Message From the President

New Years Greetings!

By the time you all read this, 2022 will have arrived! Can you believe it? Time does fly. Especially the older I get, the faster the time goes by.

For all of you who supported the Museum in any way through your Time, Talents, Efforts, or Donations: a big thank you. To the Texas and Midwest clubs, another big thank you for your donations to the Endowment and the Operating Funds. A big thank you to all the Board members who spend their “donated” time and talents for the betterment of HCA and the Museum. For those of you who are not aware, all Board members serve without pay and travel back and forth to Newark on their own dime, yours truly included. THANK YOU! And to our staff, who put up with me and a lot of gruff, a big thank you also for all that you do. For I know it is not the pay you are there for. THANK YOU!

As I look forward into 2022, we are still dealing with several items from the past and will be carrying them over into the new year. I hope you will see a freshly painted Museum when you arrive in June for Convention and one with a new alarm system in it. One of the major items I am working on now is the digitization of our archives. We are blessed with an enormous amount of information on the Heisey factory, family, and their history. All of it must be preserved for future generations. Too quickly we could lose it all to time and some type of devastating event if we do not act quickly to preserve it. This is an enormous job and one that will take time and money to complete; however, failure to do so is not an option.

One of my other goals this year will be to find permanent solutions for our limited museum volunteer glass-cleaning crews. Again, time has taken its toll on way too many of our volunteers who, for years, came to the Museum in the winter months and cleaned the Museum glass before every convention. It takes someone able to move heavy glass doors and shelves in and out and gently clean and handle the beautiful Heisey glass that we see behind the doors and on the shelves. Local Newark and Ohio clubs have taken care of this in the past; however, time has again taken its toll on the numbers.

The Board recently approved new social media and photography policies. I encourage you to read them on the web site or the Museum Facebook page. 2022 will bring a few changes in the Museum hours. One of them will be an automatic Museum closure when a level one snow emergency is declared for Licking County. Be sure and call the Museum before you travel a long distance to visit. Hours have been posted on the website and Facebook pages and will be published in the Heisey News.

I see the numbers for Covid are running high again in Ohio. HCA uses the guidelines established by the CDC and the Ohio Health Department. As you know, the guidelines fluctuate, so please bear with us as we try to protect our staff and our visitors.

Thanks again to all who have supported the Museum and HCA throughout the years, and I look forward to working with you in '22.

Charlie

Words from Your Director-Curator

I trust that your 2022 has started off very well and that your 2021 ended on a “Heisey” high note. All of us here at “glass central” wish you the very best in the New Year and look forward to seeing many of you over the next 12 months!

By the time the majority of you will receive this issue, we will be well on the path of the Spring Auction catalog production. I spent the close of 2021 logging in a great deal of glass and always look forward to the two weekends of marathon sessions unpacking, cleaning, inspecting, identifying, cataloging, photographing, and re-packing that marks the start of our Heisey auction calendar. There is a process, well refined with experience and time, that always amazes me in its productivity and speed with what starts out like an endless supply of boxes to explore and discover. We work hard, learn many things and always enjoy the fellowship of other Heisey enthusiasts. Each person has their role to play and the knowledge, skill, and dedication of volunteers is one of the best parts of HCA. We will look forward to sharing some of the action and glass in future issues.

*A long-sought treasure found!
Thanks to this year's Percy and

I spoke of a “Heisey” high note in my opening and do hope that, for most of you, there was a fine gift of our favorite glassware over the holidays and/or you gave someone that special item of sparkling Heisey. As many of you who know me understand, I also have expectations that your holiday tables were set with Heisey and enjoyed by all who had the opportunity. For the first time in 40 years, I was away from home for Christmas and did not set a table featuring our beloved glass. I think this lack of an outlet was one of the reasons that I may have enjoyed setting the Museum’s Christmas table even more than usual.

Santa was very good to me this year, even if I will be paying him off for some time to come! The original part of my home was built in 1858 and had, at the beginning, oil lamps for lighting. Since childhood I have had a fascination and love of these lamps and for more years than I care to count I have desired an early Heisey lamp of this style for this part of my residence. There was an addition done in the early 1920s to my dwelling. For that area I was finally able, a few years ago, to find from Kim Carlisle a wonderful Aristocrat Electro-Portable, (see historical ad on page 25) but an affordable and simple oil lamp remained elusive. Then came the mini show in the lower level of our Percy and Vivian Moore week-end celebrations last October. There it was, the lamp I had always wanted! I knew that I could not afford it, so why even ask the price? (We all know how that goes, do we not?) Pictured above, you will see my long sought-after and prized oil lamp. I want to thank the fine dealer for actually finding this item and for putting up with my many visits to view it before making my inquiries.

Let us all celebrate and be positive about our Heisey in 2022 and do all we are able to make our fifty-first year the best yet!

In Thanks and with Anticipation,

Treasurer's Report

By Andy Baldus

2022 Budget – The 2022 budget is still a work in progress and not completed in time for this newsletter. Look for it in next month's newsletter.

Cash Position – Our cash position remains sufficient to sustain us through the beginning of 2022. The first quarter of the year is traditionally slow for revenues, but we still pay bills including one of the major expenses for the year, the insurance bill.

AmazonSmile – This year we have received a total of $211 from the Amazon Smile program, up from the 2020 donation of $87. The AmazonSmile Foundation donates to HCA 0.5% of the price of eligible items purchased by a user who has selected HCA as their organization. See the October Newsletter for more details.

Paycheck Protection Program Update – The HCA applied for and received Paycheck Protection Program (PPP) loans in 2020 and 2021. The purpose of the loans was to support payroll and bring our Guest Member Services Associates back to work during financially uncertain times due to COVID. I am happy to report that, like the 2020 loan, our 2021 loan has been forgiven.

Heisey Cabin Holds a Special Place in Heisey History

*Editor’s Note: The following article was reprinted from the Heisey News of January 1981. It is taken from a “The Columbus Dispatch” article written by Gordon Kuster in 1931. Added to the article are photos and descriptions from a October 1991 follow-up article from the Heisey News by Susan Pennington, as well as additional photos from the HCA archives. ### A Log with a Past and a Future

By Gordon Kuster
Re-Printed from the Columbus Dispatch, 1931

Everything in the realm of objects with age, from the old-time, home-fashioned met block to the highly-polished and impressive highboys, have interested Wilson Heisey for the past 30 years. In that time, he has acquitted probably the most comprehensive collection in central Ohio.

Scarcely an object used in the past 100 years but that it has found its way into his possession. Even vehicles that have long since passed from existence or utility are among his souvenirs of the past.

And the motivation for collecting he has found is a desire to preserve these objects so that future generations might not lose sight of the fine old things which pioneer Americans used in fighting the frontier and conquering new lands for the present generation to enjoy.

That's what makes Mr. Heisey's collection interesting. He is head of the Heisey Glass Co., at Newark, and one entire portion of the factory is devoted as storage space for his old vehicles and other antiques, which are not yet restored to their original utility. However, thousands of them have been restored.

To see the results of his untiring efforts to preserve America's past history into the form of these old vehicles, implements and household furnishings is a revelation even to one accustomed to visiting museums and homes of antique collectors.

Among Mr. Heisey's acquisitions, the old vehicles are perhaps the most unusual, although the scores of various kinds of stirrups, saddles, oxen yoke and harness add appreciably to its value.

As a suitable setting for his antique furnishings, he also reverted to the past. He scoured the countryside and finally purchased seven log cabins, representing more than 700 years in age. These he dismantled and transported to a beautifully wooded site about 15 miles east of Newark and a mile north of Route no. 16, where huge boulders are jutting out of the grassy hillside to form a picturesque background for the "composite" cabin.

Taking the road to Baughman Park, heading north from Route No. 16, the motorist climbs a steep hill and at the top finds the Baughman Park road cutting back to the right. At the left is a lane which leads to the Heisey cabin. It is located on a level spot in the hillside, the front porch overlooking a magnificent view of the rolling countryside and the back, a spacious and well-kept yard with benches and jars and two dog houses made from huge hollowed-out stumps set endwise and with the door scrolled out of the side. In the back also, and at the right of the lane entering the grounds, is a spring flowing from the natural rock. Here Mr. Heisey has built a protecting arch for this spring and a rock wall and stepping stones leading to it.

The cabin was the site for many of the Heisey national sales meetings in the 30s through the late 50s.

This additional cabin was used for small parties and as extra guest quarters.

The main cabin required two years for building. Stones for the terraces were taken from the old canal locks at Trinway.

There also is another cabin, a smaller one, located farther up the hillside. The larger one is used by Mr. Heisey for a country home and for entertaining guests and the smaller one for additional sleeping quarters and smaller parties.

There are five large fireplaces in the main cabin, two upstairs and three down, the one in the downstairs living room being extra large. On either side of it are double Dutch ovens and on all five are sufficient antique ladles and other kitchen utensils of the bygone ages to cook an ample meal for a large number of guests.

A novel feature of the cabin is the treatment of the lights. In each room, electric lights have been wired into the center of the loops in oxen yokes and the entire yoke suspended from the ceiling.

One of the most unusual pieces in Mr. Heisey's possession is a solid iron sea chest which is in the upstairs hall. The lid remains open, revealing the intricate mechanism of 13 different locks, all of which are operated by a huge key fitting into the keyhole secluded by a false covering. Built about 1770, the chest was purchased by Mr. Heisey in Baltimore.

In this same hall is his collections of stirrups numbering nearly 100. Doors from this hallway lead to two bedrooms, one at the west, equipped with a fireplace, and the master bedroom at the south. To the east is the upstairs living room and in the east wing a dormitory with a half-dozen four-poster double beds, each with its antique quilt.

The upstairs living room is equipped with a settee before the fireplace, a reading table, ladder back chairs, old time rockers, spinning wheel and hooked rugs – a cozy place for an afternoon with your favorite book or magazine. The beamed ceiling in the downstairs living room adds an intriguing touch to the general atmosphere. Beside the fireplace are two large candle moulds and on top of the mantle reposes an old coffee grinder, numerous pewter pieces and earthenware.

The dining room is located at the east end downstairs and at the west end is a den, or writing room, furnished with antique desks and unusual type of bookkeeper's stool used a century ago.

The stairway to the second floor in the cabin is made of solid hewn logs, while the stairway to the cool basement is made of stones.

The cabin itself is a veritable museum, containing as it does, samples of early American life in such an array it dazzles the visitor. Antiques run the full gamut of types, including Sheraton, Chippendale, Duncan-Phyfe, Hepplewhite, early American and others. Pictures also are antique and give a touch of quaintness which has a distinct allure.

Such is the cabin which is visited weekly by numerous persons who have heard of Mr. Heisey's collection and have come perhaps a thousand miles to see it.

At his factory in Newark, Mr. Heisey has a window taken from an old post office. It shows a pony express rider etched in the glass.

"I found it in Elizabethtown, Kentucky, in a saloon operated by a man known as 'Jake,' Mr. Heisey told me. "They claim that Jake was the only man who ever socked Carrie Nation when she was crusading against saloon. She came in to tear his up and he hit her squarely on the jaw."

Another piece in his collection is a stove from the old Marianne furnace east of Newark, one of the few remaining ones turned out by his establishment.

Everything with age and history behind it interests Mr. Heisey. He has traveled extensively and is always on the alert for objects of value. He explains his hobby with a convincing argument: "There have to be so many people," he said, "who are jackasses. If we didn't have them, then we wouldn't have any pure-bred horses, or cattle or any of the original strains preserved. It's the same with these things (pointing o his collection) if someone didn't save them, they'd be destroyed and no one in the future would have them."

Following this principle, his collection stands as a rare exemplification of one man's devotion to a purpose.

Recalling A Historic Club Tour

Editor's Note: Many thanks to Ginny Marsh for providing us with this event information from 2002. Ginny continues to be a fantastic resource for historical information about Heisey glass and HCA.

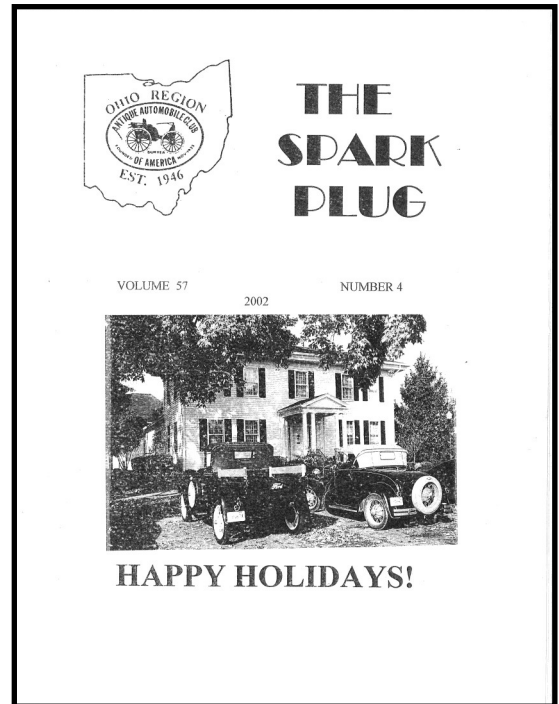

On a Ohio Region Fall Tour in 2002, Ginny and Dick Marsh and 74 others took an extensive tour of Central Ohio on October 18-20 2002. On Friday they went to the Longaberger Homestead for a wander around and shopping, followed by a tour of the then newly renovated Midland Theatre in downtown Newark. On Saturday the group drove the backwoods of Licking County to picturesque Granville, Ohio followed by more backwoods to the Old National Road/Cumberland Trail and the famous Dawes Arboretum.

From there the tour headed to Tom & Tina Headley's garage and their wonderful pedal car collection. Next stop was the Bowerston Shale Company to tour the brick plant and view brick sculptures by Mr. Moran.

The next drive took them to the car collection of Mr. Ray Holtz. There one of the highlights of the event was seeing an actual prototype Stout Scarab Experimental (see sidebar below). It was this car that was purported to have the first wraparound windshield and it was made at the Heisey Glass company!

After that stop the travelers went on to The Works in Newark before wrapping up the event with a tour of the Heisey Museum with Ginny and Dick serving as guides. What an amazing, beautiful, historical tour. Thanks for sharing, Ginny!

A Design Ahead of It's Time: After WWII, Stout Scarab designer William B. Bushnell returned to his original Scarab concept, this time constructing what he called the Stout Scarab Experimental, also called the Project Y or Y-46. The styling was much more conventional than the original Scarabs, with normal sedan styling and two conventional doors; the construction was, however, more radical. Project Y was likely to have been the first car built with a fiberglass composite body, Stout anticipated modern automobiles by using the material to implement monocoque frame-in-body construction (now called a uni-body construction). It also featured air suspension, likely transferred from Stout's original Scarab with a wraparound windshield. It is this part of the Stout Scarab Prototype that is believed to have been made by Heisey Glass. If so, it means that Heisey took part in the development of windshield technology used in virtually every car manufactured throughout the world today. Our team at the Heisey Museum are interested in any information our members might have about this remarkable Heisey partnership and design achievement. Please send your information to: Heisey News Editorial, attn. Kirk, 169 West Church Street, Newark, Ohio 43055 or email to: newsletter@heiseymuseum.org

HEISEY STUDY CLUB NEWS - Great Plains

Great Plains Heisey Club News Submitted by Kathy Files, Secretary

The first Great Plains Heisey Club meeting with a program was held in November 1999 at the home of Pat and Rex Lucke. How great it was to return 22 years later to their gracious home all decked out in the spirit of Christmas. Multiple Christmas trees with unique ornaments filled the house.

Thirty one members and three guests made for a big group of Heisey devotees. A wonderful lunch buffet featuring several of Pat's traditional recipes was enjoyed by all.

President John Mock convened our meeting and introduced our guests. We attended to 'passing the hat' for lunch (with the proceeds generously donated to our treasury by the hosts), 'banker' Jen sold raffle tickets, and the Secretary's minutes and Treasurer's reports were approved. GPHC dues for 2022 were collected from those present. Nominees for 2022 Club officer positions were made – it looks like the same team will be elected in March 2022. Our outstanding Program Director, Eric Tankesley-Clarke, was unanimously approved to continue in that capacity next year.

Next year's meeting schedule, usually on the second Saturday, was tentatively approved:

- March – Mary and Gregg Ankeny, IA
- May – Chris and Lehi Kansas City, MO
- July – Ande and Greg hosting in Wellington, KS in conjunction with the National Depression Glass Convention
- September – Donna Shawnee, KS
- November – Trudy and John Omaha, NE

A report was given on the recent Dave Spahr Fall Select Auction in Newark – 11 of our members were in attendance with Mary, Kathy, Tom, and Caleb-Michael among the volunteers helping to make the event successful. Bev requested special mention be made thanking Caleb-Michael Files and Doug Olson for the intense hours they spent handling online bids in this first attempt to have a three-way auction of online, in person, and absentee bidders.

Marci donated a box full of Heisey for our raffle and Donna was the lucky winner.

“Martha's Moment” by Trudy was a beautiful winter wonderland display on a coffee table with white linens and decorative white holiday items interspersed with Heisey pieces. Hard to explain but dramatic to see.

Eric and Rex presented a program a little different than our norm – a conversation detailing how Pat and Rex started collecting Heisey – and a few of their other collectibles. Rex explained how they were drawn to things 'people lived with' they have collected since the early days of their marriage and through many moves caused by Rex's work. It was an interesting dialogue and Rex displayed some Heisey pieces that were unique and special to them. Their first Heisey purchases were a Ring Band table set in Custard and a Prince of Wales spoon with red flash trim. Rex said they have 'chased after' Heisey Animals, Candy Jars, Candlesticks, and rare pieces or pieces with elaborate cuttings. Rex offered some good advice on pieces they missed out on buying: "Get over it and move on." After viewing their lovely home filled with their collections, period furniture, and Folk Art, it doesn't appear they have missed out on many pieces.

Following are some examples from the extensive Show and Tell:

- Bucky: Pillows Bon Bon/crimped
- Ande & Greg: Winged Scroll cruet/Emerald with unusual green stopper
- Lynn & Sherrill: Sunflower floral bowl
- LaDon & Bill: Empress comport w/elaborate cutting; Old Sandwich juice/Sahara and oyster cocktail/Cobalt; Triplex candlestick w/deep cutting on base
- Kathy & Tom: Carolina goblet w/Osage etching; Monte Cristo wine w/Olympiad etching; Wigwam tumbler
- Trudy & John: Winged Scroll and Kalonyal covered butters/Crystal; Cathedral vase w/cutting
- Marcie: Old Williamsburg 2 light candelabra with Amber stain
- Eric: Coleport beverage glass/Dawn w/elaborate grey cutting; Cobel cocktail shaker/2 qt./Naval Arms engraving; Puritan gardenia bowl w/Heisey engraving; #312 Visible Cooking Ware egg shirrer; Marshall decanter/footed/1 pt./Churchill cutting
- Pat & Rex: Juniper tumbler; 4 sizes of Cylinder candlesticks; Cobel decanter with Congressional Country Club golf etching; Jewel candlesticks/Pr.; Doe Head bookends/Pr.; Tumble Up set w/elaborate signed Max Seidel cutting; Heron ball vase w/signed Emil Krall cutting

A successful auction was conducted to raise funds for our treasury. The top seller was donated by Pat & Rex: #15 Duck/Flamingo in Crystal floral block

The meeting was adjourned for the pleasure of enjoying 3 delicious cakes for dessert. A really special finale for our last GPHC meeting of 2021. We were reminded guests are always welcome and all were wished a wonderful holiday season while being safe and staying healthy.

North Carolina Heisey Study Club News

Holiday Party

The North Carolina Heisey Study Club held their November 13, 2021 meeting in a log cabin located at the Clapp Family Farm outside of Greensboro, NC. Derek Smith of the North Carolina Study Club hosted the meeting in a picturesque setting, with a roaring fireplace, decorations for Christmas throughout the cabin, and tables set with different Christmas scenes.

A festive group was in attendance

There were 22 members present and 4 guests. The guests were: Jack Burriss, Director of the HCA museum, Walter Ludwig, Former Curator of the HCA museum, Kelly Adams, guest of William and Sylvia Riddle, and Mike Perva, son of Ed and Virginia Perva.

Former curator Walter Ludwig spoke about the Heisey Cabin in the Woods photo and 4 Stems designed but ultimately never produced by Heisey.

Walter Ludwig showed a picture of the Heisey Cabin in the Woods, which was originally 5 cabins put together. The Cabin is located 15 miles east of Newark, OH. Jack and Walter told the story how the salesmen had a meeting in the house, twice a year for a weekend to discuss new pieces of glass. In the 1930s, salesmen were listened to for their input on which glass would sell. Salesmen selected the glass that would go into production. Walter showed four stems that never went into production because of being too expensive or irrational to produce. The cabin is still in use today for different venues.

Jack Burriss presented a report from the Museum that a lot of repairs were taking place and stated that the Study Clubs were the backbone of the organization and that they are greatly appreciated.

The North Carolina Heisey Study Club held its annual Silent Glass Auction with abundant Heisey Glass available for bidding. Among the Heisey Glass were Sunflower 15" Torte Plate #7000, Earnshaw Syrup, Peerless Bitter Bottle, Continental Salt and Pepper #339, Cut Block 5" Flared Nappy, 2 Peerless Candlesticks 9", 7" Muffin Plate Moongleam, Plantation 11" 3 Part Relish, Beaded Swag Pitcher, Waverly Gardenia Bowl 13" #1519, 4-4 1/2 oz. Yeoman Soda glasses in Sahara, 6 Twist Nappies in Flamingo, Ribbed Octagon, Cream and Sugar in Flamingo to name a few.

Delicious food which included meats, chicken, salads, vegetables, baked beans, potatoes and, of course, the tasty desserts were set up for the meeting.

HEISEY COLLECTORS OF TEXAS STUDY CLUB

The Heisey Collectors of Texas Study Club met for our final meeting in November at the home of Mike and Cindy Morgan. After a delicious lunch our business meeting began at 1:00, twelve members were in attendance. Our meeting was followed by a program on the history of and the best way to assemble the #300 Old Williamsburg 5-light Candelabra.

Our club is very proud of our accomplishments this year despite the challenges resulting from the pandemic. We were able to continue meeting virtually and even participate in virtual show-n-tell events.

Our club successfully created and published the 2022 Heisey Collectors of America calendars, sold in the museum gift shop.
