay around for the kick-off of another fruitful era for the museum as we enter the 21st century!

TWENTY FIVE YEARS AGO THIS MONTH

MOLLY FRYE

Do you remember the Heisey News headlines twenty five years ago this month?

- ◆The cover story stated that the March 16th Benefit Auction held for the museum was a great success (would we have it any other way?!?). Though all of the expenses had not been paid, an estimated $8000.00 was raised. Many thanks were extended to volunteers and members for participating.
- ◆ President Louise Ream hoped that the King House would be finished and ready for an open house for club members in June. "Finished or not, the museum can be toured," she said. "Tentative plans call for opening whenever the glass is in, but having the dedication and formal opening on the date of the September quarterly meeting when, hopefully, all or most of the 'bugs' will be eliminated and everything is in tip top shape."

"Club members present at the auction were able to look over the King House after the quarterly meeting. Although it probably looks at it's worst now because of all the mess of repairing, it shows promise of what is to come. It takes vision to look at a house in this state and picture it as it will eventually be. We promise you it will be lovely."

A new heating and cooling system was installed, plus new plumbing and wiring.

Old wallpaper was removed, floors repaired, cabinets installed, plus many other tasks completed. All are excited about the coming opening of the museum.

President Ream went on to say this, "Every member of HCA is going to be very proud to have had any part in establishing this beautiful museum which is really yours, and we hope all of you will be able to visit it some day. It will be expensive to keep up and continued support will be necessary."

◆The Gateway Heisey Collectors Club in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania became the 10th club to receive an official HCA charter. Other clubs were looking for members, including the Northwest Heisey Collectors Club, and HCA members in Indiana and Columbus, Ohio.◆

1999 ALL-HEISEY BENEFIT AUCTION UPDATE

AUCTION COMMITTEE

We're looking forward to another very successful auction weekend, April 9 and 10. There are over 1025 lots of glass catalogued with many beautiful and interesting items to bid on. There should certainly be something for every collector, especially those who love Zircon and Limelight. There's a good deal of Saturn Limelight to choose from.

Also included is a good selection of animals, such as all three Elephants, the Donkey, Mallards, Pheasant and Geese, to name a few. Lots of different patterns were catalogued, like Old Sandwich, Crystolite, Ipswich and Banded Flute. Speaking of Banded Flute, there are many items in this pattern, including 6" plates, cocktails, schoeppens and a water bottle. Stemware is also a popular item, with patterns like Jamestown, Carcassone, Wabash and New Era.

Aside from Limelight and Zircon, Heisey's other colors are well represented, including Flamingo, Moongleam, Dawn and Sahara. There's even an Amber Beehive plate, in case you're looking for one!

Look for your auction catalog to follow shortly after this newsletter. Included in the catalog are all the instructions you need to place a mail bid. If you have any questions, please make sure you contact the museum at (740) 345-2932 or email heisey@infinet.com.

We hope to see all of you bidding at the auction! Remember, this is HCA's biggest fundraiser of the year, so bid competitively!!◆

THE BIG QUESTIONS ABOUT HEISEY PATENTS

HORACE KING

Reprinted from Vol. III no. 3, pg. 4

"To know, or not to know; that is the question." This paraphrase of Shakespeare's Hamlet can be aptly applied to the whole matter of the Heisey patents. U.S. Patent Office records simply state the name of the person who assigned the patent number and give the date.

This is a perfect source up to a point. It can assert the facts in this situation and lead to the claim that this is a matter of record. This is an incomplete record, however, because it omits the name of the designer. It has been assumed by several patent researchers that the name of the assignee wasn't necessarily the name of the designer. One notable example is found in Viola Cudd's Heisey Glassware, the chapter on patented glassware, pages 41-62, in which she credits T. Clarence with 82 patented designs. He did not claim all of these designs to my knowledge, and certainly, he did not claim my 17 designs at the time. Such claims would have been foolish and transparent fraud, and believe me, Clarence would not be foolish on a point like this.

Viola Cudd did not blunder in compiling her record, and she was not writing bad history to fill out gaps in her information. There is a very simple explanation for patent assignments over Clarence's signature. It was an internal situation that could not come to light for the patent researcher. Mrs. Cudd was accepting the external evidence she had at hand, the strictly factual information of the U.S. Patent Office records. It was only natural to assume that the assignee had to be the designer. This is normally the case, but my position with Heisey was not a normal state of employment.

As I have written before, my regular full time employment was that of Professor of Art and Chairman of the Art Department at Denison University. My job with Heisey was, by today's description, one of "moonlighting". By mutual agreement, I was to work evenings, weekends, vacation periods and such other time when I was free of classes. It was also agreed that I was never to be interrupted during my working hours at Denison. The Heisey people were most considerate on this point. There were many times when a large assignment of Heisey work held me to my home studio for as long as ten days to two weeks, and there were five patent assignments in the summer months when I vacationed in Michigan.

Patent papers had a habit of coming in at times when I could not go to the Heisey office to sign them. I did not want them sent to Granville for fear of loss, and Clarence did not want them on his desk for any length of time for fear they would be misplaced or overlooked. It was simple enough for me to ask Clarence to sign for me. After the excitement of assigning my first patent, the novelty was gone and I did not think of a patent record as an earth shaking event. I was also relieved to put aside one more chore that could interfere with a very busy life.

I emphasize this situation because I want to answer a few critics who have been a little bitter in their charges that A.H. Heisey, Wils and Clarence "stole" credit from their employees. I cannot answer from personal experience concerning A.H. and Wils, but I never had any doubts about Clarence's honesty and goodwill. It is inconceivable to me that any employer would steal credit for a design when it is, in itself, a record of its source. A design is a document in the form of an original drawing, signed and dated. When the mold is made from it and the glass is put into production, the resulting product emphasizes the presence of a design and its designer. This is not to say that mistakes cannot happen.

Witness the March 17, 1973 meeting when I spoke about my work with Heisey, gaily claiming that I invented Waverly and that Carl Cobel's candlestick was my design. The fact that Waverly originated in Oceanic came to light shortly after this, and I discovered that I was wrong. My claim of the candlestick stood for some time until Louise Ream told me she had seen Carl's original drawing. I simply had mixed fact with fancy after an interval of twenty years, and although deception was not my intent, I should have kept my mouth shut until I was certain of my facts. Even though I was supposed to be the expert on my own work, I was guilty of the same bad history that has plagued much of the Heisey world. Although this is a troublesome problem there can be a moment of occasional humor in it. One day Tim Heisey and I were discussing this situation and he remarked, "Well, Horace, this is the Land of Legend, you know."

This is not meant to be a sermon on patent research, but I think it is appropriate to emphasize the hazards involved in relying entirely upon the single source of U.S. Patent Office records. It is obvious that the complete record, in most cases, cannot be known because most of the former designers are gone and cannot speak for themselves. We can only speculate on their work and the resemblance to items assigned by Heisey officials. It would require the talents of a highly skilled archeologist to unravel completely all these mysteries.

Now for the sake of complete record of my patented glassware designs, I am listing the seventeen items designed and which were credited to Clarence Heisey by Viola Cudd.

Pattern	Item	Patent#	Date
1519	7" ftd. oval comport	156,882	8/4/48
1519	14" center hdl. sandwich plate	156,508	10/18/46
1519	ftd. candy/cover	157,954	10/29/49
1519	two hdl. ice bowl	156,885	11/13/48
1519	14" sandwich plate	160,860	12/9/48
1519	10 oz. goblet	159,730	10/18/49
1519	ftd. fan vase	160,385	11/22/49
1519	two compt. relish (fern handle)	162,412	11/22/49
1519	oil bottle	160,386	1/26/50
1519	7" ftd. vase	163,602	3/14/50
1519	14" oval bowl (fern handle)	161,179	4/12/50
1506	ftd. candy/cover	159,985	5/25/49
1506	14" floral bowl	162,411	11/9/49
1540	candy box (Waverly handle)	156,883	11/13/48
341	5½" ftd. epergne	156,097	5/25/49
1951	5¾" ftd. mint (called comport)	168,795	5/9/51

Mrs. Cudd lists this last item under my name as designer. This is a complete mystery to me because I have no recollection of assigning any patent on such an item. I am surprised, also, that this comport would be considered patentable. Patents were sought on the basis of the mold design and operation rather than on the shape or ornament of the glass itself. Copyright is more appropriate for the latter. Some pieces in no. 1591 Waverly, no. 1506 Provincial, no. 1540 Lariat and no. 341 Old Williamsburg were very difficult to deliver from the molds so special hinges and other contrivances were designed to ease the process, and to prevent "smears" on the glass which would result from clumsy and faulty mold operation. No. 1951 Cabochon was fairly easy to produce from conventional molds, and that is why I am surprised to find the patent record on the comport. This is another instance that "this is a matter of record" and I cannot argue the point beyond the offering that this is another of the Heisey Mysteries. •

HEISEY DINNER PLATES

JOE LOKAY

Reprinted from Vol. 3 no. 9 pg. 6

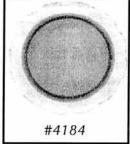

To discuss dinner plates, we must define a dinner plate. As simple as this may sound, it becomes important when you sort through all the plates, or the like, that the Heisey company made over it's 61 year life. I define a dinner plate as ten to eleven inches in diameter where the primary intent was for use as a dinner plate. Thus, something ten to eleven inches in diameter may not necessarily be a dinner plate because that was not the intent by the company when it was sold to the public.

I will define a 9" plate as a luncheon plate, an 8" plate as a salad plate, a 7" plate as a dessert plate and a 6' plate as a bread and butter plate. One could eat dinner off a 9" plate, but most people prefer to call the 10" plate the dinner plate. Plates larger than 11" are considered round platters, tray, fruit plates, sandwich plates, torte plates, etc.

Heisey ten to eleven inch plates which I feel were intended for dinner plates are listed in the table. The list was developed from study of the various books and things that I have or have read about Heisey. If you are aware of a pattern that should be included in the list, please forward the information to the Editor.

Date wise, the Sawtooth Band and the Punty Band patterns would be the first dinner plates. However, I feel that the glass beads around the outer edge effected the ease of cleaning and handling such that use of the 10" plate in these two patterns for dinner service was limited. Perhaps this is one of the reasons why these patterns were not long in life. Thus, I believe the first dinner plate produced by Heisey that was extensively used for dinner service was the Narrow Flute pattern.

Many of the Heisey advertisements show table settings with dinner plates. The April and May 1926 ads in National Geographic show table settings. The October 1929 ad in Good Housekeeping shows the no. 1252 Twist plate with the phrase, "The service in one or more colors of Flamingo, Moongleam and Marigold." The February 1930 ad in Good Housekeeping shows the no. 447 Empress etching on a no. 1184 Yeoman 10½" plate and mentions complete glassware service in crystal or three colors for the modest luncheon or the formal event. The April 1930 ad in Good Housekeeping shows a no. 1401 Empress 10½" plate and says, "Complete table service in crystal, Flamingo rose, Moongleam green or Sahara gold. Also ask to see Heisey's new Alexandrite." (Note the switch from Marigold to Sahara.) The December 1927 ad in Good Housekeeping shows the no. 1224 Hexagon Six dinner plate.

Whether in luncheon plates or in dinner plates, the table settings at the past Heisey conventions are always a sight to behold.

South Carolina Taxes Glassware

Heisey Representative Assists Merchants in Effecting Compromise

DURING the closing hours of its session last April, the legislature of South Carolina passed a law which threw consternation into the ranks of merchants selling glassware in that State. The law, which went into effect April 22, imposed a ten per cent tax on retail sales of glassware. A similar levy was made on retail sales of several other goods.

A proposition for a general sales tax had been before the legislature, but it met with such determined resistance that it was withdrawn. Then, in practically the last minute before adjournment, before those who would be affected could be aware of it and without any hearings on the matter, the tax above mentioned was hurriedly written on the books.

Business At Disadvantage

According to the opinion of many leading South Carolinians, this discriminatory act was a graphic example of the illogical ways into which legislatures so often fall. "The tax is very definitely unfair," said one business man. "It not only places a burden on merchants doing business in the State of South Carolina and places them at a disadvantage against outside competition, but discourages the active, healthy retail business in the State."

Another commercial leader stated: "This is a great mess that we find ourselves in and it is liable to spread to other states, as practically all of them are seeking new sources of taxable income, rather than to curb appropriations."

The sporting goods trade, being hard hit, took quick steps to form an association and went before the State Tax Commission to seek relief. President L. G. Osborne of the association said relative to the movement: "I believe a great deal of good will come out of it. This, however, will give us no immediate relief as the bill is now a law and the state will, of course, have to operate under it for one year. It is intended to try to have the law repealed by next year."

Nock to the Rescue

Merchants selling glassware also lost little time in making known their dissatisfaction with the tax measure. A number of those who were doing a large volume in glassware and so in a position to feel the weight of the levy most heavily. sent representatives to a meeting with the Tax Commission. Among those represented were the following stores: Sullivan-Markley Hardware Co., Greenville; Montgomery & Crawford, Spartanburg; Lorick & Lawrence, Globe Dry Goods Company and Stanley China Hall of Columbia.

At the invitation of the merchants interested, E. G. Nock of Elberton, Ga., then Heisey representative for the South, appeared at the meeting as a disinterested party. With the co-operation of the merchants' representatives, Mr. Nock succeeded in obtaining a substantial modification in the application of the tax. Relative to Mr. Nock's action, Walter Routh of Montgomery & Crawford, Spartanburg, S. C., writes as follows to A. H. Heisey & Company:

"You have probably been advised of the law requiring a ten per cent tax on the retail price of all etched glass, cut glass and art glass, passed by the South Carolina Legislature.

"As soon as this law passed, we immediately went to work to get some modification through the office of the State Tax Commission, and due to the very kind co-operation of Mr. E. G. Nock, we are very much pleased with the compromise that has been effected, and wish to thank you for Mr. Nock's service in the matter."

What Mr. Nock did in the case in question is a demonstration of the fact that the Heisey Company and their representatives are ready and willing to assist their friends of the trade in every possible way. The situation in South Carolina also warns retailers elsewhere to be on their guard, since other states might take the notion to do likewise. No one can foresee whither the whims of a legislature will lead.

Color Advertisement

N the opposite page is reproduced in actual size a full page advertisement in four colors by Heisey.

This advertisement will appear in the October issue of House & Garden and the November issue of House Beautiful.

In this striking announcement the fascinating colors of Heisey's glassware are reproduced as closely as can be done through the medium of the printing press. It pictures realistically to thousands of the best customers the fine satisfaction there is in using glassware of such charm.

Enlargements of the advertisement in poster size will be distributed to the trade within a short time. When you receive yours, be sure to post it prominently in your store or window. Another idea is to clip the advertisement from the magazines, paste it on a showcard and set it up in a conspicuous place. Putting these suggestions to work will help your sales.

E. G. Nock Goes to New York

After serving for several years as Heisey's Southern representative, E. G. Nock has transferred to New York, where he will continue to represent Heisey's glassware, with head-quarters at 358 Fifth Ave. Building. Mr. Nock acknowledges with appreciation the hospitable reception accorded him by the trade of New York City and wishes them to know that he is at their service at all times.

CLUB NOTES

Dayton Area Heisey Collectors Joyce Dickman

Our January 19th meeting was called to order by President Charlene Bowman at the Huber Heights Library. Seventeen members attended.

Plans were made for volunteering members to travel to Newark to the museum on Saturday the 23rd in hopes of finishing the checking and cataloging of glass which has been consigned to the HCA Benefit Auction. Mother Nature canceled two of three earlier planned trips with ice and snow storms.

We thank Jim and Karen Clark for presenting our evening program, Heisey Vases—Part I. They discussed and displayed vases produced during the early (1896-1905) and colonial (1906-1922) years. They plan to continue this program at future meetings by including vases produced after 1922. It was apparent from their display that Heisey indeed produced an abundance of vases.

Show and Tell finds shared were: #463 Bonnet basket in Moongleam; #4225 Cobel 1 qt. cocktail shaker with Hunter etch; #352 Flat Panel 2 qt. crusted fruit; #463 Bonnet basket with floral cutting; #4035 Bethel cigarette holder with Orchid etch; #2401 Oakwood old fashion with golf etch; #473 Narrow Flute with Rim 7½″ square plate; #1567 Plantation covered candy with enamel decoration; #1951 Cabochon footed mint; Goose decanter with tail and stopper; #1540 Lariat fan vase with Orchid etch; #462 Plain Hexagon basket with wheel cutting; and a #1540 Lariat swung vase with Orchid etch. ◆

National Capital Heisey Collectors John Martinez

Can you feel it? That's right, it's just around the corner? What is it, you say? It's the All Heisey Show and Sale and it will be in Gaithersburg, MD in March! Oooh, I can almost taste it!

Don't let all the lines on the map scare you. Getting to the Summit Hall Farm Park is a piece of cake. There's plenty of parking, and you won't have to cross a busy intersection to get from your car to the show (like in Silver Spring).

Bob Heflin has the sign-up sheet for volunteers to man the door at the show. Give him a call if you can help, or talk to him at the next club meeting.

Thanks to Eileen Schamel for her wonderful presentation on Heisey compotes and comports. Club members brought many fine examples for the impressive display of Heisey glass.

Our next meeting is Monday, March 8, 7:00 pm. Don't forget the show, March 20, 10:00-6:00 pm, March 21, 11:00-4:00 pm. See you there! ◆

Gulf Coast Heisey Club

Virginia Johnson

January 28th the Gulf Coast Heisey Club held their meeting at the home of Odell and Virginia Johnson, Bradenton, Florida. The hostess couple was Mildred and Grant Talbot and they brought in a delicious lunch. The Johnsons provided the drinks (non-alcoholic of course). There were 23 members present and two guests, Warren and Mary Welsh from Colorado Springs.

As this meeting is our fund-raiser for the HCA endowment fund, we had a raffle for a piece of Heisey worth at least $100.00. The club pays the donor $40 and the donator was Jack Grenzebach. The winner of the raffle was Ellen Rickles and the prize was a cigarette box with a horsehead lid. She was thrilled. We also had a silent auction and there were many good pieces of Heisey on the table to bid on. This is always a fun meeting with lots of participation and conversation. A report on the final amount raised will be given at our next meeting.

Show and Tell brought forth wonderful items: Whirlpool 18" Zircon round platter; #4057 10½" Orchid etched vase; #1404 Old Sandwich Flamingo decanter; Narrow Flute Flamingo individual cream and sugar; #4229 Cobalt favor vase; #4228 favor vase; Grape Leaf ashtrays; #1503 Crystolite square floral bowl; Holophane ashtray; Prince of Wales Plumes footed compote; Coarse Rib Marigold flashed celery and a small Flamingo celery; and an unusual Greek Key straw jar, this part was twisted, with a cover. I may have missed some as I was busy elsewhere!

The March meeting will be held Thursday, the 18th, 11:00 am at the home of Marcia and Bob Ellis, Sarasota, FL. Visitors are welcome; please call for directions (941-379-3302). The program will be a video from the 1998 Convention Identification Session, and election of officers. Robert Kreimer will be our President for the next two years and Rose Mensh will be Secretary/Treasurer.

New members in Florida are most welcome to join our club! We meet in November, January and March. You can learn more about Heisey and enjoy the fellowship of others interested in this beautiful glass. Check the Heisey News Club Listings for the contact person.

Happy new year to everyone! Our club is looking forward to a busy year of Heisey hunting, study club projects, glass shows, auctions and convention for starters. To make sure our membership is up to speed for the millennium we have scheduled our program for the March meeting to be the "Computer-Age Buying and Selling on the Internet". Ken Samonds and Tom Gibbons have been recruited to do the program giving tips on how to get started and the pros and cons of this median.

A very warm thank you goes out to Jim Houghton and Tim Rector who shared their home for a wonderful holiday party/meeting on December 13th. The gala event brought out a record 29 members and 1 guest. We were especially pleased that our good friends Allan Elkowitz and Peggy Wingard came all the way from South Orange, NJ to join us. It was so good to see them. It was a wonderful social event, we conducted a short meeting, show and tell and then had a wonderful presentation featuring Tim Rector's collection of the Cape Cod pattern of Imperial Glass. There was a gift exchange of Heisey glass and a good time was had by all! Thanks again Jim and Tim!

If there are any new Heisey collectors out there in Massachusetts, there are several clubs in the area. If you are interested in being a guest please give us a call!
