MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Sue Kilgore

It is a great honor for me to serve this organization as its president. It seems that I have been in love with Heisey all my life, but, actually, it has only been since I married Dan thirty-eight years ago. We gave this love to our daughters and are now passing it on to our grandchildren. Some of you might remember that we brought our daughters to Convention with us for several years. They were given $50 each to see how much Heisey they could buy in their chosen patterns – 4044 New Era and 1469 Ridgeleigh. By the end of Convention we were having them buy our Heisey for us – something about cute young girls!!! Hopefully they will join us again soon at Convention. Needless to say, Heisey has also brought us great friends and lots of fun times.

As your new president, I have high hopes for our organization and Museum. Years ago, we all came together to “save” our collections by buying the original Heisey molds and having a place to store them. Then, we needed to “grow” our Museum and we accomplished that as well. Back then our membership was over 3000. We are now around half of that.

Now we need to help our membership grow again. We all know that our membership has been “downsized”. I would love to see our study clubs “spread the word” about Heisey. How wonderful for them to set up a display at a local museum, make a presentation to a club, or set up at an antique show or in an antique mall showcase. Not only could people learn about Heisey, its quality and beauty, but they may be able to make new friends and have them become new members of HCA. I would like to see this be an annual event for each of the clubs.

Our new website will help HCA get more exposure as well. Please be sure to visit the site and spread its information to your friends. It is unclear what might spark someone’s interest to join our organization, but visiting our new site and seeing the beautiful pictures, might get someone excited about collecting Heisey.

Our Convention this year was so well organized. I want to thank Judy & Mary Ann for doing a really wonderful job as co-chairs and we are pleased to report that they will repeat the process for next year. (Can we all believe that it is going to 2010 soon – not I.) The number attending was close to the same as last year but we had quite a few new people and we are always glad to see new faces. We hope they had a great time and are now more excited about Heisey than ever.

Please make your plans to join us for the Moore weekend in Newark the first weekend in October. The weekend will be lots of fun and, of course, cooler weather for Ohio. We will have the select auction on Saturday afternoon preceded by a flea market in front of the Museum. Please come to see what you “might not have” in your collection yet.

Your Board of Directors is committed to keeping our Museum and organization strong and healthy. Remember, your board is everywhere – Florida, North Carolina, Missouri, Michigan, Washington, New York, Alabama, Virginia and Ohio, of course. We are here to listen and learn from all of you. Please consider what you can do to help us and contact a member or me today. Please make sure that you help HCA to remain a great group of devoted people promoting a wonderful Museum full of gorgeous glass.

I want to thank our past president, Bryan Baker, for all that he accomplished for HCA for the three years that he held the office. It is not an easy job trying to make everything run smoothly and keep everyone involved and happy. Bryan made great strides in giving the Museum a more orderly arrangement, updating the website, and getting our glass into the Governor’s Mansion! Great work, Bryan, we can never thank you enough and we are still relying on you to continue promoting HCA and Heisey.

Until next month, I hope that the rest of your summer is all that you want it to be and that all your Heisey hunting “dreams come true”. Be safe and have fun.

Sue Kilgore ♦

CURATOR’S REPORT

Walter Ludwig

July has been a great month here in Newark with the temperature behaving very nicely. We have had some really wonderful summer days and nights. Some are complaining because we have not had much rain, but I am thankful because it keeps the lawn from getting totally away from me.

The after-Convention jobs are gradually getting the attention that they need. There are just so many things that have to be taken care of. I apologize for your July 2009 Newsletter coming to you so tardily, but with Convention coming so late in the month and the need to get the Convention information published, I was not able to get that issue in the mail until July 8. This issue should be much timelier.

We received so many wonderful items for the Museum during Convention and they are acknowledged starting on page 17. At the Convention show, I was also able to purchase a great many examples of Heisey cuttings that we did not have represented in our collection. It is just this type of item that is needed to have a truly representative collection of the production of A.H. Heisey & Company.

During Convention, in honor of the Convention theme of Heisey Etchings our King House dining room table was a truly elegant display of some of the best of Heisey’s production. The table was set with items with 447 Empress etching in Moongleam. A great many accessory pieces were included in the display. The set will remain on view through the month of August, so if you did not see it during Convention, make an effort to stop in at the Museum for this special treat. I am sharing with you two pictures of this display – I just wish you could see these pictures in color.

Before you know it the summer will be over, while you are on vacation do drop in on a never before visited antique store or mall. You never know, there could be a treasure there just waiting for you to arrive. Remember, Heisey will not find you; you have to go out and find it.

UTILITY PATENTS ASSOCIATED WITH A.H. HEISEY & COMPANY (PART 6)

Walter Ludwig

The next set of utility patents was issued to A. H. Heisey & Company between 1918 and 1926. All of these patents cover aspects of the glass making process rather than the more interesting development of specific glass pieces. I will go through these a bit quicker, but I will show all of the illustrations that accompany each patent. I find they really do convey some of the feel of what it was like to be in a glass factory at this time.

Our first patent is No. 1,289,924 issued to Andrew J. Sanford and assigned to A.H. Heisey & Company on December 31, 1918. The patent office was still catching up from the war years because this patent was originally applied for on September 12, 1914. The patent is for a Knob-Grinding Machine.

Patent 1,289,924 – Illustration 2

As the application states it "relates to a knob grinding machine or to a machine for grinding and finishing a spherical face on the top of a knob, usually the knob of a bottle or jar, but it is equally adapted for finishing the ends of door knobs and the like made of glass. The invention also contemplates forming not only a convex spherical face on objects of this character, but also forming a concave spherical face on glass articles where such form of face is desired. A further object of the invention is to provide means for operating upon a plurality of objects simultaneously. A further object is to provide such means that by the operation thereof spherical faces of great accuracy and uniformity may be formed on the several objects."

Given all of the lavender jars that Heisey was producing in this period, one can see where such a machine would have been well used at the Heisey factory. It was also in 1919 that Heisey produced a series of glass doorknobs and drawer pulls which would have also been produced on machines described in this patent. It is unfortunate that no records have survived telling us exactly what these doorknobs looked like but it is felt that most of them were generic designs that were produced by many different glass companies.

Our next patent was No, 1,436,825 granted on November 28, 1922 to Andrew J. Sanford. This patent was for a Glass Finishing Tool. There was little delay on the granting of this patent since it was filed for on June 17, 1921.

Patent 1,436,825

The description reads, "The invention relates particularly to that class of tools utilized in finishing cylindrical glassware, such as tumblers, vases, and similar articles, wherein the walls of the open end article are required to be thinned, and especially for use in eliminating the annular bend at the inner edge of tumblers formed during the process of making the tumbler.

"To this end the invention consists essentially in certain novel combinations and arrangements of parts involving a pair of shaping or squeezing fingers for co-action on the walls of the cylindrical article to be thinned, and also in certain novel features of construction wherein a resilient pressure is accomplished and proper adjustment secured for reducing the plastic walls of the glass article to the required thickness."

Granted simultaneously with patent No. 1,436,825 is patent No. 1,426,878. Both have the same application date and the same date of issuance. No. 1,426,878 however list Augustus H. Heisey as the inventor as opposed to Andrew J. Sanford. Both patents are for related Glass-Finishing Machines. Given that A.H. died on February 22, 1922, this would be the last patent that his name would appear on.

The defining paragraph for this patent is identical to the paragraph for No. 1,436,825 except for the substitution of the word “machines” for the word “tool” resulting in the opening line reading “The invention relates particularly to that class of machines utilized in finishing cylindrical glass ware, such as tumblers, vases, and similar articles ...”

The patent then goes on, “In the process of making the cylindrical article, such as a tumbler, vase, etc., the glass may be either stuck on an iron punty or glass end on said punty, or the glass is caught in a snap device or holder to retain the cylinder in position for re-heating the material of the end that is to be finished or thinned out. During this process the glass article is retained in the finishing machine and thereby revolved a number of times in one direction, and then revolved an equal number of times in the reverse direction. During this movement of the glass the device of my invention is applied to the open end of the cylinder for uniformly thinning its walls and edges, and the forward and reverse movement of the cylindrical article, while in a heated condition and being operated upon by the device of my invention, prevents the heated plastic material from running together, and insures a perfect, symmetrical article.

“The manipulation of the glass cylinder and the action thereon by the device of my invention, insures the production of an acceptable and merchantable tumbler, vase, or similar article, and the machine forming the subject matter of my invention performs its functions with facility and accuracy.

“With the above ends in view the invention consists in certain novel combinations and arrangements of parts in a finishing machine as will be hereinafter more fully described and claimed.”

The combination of these two inventions meant that A.H. Heisey & Company had a great machine that would produce expertly finished tumblers and vases, probably excelling those that were produced by the competition. Illustration 2 for Patent 1,436,878 can be found on the cover of this issue.

Patent No. 1,515,793 was issued to Andrew J. Sanford and John B. Townsend assigners to A.H. Heisey & Company (a co-partnership) on November 18, 1924. The invention was for a machine for finishing glassware. On September 15, 1925, patent No. 1,554,038 was issued to the same individuals for a machine for fire polishing and finishing glassware. These two patents deal with the same machine with the later patent having been filed on August 30, 1921, and the former one on March 27, 1922. It would seem that these patents were held up in the system for a while and that their order became reversed when it came to issuing the patent. There may have been a technical detail in patent No. 1,554,038 which held up the issuance.

I will quote from No. 1,515,793 since it refers back to 1,554,038 and describes both inventions. "Our invention relates to glass finishing machines having snap devices for holding the glassware during the fire-polishing and finishing operations, and its object is to provide an automatic finishing machine having a simple and effective snap which shall operate automatically to receive the ware to be finished, to carry the ware through the finishing operations, and finally to discharge the finished ware.

Our co-pending application [which became patent No. 1,554,038] ... describes and claims a machine for receiving tumblers, nappies, and other hollow glassware, carrying the ware to a series of fire-polishing glory holes, with exposure to the air between the fire-polishing operations, and then finishing and burnishing the fire-polished ware, and finally discharging the finished ware. The said co-pending application shows, as its specific means for holding and conveying the ware, a form of device in which the ware is "stuck up" upon the lower surfaces of ware holding punties and is attached to the punties by the adhesion of the soft glass. Our present invention is designed to

Patent 1,581,552 – Illustration 5

The final patent that we will look at in this issue is No. 1,581,552 issued on April 20, 1926, to Thomas Edgar Skinner and Andrew J. Sanford, assignors to A.H. Heisey & Company (a co-partnership). This patent is for a machine for finishing glassware.

Patent 1,581,552 – Illustration 6

Patent 1,581,552 – Illustration 7

This seems to have been an improvement on the previous patents for glass finishing that we just covered. The description reads, “Our invention relates to machines for fire-polishing and finishing tumblers and other hollow glassware.

“The object of our invention is to provide a machine which shall perform the various operations of finishing glassware accurately and more speedily than the same work can be done by hand. To this end we provide a machine which operates to “stick-up” the tumblers or other articles upon a vertical punty, which, after it receives the ware, rocks from a vertical to a horizontal position, where the ware is enclosed in a movable glory hole to fire-polish the ware, after which the punty rocks again through 180 degrees to bring the ware into contact with buffing devices which polish the ware and restore its shape, after which the punty again descends and the ware is “knocked off” automatically.

“For the purpose of performing automatically all of the above operations we provide a series of cam-operated compressed air cylinders which impart the necessary movements to the punty and to the glory hole furnace in which the ware is fire-polished, together with additional cams for operating the buffers which finish the ware.”

This certainly sounds like the latest in technology for the 1920s. So much is being automated in this process that it obviously would reduce the number of workers needed to accomplish the task. Heisey continued to achieve its high quality product while attempting to reduce the cost of production.

This was a rather technical group of patents but they are important to see how the company was evolving to meet the production demands of the time. I find the detailed illustrations that accompany these patents fascinating.

Next month we will get back to inventions that deal directly with new forms in glassware. I think you will be able to more directly relate to those utility patents, as opposed to the technical ones in this issue. ♦

385 Grid and Square

Joe Lokay

A. H. Heisey & Company never recognized pattern 385 which has been named Grid and Square as a formal pattern. It was first listed in Heisey Price List #148 (1909) under miscellaneous additions. The pattern was pictured in Heisey Catalog #56 (1909). In Price List #155 (1910), it was again listed under miscellaneous. It was shown in Catalog #75 (1913) under miscellaneous. The life of #385 is estimated as 1909 to 1916.

There are only two items in this pattern, the half gallon tankard and the 9 oz. tumbler. Both items are pressed and signed with the Diamond H. They were made in Crystal only.

The pattern can be described as large concave squares separated at the corners by grids of cross hatches. The glass is of high quality.

398 HOPEWELL

Joe Lokay

Pattern 398 is another set of nappies with a very long life. The pattern consists of eighteen nappies, nine with diameters 3 ½" to 9" and another nine shallow nappies with diameters 4" to 10". The life of the shallow nappies was 1908 to about 1935, about 28 years. The life of the regular nappies was 1908 to about 1940 for 33 years. This nappy pattern represents one of the longest life items that Heisey produced.

The design of the nappy is very simple. The plain walls curve out like a tea cup. The flat bottom is ground to insure levelness. The nappies are signed with the Diamond H. Over time, if the molds are not regularly reworked, the Diamond H will get very weak and perhaps be gone.

The shallow nappy is made by forming out the walls of the regular nappy while the glass is hot and workable. The walls are worked, keeping the same wall thickness, so that the diameter gets bigger as the height is reduced. Thus, the 4" shallow nappy came from the 3 ½" regular nappy and the 10" shallow nappy came from the 9" regular nappy. Only one mold is needed for both styles of nappies.

The name Hopewell for this pattern was assigned by early researchers. This is such a plain pattern that it is often found with various decorations, usually by companies to whom Heisey sold the undecorated blanks. I have seen nappies in this pattern with Heisey's 941 Barcelona cutting but also some very garishly decorated nappies done by Charlton of New York.

1218 SIMPLICITY AND 1219 SIMPLICITY WITH STAR PLATES

Joe Lokay

A. H. Heisey & Company produced plates in the 1218 Simplicity and 1219 Simplicity with Star patterns for about 28 years. Production started in about 1907 and ended in about 1933. Pattern 1218 consisted of seven plates ranging in diameter from 4 1/2" to 11". The design was a simple plate design with a plain circular bottom. Pattern 1219 also consisted of seven plates of the same sizes. These were the same simple plate design except the circular bottom contained the typical Heisey star. These plates were designed to go with the 1216 Plain and 1217 Star Bottom nappies. Used together, Heisey offered them as a salad set of various sizes. The plates are signed with a diamond H.

Heisey would have had seven different molds that would have produced all of the seven different pieces in patterns 1216-1219. The switch of a bottom plate would change the mold to produce either a plain bottomed piece or a star bottomed piece. The use of a former after the item was made in the mold (where it would have looked like a nappy) would allow the item to be transformed from a nappy to a plate.

1216 PLAIN AND 1217 STAR BOTTOM NAPPIES

Joe Lokay

For about ten years, from 1905 to 1915, A. H. Heisey & Company produced many different kinds and sizes of nappies. There were many patterns in which various sizes of nappies were the only pieces in the pattern. Patterns 1216 Plain and 1217 Star Bottom are nappies only patterns. Pattern 1216 covers seven nappies of sizes four to nine inches in top diameter with plain bottoms. Pattern 1217 also covers seven nappies of sizes four to nine inches in top with star bottoms. You are given a choice of a plain or a star bottom (and thus the names that were assigned to these patterns by early researchers). The star bottom is the typical Heisey star. Following the Heisey Price Lists, 1216 and 1217 were started in 1908 and lasted to about 1930, for a production life of about 23 years.

Three salad sets of five, seven and eight inch size were offered in 1216 or 1217. Plates for the sets were from patterns 1218 and 1219. The preceding article covers these two patterns.

In 1910, a 2 ½ oz. Roman punch, a finger bowl and plate (plain or star) and a plain horseradish were added to the 1216 line. The salad sets and the finger bowl used the pattern nappies. The punch and horseradish were of plain design to match the plainness of the nappies

The design of these nappies is very simple, a tapered cylinder for the walls and a plain or star flat bottom. The bottoms were ground to insure levelness.

HEISEY SELECT AUCTION - OCTOBER 3, 2009

Dave Spahr

Hope you are planning to come to Newark again this year for a wonderful SELECT AUCTION. It is scheduled for Saturday, October 3 and will be in the afternoon. It is a part of a wonderful Percy and Vivian Moore Weekend in Newark! We will have details on the auction and registration forms for Percy and Vivian Moore weekend in the next Newsletter.

We have selected glass from our submitted lists but have not inspected the glass as of the time that I write this. Our deadline for submission of glass is July 13 and close to the Newsletter deadline for submission of this article. We should have nearly 200 lots of clean damage-free Heisey glass for your buying enjoyment! We are also working a glass show/flea market – hopefully folks will be setting up and selling Heisey and other glass in our Museum parking lot on Saturday morning before the auction. Please contact Michael Maher at 740-763-4256 if you are interested in setting up!

FYI, the September Newsletter will also include a listing of the Select Auction glass and other instructions, including absentee bid forms for use by those who can't make it to Newark! Hopefully, we can highlight our special pieces for auction in that issue.

Hope to see you there - please come and plan on having a great time! ◆

HCA Wish List Sharon Orienter

Reprinting of our most popular reference book, a new exhibit about the glass factory, updating and printing of the etching book, a new flat-screen TV and DVD player, conversion of videos to DVD, wireless computer capability. What do all of the above have in common? They are all items on the HCA "wish list." Some are projects in the beginning stages some are only distant dreams, but all have been discussed or requested and would be great to accomplish.

All of these projects are certainly worthy and would enhance our ability to get our message out to the public.

Significant resources, both financial and human, are needed for these projects. In our bare-bones budget, none have been fully planned for. Some may be worked into the budget as funds allow, but we are also anticipating having to set aside funds for the replacement of the roof in the next few years, which will likely leave very little for projects.

HCA members we need your help! If you or your Study Club, or a couple of Study Clubs collaborating, would like to take on a special project on the Wish List, contact any member of the Executive Committee for more information.

CLUB NOTES

Great Plains Heisey Club
Kathy Files

On July 18, 2009, 25 members of the GPHC met in Omaha, NE, and got the best of the “Nebraska Good Life” at the golf course home of John and Trudy Mock. The weather was spot on perfect and we all devoured delicious taco salad that heapingly filled two large Heisey punch bowls – a clever alternative use of our favorite glassware. After a choice of three desserts (some tried all three), we began our meeting with the call to order by President John Mock.

Previous minutes were approved and the treasurer’s report was given. We were pleased to have donated $1,100 to HCA at the Convention ($550 to the operating fund and $550 to the endowment fund) plus over $50 of meats, cheese, buns, and crackers to the Hospitality Room.

We were all so thankful to have Jean Will in attendance and looking fit and fine. Jean took the time to thank everyone in our club for their cards, concern, and prayers after her heart attack and extended that thanks to other HCA friends.

Those of us who attended the 2009 Convention shared detailed news of that well-run event – it was noted more of our members expected to attend in 2010.

Trudy’s “Martha Moment” was to share ways of using Heisey pieces for the display and storage of cosmetics or other items in the bathroom. For the program, we had the fun of playing the “ABC’s of Heisey” with 26 pieces of Heisey placed on a table for everyone to identify. Trudy had devised this game of one pattern name for each letter of the alphabet (with one letter at the end of the pattern name—always a ‘Twist’ in our programs)! Thank you, Trudy, it was informative and lots of fun. We recommend other study clubs do this program to learn Heisey patterns while having a good time. Congratulations to Eric who won the Fandango cream and sugar for having all the correct answers.

Show and Tell followed and our members have obviously been busy buyers this summer. Way too much to list. Check out Gregg’s pictures on our website www.greatplainsheiseyclub.org. Following is just a sampling: 3397 Gascony footed soda in Tangerine; 7102 & 7148 Wide Zipper and Zipper humidor/cigar jars; 493 cologne with 679 Windsor cutting; Plaid 24” vase; 150 Pointed Oval in Diamond Point ½ gallon jug in Emerald; Duck insert in # 15 floral block in Flamingo; 3416 Barbara Fritchie cordials with Cobalt and Sahara bowls; 1187 Yeoman 3 compartment spice tray with 3 inserts; medium Elephant; Giraffe looking back; 4052 National goblet with 9023 Fred Harvey etch; 1306 Comet Leaf goblet; 335 Prince of Wales cruet and table cream and covered sugar; 141 Edna candlesticks; 1404 Old Sandwich round cream and sugar; 419 Sussex goblets – one with Moongleam stem and foot, one with Moongleam bowl; 1503 Crystolite cigarette box in Sultana; 903 Jefferson goblet; 461 Convex Circle 2 qt. crushed fruit; 353 Medium Flat Panel toothbrush holder in Hawthorne; 5058 Goose decanter with frosted stopper and tail; 6060 Country Club 3 pint cocktail shaker with 517 Winchester ‘73 etch; 21 Aristocrat 3.5” desk candlesticks; unknown Heisey pressed pattern 15 inch sandwich plate named Quilted Double Square by the owner; 1447 Rococo whimsey in Cobalt made from a plate.

Our last activity was an auction of many fine pieces of glass, books, etc. All successful bidders were pleased with their new items—we have a great group of generous members! Thanks to everyone who donated to help replenish our treasury and thanks to the buyers.

Our meeting was adjourned but flowers and plants were dug up and shared with members to go to other states.

Thanks to the Mocks for hosting and feeding us so much yummy food. They always draw a crowd; even had Ryan Lucke attend with his grandparents Pat and Rex. Our next meeting will be in Clay Center, NE on September 26 hosted by Marilyn Sampson and Lynn and Sherrill Echternkamp. This will be our first meeting in two homes – a ‘progressive’ club session. The program will be on Heisey goblets. More details to follow – bet we’ll have more fun. ♦
